AN UNPLEASANT SURPRISE FOR A COLOR TELEVISION BUYER

The box Lt. Jay H. Fletcher of the San Rafael Police Department is opening (left) looks as if it should contain a color television set. But the carton turned out to hold only a broken round picture tube under styrofoam (center) along with some concrete, (right) to produce the desired weight. The unfortunate buyer, Mitchell S. Case, of 704 San Pedro Road, told police he purchased the box, containing what he thought was a Zenith color television, for $120. He bought it from two men at a San Rafael service station at 9:30 p.m. yesterday, according to police. The men told Case the "set" had been given to them by a friend who worked in a warehouse. Officers said the men had asked $200 for the phony television, but sold it for the $120 Case offered. The men left before he had a chance to open the box. Police reported there have been several similar television frauds in Marin in recent months. (Photos by Alfred M. Arn)

Rogers Quits Kissinger To Replace Him

Announcement Made At Press Conference

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger was named by President Nixon today to be new secretary of state to replace William P. Rogers, the last original member of his Cabinet.

Rogers will be replaced by the former Harvard professor who, as the President's national security adviser, set the stage for Nixon's trips to China and the Soviet Union and headed the negotiations for the end of the Indochina war.

In a statement leading off his first news conference since March 15, Nixon said: "It is with a deep sense of not only personal regret but official regret that I accept the resignation of William Rogers as secretary of state," effective Sept. 3.

Nixon said Kissinger would continue to serve as assistant to the President for national security affairs, which he said would be to achieve "a closer coordination between national security affairs, the NSC (National Security Council), and the State Department."

Officials in Washington said Rogers was quitting under pressure, but Nixon said "He wanted to leave at the conclusion of the first four years and he agreed to stay on."

Nixon also said today he could not recall L. Patrick Gray using the term "mortally wounded" in telling him three weeks after the Watergate break-in that top presidential aides were not cooperating with the investigation.

At a nationally televised news conference on the lawn of the Western White House, Nixon said he instructed Gray during their telephone conversation July 6, 1972, "to go forward with a full press on the investigation."

"It seemed to me that that was adequate," Nixon said.

In reply to a question, he said he was not surprised that public opinion polls show a majority of Americans believed he should release tape recordings of his conversations about Watergate with his staff.

One of the first questions Nixon was asked was why he did not respond more vigorously when, according to Gray, acting FBI director at the time, he cautioned the President that top aides were trying to "mortally wound" him.

Nixon said he could not recall whether Gray used that strong term. He said the gist of Gray's

A Water Decision On Developments

North Marin County Water District directors advised the Novato City Council last night that in about two or three weeks the district will have to stop agreeing to provide water to new developments.

Within that period the district expects to use up all the available reserve for service commitments, Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson reported at a joint meeting of the council and board.

Nelson said the district has reserve for only 50 more equivalent units, a formula based on various types of housing with a single-family unit rated at 1.05 equivalent units, townhouses and apartments less.

When the 50 units are committed, new service commitments will be limited to connections for fire service, new connections to existing distribution systems with a meter size not larger than one-inch and connections that become available by default of agreement holders.

Then the district has estimated it will have no new water available until next summer and then only on contingencies.

Nelson estimated that water for 365 equivalent units may be available next summer, and that after that new water agreements would have to be deferred until January 1976, "just ahead of the time when the Russian River aqueduct expansion is operational."

The Novato City Council, which is in the process of putting into effect its growth limit of 500 dwelling units a year, was seeking information about the availability of water for development in the next few years.

Area Plan Unit Eyed In Novato

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County Supervisors were told yesterday the Novato area is being considered for the county's first "area planning commission" to oversee coordination and enforcement of city and county general plans. (Another board of supervisors story, page 3.)

County counsel Douglas J. Maloney and Planning Director Werner Von Gundell were to meet today with Novato planning officials to discuss creation of the new planning agency and its powers.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, whose Fifth District includes the area under discussion, told fellow supervisors that many details have to be worked out but Novato officials support the idea.

He told the Independent-Journal the proposed "area planning commission" could take several forms but the one most likely would replace the county and city planning commissions.

He said the city council and board of supervisors would retain ultimate control of their respective areas.

Baptiste, who has been working closely with city officials on the idea, said such a commission may be easier to form in the Novato area because both the city and county have adopted similar general plans.

Besides general planning matters, the new commission would be charged with overseeing growth limitation policies in both general plans.

How those policies are to be enforced was to be a main topic of discussion at today's brainstorming session between the planners and County Counsel Maloney.

Maloney told supervisors his office has given a high priority to solving legal questions involved in trying to control population growth — such as property rights, tax laws and social goals.

"The courts are very leery of population controls," he explained. "The courts have said over and over that if the intent of these controls is to exclude the poor, the brown and the SACRAMENTO — Virtually all undeveloped land along Inverness Ridge has been targeted for addition to Tomales Bay State Park.

Various holdings totaling some 1,000 acres are expected to be bought by the state Parks and Recreation Department under a $1,125,000 appropriation in the new budget.

According to the office of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, the department already is appraising lands along the ridge and down its eastern slope and soon will begin negotiations for purchases.

A priority list of parcels to be bought was worked out Thursday among representatives of the assemblyman, department, conservationist organizations and federal government. Bagley declined to disclose the list on the ground its publication could interfere with negotiations for the lands.

A spokesman for the assemblyman said the department may spread the appropriation further if some property owners agree to sell half of their land and donate the rest for a tax deduction. Some of the land was donated to conservation organizations, which will charge the state only for their costs of handling the transfer.

Settlement Of Canal Fight Nears

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Years of effort by property owners along the San Rafael Canal to settle boundary disputes with the state apparently are about to pay off, but not without at least one more delay.

The key to negotiations to settle title problems will be the State Lands Commission's approval of a survey of the canal. Approval had been scheduled for Aug. 30, but was postponed by the commission staff to the Sept. 27 monthly meeting.

The delay was to give title insurance companies time to check the survey, according to Richard S. Golden, the commission's assistant executive officer.

The disputes resulted from a past straightening of the formerly meandering canal. The state never gave up title to the old canal, thus property owners have been unable to develop or sell their holdings because state claims cloud their titles.

The years of effort to settle the issue included argument over the need and cost of the survey and various special bills passed to force the commission's staff to settle. The staff, however, insisted on the survey, saying it was unconstitutional to "give away" public land. A survey also was needed to protect property owners, it said.

The dispute seemed near settlement over recent years, but the commission's staff repeatedly found flaws in proposed agreements.

Now, for the first time, the commission will have before it a survey and its staff's recommendation for its approval.

As reported to commissioners by Golden, "it appears that the title problems along San Rafael Canal can be resolved by negotiation in the near future and that there is no foreseeable bar to the resolution of the title problems . . ."

His report noted 74 parcels along the canal are involved. Much of the problem, he added, "was created by the 1907 subdivision of East San Rafael, which apparently ignored the

Sausalito's Tax Rate Stays Same

The Sausalito City Council last night set a tax rate of $1.485 per $100 assessed valuation for the present fiscal year, a rate unchanged for the past three years. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 9.)

Broken down, the rate will include 90 cents to finance various departments through the general fund, 16.2 cents for library operations, 5 cents for a library building fund, 20.3 cents for a retirement fund, and 17 cents for bond redemption and interest.

The budget is approximately 12.2 per cent higher than this year's $1,776,646, but the tax rate remains the same due to a 2 per cent hike, up $35.4 million, in assessed valuation of property.

Novato Sets Budget; Tax Rate The Same

The Novato City Council last night adopted a $3,468,480 budget and set the city tax rate at 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the same as last year's rate. (Other Novato City Council stories, page 10.)

The budget, up $768,480 from last year, includes $295,000 in federal revenue sharing funds, according to finance director L. H. Koehl.

The breakdown on the tax rate is 33 cents for the operating fund, 30 cents for capital improvements, 31 cents for parks and recreation and one cent for bond redemption.

The council voted 3-to-1 to transfer $250,000 from general funds reserves to the civic center acquisition and development fund.

Councilman George C. Quesada dissented. Councilman David Price Jones, on vacation, was absent.

The council earlier set Sept. 25 for a public hearing on acquisition of property for a civic center, and Quesada said he preferred to wait until a public hearing before transferring the $250,000.

Koehl reported the civic center fund already totals $250,000 and the transfer would bring it to $500,000.

The council also adopted budgets and tax rates for the following special districts, which finance parkway maintenance:

Monte Maria Community Services District, $1,800 with a tax rate of 3 cents, down 9 cents; San Marin Park Maintenance District, $20,900, 4 cents, down 9 cents, and Lynwood Maintenance District, $1,730, 6 cents, no change.

New Gyroscopes Due For Skylab

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Skylab 2 astronauts today began inspecting a fresh set of vital stabilization devices they will install on their next spacewalk Friday to assure that the space station stays on a steady course.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma asked flight controllers to give them detailed instructions on keeping the eight room spacehouse stable while they replace six of the nine gyroscopes.

Sanity Opinion Doubts Admitted

By BILL ROBERTS

A San Anselmo psychiatrist conceded on cross-examination yesterday that there are some doubts in his opinion that Brent William Bedayan was legally sane when he killed three people.

Dr. Martin G. Blinder, who testified at Bedayan's trial that the defendant knew he was breaking the law and was aware of the consequences of the killings, made the admission of doubt under cross-examination by Dep. Public Defender Frank J. Cox.

Blinder said any medical opinion includes some doubt and this case is no exception. "I would be a damn fool if I didn't feel the weight of the doubts," he said.

But he said his doubt does not impare his ability to decide that Bedayan was aware that he was breaking the law and was aware of the consequences of the killings.

Cox has built his defense to the murders of Melvin J. and Ruth E. Schallock and their son, Daniel, around witnesses who have said Bedayan could not be found legally sane. Blinder was the first expert to make the opposite finding.

Although other experts have testified Bedayan lost control of his actions at the time of the murders in Mill Valley in March, Blinder said whatever control Bedayan had was present at the time of the killings.

The psychiatrist granted that the second and third killings may have stemmed from the momentum of the first, but he would not believe a total loss of control.

Blinder, who was a rebuttal witness for Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, noted that he is not dealing with a machine in examining Bedayan's mind and that there are limitations to his professional ability to make diagnosis.

The doctor admitted that Bedayan is probably not consciously lying or trying to fool anyone in the delusions which he has explained following the murders. Bedayan feels more comfortable with the thought that he was doing a public service in the killings rather than avenging personal anger, so he has expressed the delusions, the psychiatrist said.

Blinder said nobody can ever be sure which of Bedayan's versions of what went on in his mind the night of the murders

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Communist Benefit?

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Western diplomats said today the Communist Pathet Lao would try to benefit from the unsuccessful coup attempt against the government of Prince Souvanna Phouma by demanding more Pathet Lao troops in proposed Laotian security forces.

The sources said, however, that Souvanna, the neutralist premier, had been strengthened by his swift defeat of the rebel rightwing generals who launched the coup from Thailand.

In Bangkok, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn told a news conference any rebels who fled Laos to Thailand would be brought to trial.

Chile Violence

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Opponents and supporters of Chile's Marxist government set barricades ablaze near the Presidential Palace early today in the aftermath of fighting with guns, slingshots, rocks and fists.

Riot police fired tear gas cannisters and water cannons throughout much of the day yesterday in a futile drive to break up the violent clashes between rival bands roaming the capital.

The Central First Aid Station reported 10 persons in grave condition suffering gunshot wounds and a teen-age girl hit in the face by an exploding tear gas grenade.

Cambodian Fighting

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Fighting edged closer to Phnom Penh on two sides yesterday but exiled Cambodian leader Prince Nordom Sihanouk in a report from Peking said his rebel troops will mount no attack on the capital in the near future.

Field reports said rebel troops, who apparently regrouped and kept out of sight for four days after the Aug. 15 U.S. bomb halt, moved in to shell a government base 10 miles north of Phnom Penh Tuesday and battled Cambodian soldiers seven miles south of the capital.

Israel Warning

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned yesterday that despite world opinion and international law, Israel will strike at Palestinian guerrillas even if it means invading Arab countries to do so.

Dayan accused Lebanon of sheltering "schools for manufacturing murderers" and said Israel will do all it can to end Arab guerrilla operations despite condemnations by international organizations.

In New York, a U.N. spokesman said Secretary General Kurt Waldheim will confer next Monday in Geneva with U.N. Middle East envoy Gunnar V. Jarring. Waldheim leaves Sunday for a one-week fact-finding trip to the Middle East.

Dayan told a world conference of Jewish lawyers and jurists in Jerusalem, "We cannot rely on international law to be respected or the Lebanese government to take care of them, at least in bringing them to trial and putting them in jail."

President's Homes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There will be a new attempt in Congress to impose controls on federal funds spent on security measures at any President's private homes.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said yesterday he would offer an amendment to an omnibus appropriations bill which carries funds for the White House, Treasury, Secret Service and other agencies.

The amendment, which will be introduced after Congress returns from a recess following Labor Day, would require advance approval by the Senate and House appropriations committees for security provisions at presidential retreats.

Women's Anniversary

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Women across the nation plan to hold liberation fairs, conduct boycotts and collect signatures this weekend in a double-barrelled demonstration calling attention to the Equal Rights Amendment and the state of the economy.

The occasion is the 53rd anniversary of the 19th amendment to the constitution. It went into effect Aug. 26, 1920, and gave women the right to vote.

The weekend activities are being spearheaded by the National Organization for Women and its 500 chapters but also includes other women's liberation groups.

Church Bombings

BELFAST (UPI) — Militants blew up two Roman Catholic churches early today in a pair of bombings a half-hour apart in a small Northern Ireland town.

An army spokesman said Protestant extremists apparently set off the blasts in the town of Ballymena, 20 miles northwest of Belfast.

The spokesman said there were no casualties, but the two churches, about five miles from each other, were badly damaged by the explosions.

Dollar Climbs

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar resumed its month-long climb on European money markets today and the price of gold dropped.

China, meanwhile, revalued its currency today for the tenth time since June, moving it up 2.1 per cent to 37.71. The Hong Kong currency is closely tied to the U.S. dollar.

The rebounding American currency opened at higher rates in Zurich, Paris and London.

Investigation Boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Investigation of the controversial antitrust settlement between International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) and the government by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has been given a boost by the White House.

The White House decided yesterday to give Cox access to a special file on ITT, which was part of the office data left behind by John W. Dean III after he was ousted as President Nixon's legal counsel.

Guerrilla Ambush

SAIGON (UPI) — Guerrillas ambushed a South Vietnamese militia patrol early today six miles from Saigon in the closest attack to the capital since the Jan. 28 cease-fire.

The South Vietnamese military command said Communists hidden in the surrounding jungle triggered a captured American claymore mine as the militiamen were passing.

The command said one militiaman was killed and five were wounded by the blast six miles northeast of Saigon.

Thailand Withdrawal

BANGKOK (UPI) — The United States may begin withdrawing some of its 45,000 troops stationed in Thailand by the end of this month, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said today.

Thanom said at his weekly news conference he believed that talks with American embassy and U.S. military officials concerning the troop reduction would resume on Friday.

Hurricane Deaths

CAMPECHE, Mexico (UPI) — Hurricane Brenda churned through southeast Mexico yesterday with winds up to 112 miles an hour, unleashing powerful rains and floods that killed two children and washed away hundreds of homes.

The fierce winds later fell off sharply and the storm appeared to be blowing itself out.

Agnew Says His Enemies Are Within

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew believes his enemies are within the administration he serves and he has struck back to silence them.

He accused Att. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and U.S. Attorney George Beall Tuesday of violating their "legal duty" to prevent news leaks.

These, he asserted, have been designed to influence the grand jury which is investigating allegations that he accepted payoffs and kickbacks from consulting engineers doing business with Maryland while he served as Baltimore county executive, governor and even vice president.

Beall denied his staff was the source of the leaks. Richardson deplored them, too, and said he was investigating, as Agnew asked, and would discipline any employe found to be the source of the "unfair and inaccurate publicity." Through a spokesman, President Nixon also decried the news leaks.

The strength of Agnew's attack supported speculation that he sees himself as the target of a personal vendetta directed by some within the administration.

He made his charges at an eight-minute appearance before reporters and television cameras in the same Executive Office Building auditorium where two weeks ago he denounced as "damned lies" the allegations against him.

Agnew was stung by a Time magazine story which quoted an unnamed Justice Department official as saying "the department has no choice" but to seek an indictment against him because "at least three witnesses have told of delivering cash payoffs to Agnew."

"I can only assume from this account that some Justice Department officials have decided to indict me in the press whether or not the evidence supports their position," Agnew said.

"This is a clear and outrageous effort to influence the outcome of possible grand jury deliberations."

Agnew refused to accept questions from reporters. This left in the air the key question about his defense: whether he will use the argument that the Constitution immunizes him from indictment unless he is first impeached and removed from office.

Actor Lou Gossett Takes Out License

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Actor Lou Gossett, 37, and hair dresser Christina Mangossing, 26, have applied for a marriage license, it was revealed yesterday.

Gosset costarred with James Garner in "Skin Game."

A REST FOR THE WEARY

Exhausted firefighters, part of a force of more than 1,100 men battling a blaze in the Eldorado National Forest near Kyburz, took a break yesterday in a safe area near Placerville. The fire is one of 13 in the West that have charred 200,000 acres and are being fought by a force of more than 10,000 Forest Service personnel and volunteers. Their efforts were aided today by overcast skies, lower temperatures and higher humidity.

More Indicted Over Agnew Dinner

ANNAPOLIS, MD. (UPI — More indictments have been returned by a county grand jury in the filing of allegedly fraudulent financial reports for a 1972 fund-raising dinner for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Walter Duckett, the Anne Arundel County state's attorney, would not say yesterday how many persons were involved, but when discussing the matter he referred several times to "they."

Duckett said he would not identify the defendants until they are arraigned, probably later this week. Raymond Thieme, the former state's attorney who initiated the investigation, said earlier he anticipated "seven or eight" indictments.

Duckett and an assistant, Martin Wolff, said the indictments charged a conspiracy in reports filed with the State Elections Board.

The investigation has centered on the loan of $50,000 by the Committee to Re-elect the President in Washington to a "Salute to Ted Agnew" dinner committee. The money allegedly was listed as having been contributed by individual donors to make the return from the event look larger. False reporting of such contributions is prohibited by Maryland law.

The false reporting was admitted by Alexander Lankler, the state Republican chairman, who testified before the grand jury without immunity.

Earlier this summer, B.H. Wharton, treasurer of the salute committee and vice president of the Maryland National Bank, was indicted by the grand jury.

The state's attorneys said the investigation of the Agnew dinner was nearly finished. They said more information would be presented at the final session of the jury Aug. 28, but that no more indictments would be returned.

Novato Moves To Upgrade Reading

The Novato Unified School District trustees last night applied for state "right to read" materials to improve the reading ability of below-par students.

Under the program, the Novato district, if selected, would be furnished materials to assist the district in its reading program with the state having the right to evaluate the Novato program at any time. There would be no cost to the local district.

Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley said that the state would give this service to 100 to 150 districts in the state.

The board named Blossom Enders, curriculum specialist, as the local education agent to handle the program.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

AGREEMENTS — Approved new interdistrict attendance policy to conform to the state law which specifies that a student's district of residence turn over to any district to which he transfers an amount equal to the home district's spending per pupil.

TELEPHONE — Approved a telephone answering service at $200 per year to put recorded messages out about the district. The vote was 6-to-1 with trustee Betty Machado against.

HOURS — Approved these daily hours for various grades: senior and junior high school, six 50-minute periods; grades 4-6, 300 minutes; grades 1-3 regular, 260 minutes, slip sessions, 240 minutes, and kindergarten, 180 minutes.

HANDBOOKS — Approved teacher and student handbooks for the two high schools and three junior high schools.

EVALUATION — Postponed for further information, changes to evaluation procedures for teachers.

POLICY — Postponed until after a study session in October, any action on adopting the policy manual for the district.

LIGHTS — Voted not to consider installing lights at Marion School playground or the Novato High School baseball field. The vote was 6-to-1 with Mrs. Machado against.

COMMITTEES — Postponed until after adoption of the policy manual, consideration of whether or not to name a board member to the traffic safety committee or the Hamilton Air Force Base Study Committee.

PERSONNEL — Accepted resignations from teachers Jeffery Gough and Linda Smith; granted maternity leave to Elizabeth Hanlein and hired Catherine Rawlinson, Josephine J. Hackworth, Terry McBroom, Bryan Oldaker, Virginia Geddes, Virginia Gill, Caroline Peterson, Christine Kilkenny, Paula Rilla and Jeffery Minick.

CLOSED — Held a closed meeting to instruct the negotiators in its sessions with the teachers.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. today for a closed meeting on mediation with teachers.

Russians Criticize Film On Last Czar

MOSCOW (UPI) — The weekly Literary Gazette said today that "reactionary forces" are behind a planned American film about the fate of the last Russian czar, Nicholas II, and his family.

Producer Diko Dimitrov recently announced plans for the film, to be called "The Escape of Nicholas and Alexandra." The theme of the proposed film is that the czar and his family escaped from Russia rather than being executed by the Bolsheviks in 1918 after the Russian revolution.

D'ARMY BAILEY
'Sobering experience'

A Radical Councilman Is Replaced

BERKELEY (UPI) — Radical city councilman D'Army Bailey took his ouster calmly Tuesday night after he was recalled by voters and replaced by William Rumford Jr., an official with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

With all 189 precincts recorded, the unofficial vote was 18,569 to remove Bailey from office and 11,548 to retain him.

Rumford, chief of police services for BART, was elected to succeed Bailey as city councilman. Both are black.

Rumford defeated Alan Wilson, a University of California law student, 17,102 to 6,344.

Bailey, 31, an attorney, termed the outcome a "sobering experience."

"The political issues I have stood on are 'vanguardish' and have not yet received mass acceptance," he said.

No Action Taken On Retirement Age Cut

Marin County Supervisors deferred action yesterday on a request from the Marin Association of Public Employees to drop the early retirement age to 50. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

Currently the earliest an employee may retire and receive immediate benefits is at age 55 after 10 years of service. Frank J. O'Connell, general manager of the employees' association, said other employee organizations support the proposal. He predicted only a few employees would take advantage of the age 50 retirement.

Supervisors took no action on the request following the advice of County Administrator John F. Barrows, who said it is a negotiable issue and should be handled by the county's negotiating team next March.

With new contracts coming up next year, "We can't give anything away now," he said, adding any additional cost to the county could only be determined by an actuarial study.

O'Connell scoffed at Barrows's remark, saying his association "isn't going to trade anything for this" since it will affect only a few

The association proposal had earlier won the unanimous support of the Marin County Retirement Board.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Jerome C. Hauke of Mill Valley to the Mill Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board and Donald Head, general manager of the Sonoma Valley Sanitation District, to the wastewater planning coordinating committee.

TAX RATE — Formally adopted a resolution setting the county's tax rate at $2.58 per $100 assessed valution for fiscal 1973-74 — a seven-cent reduction overall from last fiscal year.

DOCKS — Took no position on a developer's application to the Army Corps of Engineers to place five docks in Richardson Bay, south of Island Drive on Strawberry Point.

INTERNS — Agreed to continue the employment of four student interns for the board of supervisors at an additional cost of $3,136. Two of the interns will continue through the end of next month and the other two through next June. They are paid $2 per hour.

CONCESSION — Awarded the beverage concession for the Veterans Memorial Building to Robert H. Johnson of Fairfax. Johnson was the only bidder, though nine others were sent notices. He will give the county 10 per cent of his gross.

NEXT MEETING — Will meet Monday at 4:30 p.m. at Civic Center with the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to discuss the permanent site of the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and Center north of Novato near the Sonoma County line.

A Gas Mixture Fatal To Worker

NEWARK (AP) — An employee of an industrial gas bottling company was killed in a gas explosion here.

Authorities said Camilo Chica, 42, of Newark was working in a small building of the Matheson Co. Inc., yesterday when the fatal accident occurred.

Authorities speculated Chica inadvertently put hydochloric acid into a cylinder containing sulphur dioxide while filling gasoline cylinders.

Novato Moves To Upgrade Reading

The Novato Unified School District trustees last night applied for state "right to read" materials to improve the reading ability of below-par students.

Under the program, the Novato district, if selected, would be furnished materials to assist the district in its reading program with the state having the right to evaluate the Novato program at any time. There would be no cost to the local district.

Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley said that the state would give this service to 100 to 150 districts in the state.

The board named Blossom Enders, curriculum specialist, as the local education agent to handle the program.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

AGREEMENTS — Approved new interdistrict attendance policy to conform to the state law which specifies that a student's district of residence turn over to any district to which he transfers an amount equal to the home district's spending per pupil.

TELEPHONE — Approved a telephone answering service at $200 per year to put recorded messages out about the district. The vote was 6-to-1 with trustee Betty Machado against.

HOURS — Approved these daily hours for various grades: senior and junior high school, six 50-minute periods; grades 4-6, 300 minutes; grades 1-3 regular, 260 minutes, slip sessions, 240 minutes, and kindergarten, 180 minutes.

HANDBOOKS — Approved teacher and student handbooks for the two high schools and three junior high schools.

EVALUATION — Postponed for further information, changes to evaluation procedures for teachers.

POLICY — Postponed until after a study session in October, any action on adopting the policy manual for the district.

LIGHTS — Voted not to consider installing lights at Marion School playground or the Novato High School baseball field. The vote was 6-to-1 with Mrs. Machado against.

COMMITTEES — Postponed until after adoption of the policy manual, consideration of whether or not to name a board member to the traffic safety committee or the Hamilton Air Force Base Study Committee.

PERSONNEL — Accepted resignations from teachers Jeffery Gough and Linda Smith; granted maternity leave to Elizabeth Hanlein and hired Catherine Rawlinson, Josephine J. Hackworth, Terry McBroom, Bryan Oldaker, Virginia Geddes, Virginia Gill, Caroline Peterson, Christine Kilkenny, Paula Rilla and Jeffery Minick.

CLOSED — Held a closed meeting to instruct the negotiators in its sessions with the teachers.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. today for a closed meeting on mediation with teachers.

Russians Criticize Film On Last Czar

MOSCOW (UPI) — The weekly Literary Gazette said today that "reactionary forces" are behind a planned American film about the fate of the last Russian czar, Nicholas II, and his family.

Producer Diko Dimitrov recently announced plans for the film, to be called "The Escape of Nicholas and Alexandra." The theme of the proposed film is that the czar and his family escaped from Russia rather than being executed by the Bolsheviks in 1918 after the Russian revolution.

D'ARMY BAILEY

A Radical Councilman Is Replaced

BERKELEY (UPI) — Radical city councilman D'Army Bailey took his ouster calmly Tuesday night after he was recalled by voters and replaced by William Rumford Jr., an official with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

With all 189 precincts recorded, the unofficial vote was 18,569 to remove Bailey from office and 11,548 to retain him.

Rumford, chief of police services for BART, was elected to succeed Bailey as city councilman. Both are black.

Rumford defeated Alan Wilson, a University of California law student, 17,102 to 6,344.

Bailey, 31, an attorney, termed the outcome a "sobering experience."

"The political issues I have stood on are 'vanguardish' and have not yet received mass acceptance," he said.

No Action Taken On Retirement Age Cut

Marin County Supervisors deferred action yesterday on a request from the Marin Association of Public Employees to drop the early retirement age to 50. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

Currently the earliest an employee may retire and receive immediate benefits is at age 55 after 10 years of service. Frank J. O'Connell, general manager of the employees' association, said other employee organizations support the proposal. He predicted only a few employees would take advantage of the age 50 retirement.

Supervisors took no action on the request following the advice of County Administrator John F. Barrows, who said it is a negotiable issue and should be handled by the county's negotiating team next March.

With new contracts coming up next year, "We can't give anything away now," he said, adding any additional cost to the county could only be determined by an actuarial study.

O'Connell scoffed at Barrows's remark, saying his association "isn't going to trade anything for this" since it will affect only a few

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Jerome C. Hauke of Mill Valley to the Mill Valley Flood Control Zone Advisory Board and Donald Head, general manager of the Sonoma Valley Sanitation District, to the wastewater planning coordinating committee.

TAX RATE — Formally adopted a resolution setting the county's tax rate at $2.58 per $100 assessed valution for fiscal 1973-74 — a seven-cent reduction overall from last fiscal year.

DOCKS — Took no position on a developer's application to the Army Corps of Engineers to place five docks in Richardson Bay, south of Island Drive on Strawberry Point.

INTERNS — Agreed to continue the employment of four student interns for the board of supervisors at an additional cost of $3,136. Two of the interns will continue through the end of next month and the other two through next June. They are paid $2 per hour.

CONCESSION — Awarded the beverage concession for the Veterans Memorial Building to Robert H. Johnson of Fairfax. Johnson was the only bidder, though nine others were sent notices. He will give the county 10 per cent of his gross.

NEXT MEETING — Will meet Monday at 4:30 p.m. at Civic Center with the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to discuss the permanent site of the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and Center north of Novato near the Sonoma County line.

Teamsters Drop Some Contracts

ARVIN, Calif (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons has invalidated contracts negotiated since Aug. 9 with 30 California grape growers, but United Farm Workers Union President Cesar Chavez is not satisfied.

"There's nothing new in this," Chavez said yesterday. His UFW once had contracts with the grape growers, but when they expired during the summer and Chavez called a strike, the growers signed new contracts with the Teamsters.

A bitter struggle between the two unions has ensued. Two UFW members were killed last week and thousands of others arrested while picketing the growers who signed with the Teamsters. Chavez was in Arvin yesterday for the funeral of one of those killed.

Fitzsimmons sent letters to the growers yesterday saying that his union no longer has any "interest in organizing your employes in the vineyards in and around Delano, Calif." But his action did not affect more than 30 contracts the Teamsters signed away from the UFW before Aug. 9. Those agreements are the subject of the peace discussions.

Chavez was unhappy about the Teamsters contracts still in effect and accused the independent union of bad faith in a similar situation three years ago when it agreed to seek a cancellation of contracts signed with lettuce growers in the Salinas area. The pacts are still in force, he said.

Chavez also said the grape growers do not intend to give up the contracts despite the fact the Teamsters say they have been invalidated.

Chavez said he would resume negotiations only when the Teamsters give his AFL-CIO union guarantees of good faith. He stalked out of a peace session with Teamster officials Aug. 10 after learning of the latest contract signings between growers and the Teamsters.

The agreement for the Teamsters to disclaim the contracts signed since Aug. 9 was reached Monday in a meeting between Fitzsimmons and AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has said any settlement of the dispute must include restoration to the UFW of all contracts the Teamsters have taken away.

AFL-CIO officials said Fitzsimmons repudiation of the contracts signed during the negotiations with Chavez opened the way to resume those talks. But they said no specific meetings had so far been arranged.

New Rabies Vaccine Could Reduce Shots

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) —The World Health Organization (WHO) said today a powerful new rabies vaccine is being developed which reduces rabies treatment from 21 injections to three at the most.

The organization said in a statement: "There is hope the vaccine will replace the old type."

WHO said improvements in the safety and potency of rabies vaccine were made possible by the application of newer viral techniques. The new vaccine is being developed by the Wistar Institute of the University of Pennsylvania and the Merieux Institute at Lyons, France, together with laboratories in other parts of the world.

"On the evidence of studies to date, vaccines of cell-culture origin for human use may be used in post-exposure treatment, since they offer distinct advantages over existing products from the standpoint of both safety and efficacy," the statement said.

According to the latest WHO survey more than a million persons annually have to undergo the present long, painful and not entirely safe course of rabies vaccinations which require daily injections for 21 days followed by regular booster injections.

Fishermen Seek Help Against Oil Refinery

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hong Kong fishermen have sought the help of China to oppose a proposed oil refinery on one of the colony's offshore islands, the newspaper China Mail reported today.

The English language newspaper said the fishermen claim a large stretch of fishing ground will be polluted by the refinery and that their catch will drop sharply.

Keung Yin-min, chairman of the Hong Kong and Kowloon Floating Fishermen's Welfare Promotion Assocatiion, told the Mail that association leaders had taken their grievances to the fishing and maritime divisions in Kwangtung Province, China, during regular meetings there.

Many Hong Kong fishermen have permits to travel to the mainland freely.

Teamsters Drop Some Contracts

ARVIN, Calif (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons has invalidated contracts negotiated since Aug. 9 with 30 California grape growers, but United Farm Workers Union President Cesar Chavez is not satisfied.

"There's nothing new in this," Chavez said yesterday. His UFW once had contracts with the grape growers, but when they expired during the summer and Chavez called a strike, the growers signed new contracts with the Teamsters.

A bitter struggle between the two unions has ensued. Two UFW members were killed last week and thousands of others arrested while picketing the growers who signed with the Teamsters. Chavez was in Arvin yesterday for the funeral of one of those killed.

Fitzsimmons sent letters to the growers yesterday saying that his union no longer has any "interest in organizing your employes in the vineyards in and around Delano, Calif." But his action did not affect more than 30 contracts the Teamsters signed away from the UFW before Aug. 9. Those agreements are the subject of the peace discussions.

Chavez was unhappy about the Teamsters contracts still in effect and accused the independent union of bad faith in a similar situation three years ago when it agreed to seek a cancellation of contracts signed with lettuce growers in the Salinas area. The pacts are still in force, he said.

Chavez also said the grape growers do not intend to give up the contracts despite the fact the Teamsters say they have been invalidated.

Chavez said he would resume negotiations only when the Teamsters give his AFL-CIO union guarantees of good faith. He stalked out of a peace session with Teamster officials Aug. 10 after learning of the latest contract signings between growers and the Teamsters.

The agreement for the Teamsters to disclaim the contracts signed since Aug. 9 was reached Monday in a meeting between Fitzsimmons and AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has said any settlement of the dispute must include restoration to the UFW of all contracts the Teamsters have taken away.

AFL-CIO officials said Fitzsimmons repudiation of the contracts signed during the negotiations with Chavez opened the way to resume those talks. But they said no specific meetings had so far been arranged.

New Rabies Vaccine Could Reduce Shots

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) —The World Health Organization (WHO) said today a powerful new rabies vaccine is being developed which reduces rabies treatment from 21 injections to three at the most.

The organization said in a statement: "There is hope the vaccine will replace the old type."

WHO said improvements in the safety and potency of rabies vaccine were made possible by the application of newer viral techniques. The new vaccine is being developed by the Wistar Institute of the University of Pennsylvania and the Merieux Institute at Lyons, France, together with laboratories in other parts of the world.

"On the evidence of studies to date, vaccines of cell-culture origin for human use may be used in post-exposure treatment, since they offer distinct advantages over existing products from the standpoint of both safety and efficacy," the statement said.

According to the latest WHO survey more than a million persons annually have to undergo the present long, painful and not entirely safe course of rabies vaccinations which require daily injections for 21 days followed by regular booster injections.

Fishermen Seek Help Against Oil Refinery

HONG KONG (UPI) — Hong Kong fishermen have sought the help of China to oppose a proposed oil refinery on one of the colony's offshore islands, the newspaper China Mail reported today.

The English language newspaper said the fishermen claim a large stretch of fishing ground will be polluted by the refinery and that their catch will drop sharply.

Keung Yin-min, chairman of the Hong Kong and Kowloon Floating Fishermen's Welfare Promotion Assocatiion, told the Mail that association leaders had taken their grievances to the fishing and maritime divisions in Kwangtung Province, China, during regular meetings there.

Many Hong Kong fishermen have permits to travel to the mainland freely.

Food costs less at Mayfair!

Uncle Sam helps us prove that food cost less at Mayfair last week than at 8 other top chains

Again last week, we compared food prices with the major supermarkets in this area.

"Specials", "total discount", and most other kinds of prices were compared. In this survey of August 10 to 11, Mayfair's overall food prices were lower than eight other top supermarket chains'.

To try to be fair, the comparisons were again with Uncle Sam's list, the same full list of items that the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, uses every month to measure food prices as part of the cost of living.

These comparisons show you could have saved from $.70 to $7.92 on the $40 to $50 worth of basic foods in this list.

With the high cost of living these days, really, can you afford not to buy your food at Mayfair?

McGovern Hints Of Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen George S McGovern, D-S.D., said today President Nixon "almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment" of him over the Watergate scandal.

McGovern said continued refusal by the President to give Senate and federal investigators access to White House tape recordings and documents bearing on Watergate "makes it very hard for Congress not to give serious consideration to an impeachment proceeding."

"Neither I nor any other member of the United States Senate relishes the thought of impeachment," McGovern said. "We'd like to believe the President is innocent. We would like to believe he would cooperate with the constitutional procedures of our country so we can avoid the possibility of impeachment."

"But ... if the President persists in (resisting) giving either the courts or the Congress the information and the evidence that we need on which to base a sound judgment, then he himself almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment. It is only through that route that we can demand the evidence that he is now withholding."

McGovern made the statemnt — going somewhat beyond previous suggestions by him that impeachment might be in the offing — in an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show.

In other Watergate-related developments:

Melvin R. Laird, a top presidential assistant, said the Watergate hearings in the Senate had damaged Nixon's legislative program, delaying important matters. McGovern called this "misleading and unfair" and said Congress was further along with its work than at any time in his 14 years on Capitol Hill.

A new Gallup Poll taken late last week, after the President's Wednesday speech on Watergate, showed a rise to 38 per cent (from 31 per cent two weeks earlier) in public approval of Nixon's conduct of the presidency. Fifty four per cent disapproved, down 3 points from the previous survey.

The Senate hearings, recessed earlier this month for the congressional summer vacation, probably will resume Sept. 17 — a week later than expected — according to Fred D. Thompson, chief minority counsel. He said Charles W. Colson, a former presidential assistant, would be the first witness.

The statements by McGovern, landslide loser to Nixon in last fall's presidential election, about impeachment came a short time before a lawyer for the President and Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox faced each other in court arguments on the issue of White House documents.

White House Lawyer Offers Tape Remedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House lawyer, defending President Nixon's refusal to disclose tape recordings bearing on Watergate, told a federal judge today that impeachment by Congress is the only remedy to abuse of presidential power.

Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, pressing for a court order to compel Nixon to surrender the tapes, claimed that a federal grand jury had to have access to the tapes to determine conclusively who should be indicted in the scandal.

"There is reason to believe that the executive offices have been corrupted, although the extent of the rot is not yet clear," Cox asserted.

Cox and White House attorney Charles Alan Wright presented their positions before U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica. A large crowd was present at a show-cause hearing preceding an expected historic battle on the issue in the Supreme Court.

Sirica announced at the conclusion of the two and a half hours of arguments that he expected to hand down a ruling "a week from today" — which would be next Wednesday.

Among the spectators were Samuel Dash and Fred Thompson, counsel for the Senate Watergate Committee which is suing Nixon separately for release of the White House tapes.

Wright, speaking first, maintained that the President was given extraordinary powers by the framers of the Constitution and that they wanted him to use those powers.

In the event a President abused them, Wright said, the framers provided "a remedy — the impeachment powers of Congress."

Cox rejected Wright's claim that the President has the sole power to determine what material should be made public, saying that position runs counter to "the ancient precept that no man should be the judge of his own cause."

Cox argued that Wright was asking the judge to grant Nixon "the right to withhold evidence on his own say-so that is not shared by any other citizen or other government official."

The President, said Cox, cannot place himself above the law to protect the confidentiality of presidential conversations and papers.

PLAN

black, they will take a hard look."

He said he expects to have a preliminary set of policy guidelines drafted by next month.

Discussion of population controls was prompted by a request from Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini that the county consider giving veto power over county planning decisions to a countywide review agency.

He said he hoped cities would follow the county's lead in giving up some "local authority" on planning matters as they relate to population growth.

Giacomini said his proposal for the countywide review agency is different from one proposed last year in that it could only veto a project and could not direct local planning commissions on what should be approved.

Currently, the countywide review agency is recommended in the countywide plan only as an advisory body.

Giacomini recommended the veto power be granted prior to the November water bond election as a showing of the county's intent to limit future population growth through planning. Supporters of the bond measure fear it will be rejected by voters as a way of controlling growth.

Supervisors, while agreeing that "a review agency with teeth" may become a reality in the future, took no action on Giacomini's request, saying they prefer to continue studying area planning commissions for various parts of the county.

Baptiste said such commissions would give local communities greater control over the countywide plan and may eliminate the need for one large countywide review agency.

CANAL

existence of the San Rafael Canal."

The width of the old 5.8-mile canal owned by the state varies from several hundred feet at the mouth down to a point in the downtown area, according to the commission staff. A spokesman said there is no title problem with the new alignment since title to it was acquired by the city at the time of the realignment.

The City of San Rafael paid for the $36,000 survey by Hoffman and Albritton of San Rafael. Their field work, largely a retracing of a century-old survey, was being checked today along the canal by the commission's staff.

Firemen Safe From Inflation

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board agreed last night to protect district firemen against inflation by granting them salary increase if the cost of living rises by more than four per cent, according to board secretary Bernard Lenhart.

For example, if the cost of living index goes up by 6 per cent, firemen would receive 2 per cent salary increases. A 5 per cent rise would mean a 1 per cent salary hike.

The raise would be in addition to a five per cent pay hike already granted. There would be no reduction in pay should the cost of living index dip under four per cent, Lenhart said.

Gas Station Shutdown Not Likely

By NELS JOHNSON

Many Marin County service station operators plan business as usual over the Labor Day weekend, despite an apparent national protest over Phase Four price controls, a protest that could idle thousands of gas pumps across the country.

Many station operators said that although they are outraged at the government's Phase Four petroleum price controls, they cannot afford to shut down in protest.

Other operators said they will follow the recommendation of the Marin Independent Service Station Association, which said today it is uncertain what the local reaction to any national protest will be. "I doubt Marin stations will close Labor Day," said association president Jack Dalpino, who added his group's 150-member stations have not been directed "to either stay open, or to close."

Dalpino said the Marin association and other Bay Area service station associations "have already voted to go along with the National Retail Service Station Association" but as of yet have received no word of a national Labor Day protest to gas price rollbacks.

The American Automobile Association said today a nationwide survey showed that gasoline associations "in many states and cities" were organizing closings "as early as next weekend but most planned to coincide with the long Labor Day weekend."

At issue are profit margins allowed under Phase Four price controls. Dalpino said the measure will require operators on Sept. 1 to roll back prices to those charged last Jan. 10, plus whatever increases in cost oil companies have passed on since then. The effect will be to limit profits to those made last January, he said.

"I just can't say whether our stations will be open or closed over Labor Day," he said, saying the association will meet Sept. 4 "to decide what to do.

"There has never been anything planned for Labor Day," he said.

Many Marin service station operators said local economics will force them to remain open Labor Day regardless of any national or locally-urged shutdown.

"I will not close down and jeopardize business," said Reno Guerra, owner of Country Club Shell Service Center in Novato. "But I disagree with Phase Four wholeheartedly," he said.

Guerra said the federal price lid will "about cut my profit in half ... it's going to have a tremendous impact."

"I just can't afford to close," Miro Kvapilik, owner of a Texaco station in Fairfax, said flatly. "I got plenty of gas and I got to sell it," he said.

"If I've got the fuel, I'll sell it," declared Terra Linda Union 76 owner Jerry Mawrocki. "I don't plan to close."

Said Jerry Sharpe, manager of Gilmore's Shell Service Center in San Rafael. "You stay open, you make money. You close, you don't make money. And the way things are, you have to make money."

Ray Coombes, owner of R and S Chevron Service in Belvedere, and Philip Menzio, owner of a Mobil station in Mill Valley, said they would abide by whatever is recommended by the Marin Independent Service Station Association.

BEDAYAN

is the one which he actually experienced.

On further cross examination during the 18th day of the trial today, Blinder said that if Bedayan had been "totally suffused" with thinking Daniel Schallock was a threat to him then Bedayan would have to be found legally insane.

Although Cox did not pursue the point further, Bales asked Blinder if Bedayan was actually that suffused with the thought of Schallock as a threat.

The psychiatrist said Bedayan was not totally so and at all times had sufficient contact with reality to know what he was doing.

Blinder said that Bedayan was sincere in his delusion that the 19-year-old Schallock was "out to get him" but the doctor would not say how significant or strong that delusion might have been on the night of the killings.

message was that some aides "were not cooperating."

The President has refused to give the Senate Watergate Committee and federal prosecutors access to the tapes of his conversations on Watergate.

Nixon said he allowed his deposed chief-of-staff, H. R. Haldeman, to listen to one taped conversation to be "absolutely" certain of his response to allegations made by former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Nixon said the only tape that Haldeman was allowed to hear was the one taken on Sept. 15, 1972, at a meeting attended by Haldeman and Dean in the Oval Office in Washington. Nixon said Haldeman listened to the tape of the conversation at the President's request.

Dean, testifying before the Senate Watergate Committee, said he received the impression at the Sept. 15 meeting that Nixon knew that a Watergate cover-up was in progress.

Nixon also was asked about testimony by his former attorney general and ex-campaign manager, John N. Mitchell, that he did not tell Nixon about what he knew about others' involvement in Watergate before the 1972 election for fear Nixon would fire them and jeopardize the election outcome.

"Throughout, I would have expected Mr. Mitchell to tell me if he was involved or if anyone else was involved," Nixon said. "He did not tell me."

The President said: "Had he told me, I would have blown my stack, just as I did at (Ronald) Ziegler the other day." That was a reference to an incident Monday when Nixon shoved his press secretary during a mixup over whether the press was supposed to follow the President into a meeting in New Orleans or take another route.

Nixon said he would not release the White House tape recordings to the Senate Select Committee or the special federal prosecutor or to a neutral group because of the "principle of confidentiality" he feels must be upheld in the White House.

Letting some neutral committee listen to the tapes would not be satisfactory, he said. "I don't believe, first, that it would satisfy the public mind, and it should not," Nixon said.

"To have these tapes listened to by the prosecutor or a judge or in camera or in any way would violate the principle of confidentiality. That is why we are standing firm on the proposition," Nixon said.

The principle of confidentiality "either exists or it doesn't exist," Nixon said. "Once it is compromised, the principle of confidentiality is thereby irreparably damaged."

Attempted Sex Attack Is Reported

A San Anselmo woman has reported that a burly 200-pound man tried to rape her early Tuesday morning after he picked her up hitchhiking in San Francisco.

The 23-year-old woman, a San Francisco bartender, got in a beat-up 1960 Ford Falcon with the man on California Street in San Francisco, seeking a ride to Novato. When he slowed to let her out on South Novato Boulevard and Court Road, he grabbed at her legs and hair to keep her in the car, and clamped a hand over her mouth to keep her from screaming, she said.

She managed to escape when she hit him in the face and he momentarily released his hold.

The woman described the attacker as a six-foot, 200-pound black man, with long bushy sideburns and a moustache. He wore a dark jacket and a green military shirt underneath, she told police.

The incident was reported to police only last night because of her hysterical condition after the attack, the victim said.

Boy Admits He Set Grass Fires

An 11-year-old Rohnert Park boy was taken into custody yesterday, suspected of setting six grass fires.

Sgt. Lee Holmes said officers became suspicious after the boy was seen at nearly all the grass fires which have occurred since June. When questioned, he admitted setting the fires, Holmes said.

He was picked up at 12:15 p.m. yesterday as firefighters put out a grass fire behind Rancho Feliz mobile home park on South Santa Rosa Avenue. The youth was released to his father. He is to appear in juvenile court.

OBITUARIES

Almon C. Jones Sr. Dies At 73

Private funeral for Almon Clyde Jones Sr., a former supervisor of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the U.S. Treasury Department and a 42-year resident of Marin, will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Jones, 73, died Sunday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness.

He worked in federal government posts for 46 years and was with the Treasury Department for 43 years. He was a tax division supervisor for Northern California, Nevada and Utah when he retired in December, 1965.

Jones was born in Michigan and served with the Army in World War I. He and his wife, Violet, were married in 1919 in Everett, Wash. and celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1969.

The couple moved to the Bay Area in 1921 and lived in Berkeley and Lodi before moving to San Anselmo in 1931. They had resided at 9 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera since 1960.

Jones was a member of erican Legion Post 179 of San Anselmo, Independent Order of Foresters, Marin Rod and Gun Club, Elks Club, Veterans of World War I, Sons in Retirement Service and the National Associations of Retired Civil and Federal employees.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Wanda M. Leach of Merced, a son, Almon C. Jones Jr. of San Rafael, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family prefers memorial gifts to the Kidney Foundation of Northern California.

GABRIEL MENDOZA

Mass of the Resurrection for Gabriel F. Mendoza of San Anselmo was celebrated yesterday in San Francisco.

He died Friday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 68.

He was born and reared in San Francisco. He was a retired cab driver working for the DeSota Cab Co. For the past 15 years, he and his wife, Dorothy I. Mendoza, who survives him, have made their home in Marin County at 62 Ridge Road, San Anselmo.

He was a member of the Chauffer's Union Local 265.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

ZELINA GAMBONI

Mass of the Resurrection for Zelina I. Gamboni of Atherton, a native of Olema, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Sacred Heart Church, Olema.

Mrs. Gamboni, 80, died Monday in Atherton after a long illness.

She and her late husband, Walter J. Gamboni grew up on ranches in Olema. His father, Joseph Gamboni Sr., owned a ranch there and the family owned and operated the Olema Meat Market for many years. The market building was bought by the Smithsonian Institute six years ago, moved to Washington, D.C. and reassembled.

Mrs. Gamboni was a registered nurse.

The couple moved to Atherton about 50 years ago. He worked as an electrician for Stanford University until his retirement.

She is survived by two daughters, Eleanor Bine of San Francisco and Rita Gamboni of Moss Beach, San Mateo County, a son, Walter J. Gamboni (amboni Jr., of Delano, Fresno County and four grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Olema Cemetery.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

Apartment Plans Given Approval

Precise plans for a 104-unit apartment complex, part of the Shelter Ridge Development were approved last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee.

Developers of the project originally had proposed to put up 156 units but had agreed to reduce the project's density to 104 units by eliminating one story from the buildings.

The committee also approved a location and parking plan for the new Pacific Telephone Co. offices on Lomita Drive.

Bid Accepted

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District last night accepted a low bid of $38,500 from the Shaw Construction Co. of Belmont to build a new 12-inch main from the Richardson Bay Bridge to its Ricard Road pumping station.

EDWARD BANTLY

Funeral was held today for Edward Mark Bantly, 54, at Strawberry who died Sunday at his home at 5 South Knoll Road.

Bantly was a teletype operator at Dean Witter and Co. in San Francisco and was also a former technician with International Telephone and Telegraph in San Francisco. He was past president of Communications Workers of America, Local 9470.

A native of Canada, he had lived in the Bay Area 27 years and in Marin County 14 years.

Survivors include his wife, Joyce, sons, Stephen of San Bruno and David of Strawberry; a brother, Francis J. Bantly of Vancouver, and four sisters, Mary Elliott, Agnes Webb and Irene Crossley of Victoria, B.C., and Amelia Clarke of San Diego.

E.M. MAHER

Emmett M. Maher of Fairfax, a retired railroad freight claims agent, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday.

His wife, Catherine R. Maher, found him lying on a couch. He was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. Mrs. Maher said her husband had appeared to be in good health the night before, the Marin County Coroner's office reported.

An autopsy is planned.

Maher had lived in Fairfax for two years, at 22 Claus Circle. He had retired after 32 years with Southern Pacific Railroad.

He was born in Brownsville, Tex., and moved to California 60 years ago.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one son, Roger Maher of San Rafael, two daughters, Janet Utzinger of San Anselmo and Joan Ritter of Concord, a brother, John Maher of Walnut Creek, a sister, Helen Keeble of Palo Alto, and four grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in St. Rita's Church, Fairfax. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today in the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

MARIE HIRST

Private funeral for Marie Hirst of Greenbrae was yesterday in Greenbrae.

She died Monday at her home at 440 Los Cerros Drive. She was 83.

She was born in Denmark and spent her childhood in Wisconsin. She lived her adult life in Oregon, most of the time in the Umpqua Valley. She was a department manager for Montgomery Ward Store in Roseburg, Ore.

On the retirement of her husband, the late Harry Hirst, in 1959, they moved to Mill Valley.

Mrs. Hirst has made her home with her daughter, Beth Waldhaus who survives her, for the past 12 years.

She also is survived by a sister, Chris Rasmussen of Roseburg, Ore.

Inurnment was private.

WILLIAM SHEAHAN

Mass of the Resurrection for William F. Sheahan of Corte Madera, a retired postal employee, was offered yesterday in San Francisco.

Sheahan, 83, died Saturday in a Daly City hospital after a long illness.

He was born and reared in San Francisco. He worked as a carpenter at the post office's Rincon Annex in San Francisco for more than 25 years until he retired in 1959. He then moved to 111 Baltimore Avenue, Corte Madera. He was a member of Retired Federal Employees Association of Marin County.

He leaves no immediate family.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

ANNA JACOBSEN

Anna Jacobsen, 77, long-time Petaluma resident, died yesterday at her home at 1321 Chapman Lane after a lengthy illness.

A native of Denmark, Mrs. Jacobsen came to the United States and Sonoma County at the age of 16. She married J. Carl Jacobsen, a rancher, in 1916.

Mrs. Jacobsen was a 50-year member of the Danish Sisterhood, Petaluma Chapter No. 126.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, Elray and Walter Jacobsen of Petaluma; a daughter, Julia Foster of Sebastopol; a sister, Hertha Nelson of Two Rock and two sisters in Denmark; 12 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Friday at the Sorensen Funeral Htme, Petaluma. Entombment will be a Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

H. PATRICIA WALSH

A memorial service for H. Patricia Walsh of San Mateo, mother of Kathleen Steadman and Susan Walsh of Corte Madera, will be at 7:30 tomorrow at Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

Mrs. Walsh died Aug. 15 in her south bay home.

A native of Australia, Mrs. Walsh moved to California 15 years ago.

Mrs. Walsh, an amateur artist, had displayed her paintings at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

She is also survived by a third daughter Frances Walsh of Bethel Island.

Contributions to a favorite charity are preferred by the family.

ANDREW KOSKI

Andrew I. Koski, 66, longtime Petaluma resident, died today at a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Koski, a native of Minnesota, worked for the Roofers Union, Santa Rosa Local No. 236, as business representative, financial secretary and treasurer.

He lived at 1995 Western Avenue and was a member of the Petaluma Moose Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Ellen; a son, Andrew I. Koski Jr. of Santa Rosa; two stepsons, Larry Hellman of Petaluma and Duane Hellman of Sonoma; a stepdaughter, Elvina Mayberry of Santa Rosa; a sister Mae Murray of Novato; a brother Matt Koski of Duluth, Minn., eight grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

McGovern Hints Of Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen George S McGovern, D-S.D., said today President Nixon "almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment" of him over the Watergate scandal.

McGovern said continued refusal by the President to give Senate and federal investigators access to White House tape recordings and documents bearing on Watergate "makes it very hard for Congress not to give serious consideration to an impeachment proceeding."

"Neither I nor any other member of the United States Senate relishes the thought of impeachment," McGovern said. "We'd like to believe the President is innocent. We would like to believe he would cooperate with the constitutional procedures of our country so we can avoid the possibility of impeachment."

"But ... if the President persists in (resisting) giving either the courts or the Congress the information and the evidence that we need on which to base a sound judgment, then he himself almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment. It is only through that route that we can demand the evidence that he is now withholding."

McGovern made the statemnt — going somewhat beyond previous suggestions by him that impeachment might be in the offing — in an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show.

In other Watergate-related developments:

Melvin R. Laird, a top presidential assistant, said the Watergate hearings in the Senate had damaged Nixon's legislative program, delaying important matters. McGovern called this "misleading and unfair" and said Congress was further along with its work than at any time in his 14 years on Capitol Hill.

A new Gallup Poll taken late last week, after the President's Wednesday speech on Watergate, showed a rise to 38 per cent (from 31 per cent two weeks earlier) in public approval of Nixon's conduct of the presidency. Fifty four per cent disapproved, down 3 points from the previous survey.

The Senate hearings, recessed earlier this month for the congressional summer vacation, probably will resume Sept. 17 — a week later than expected — according to Fred D. Thompson, chief minority counsel. He said Charles W. Colson, a former presidential assistant, would be the first witness.

The statements by McGovern, landslide loser to Nixon in last fall's presidential election, about impeachment came a short time before a lawyer for the President and Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald faced each other in court arguments on the issue of White House documents.

White House Lawyer Offers Tape Remedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House lawyer, defending President Nixon's refusal to disclose tape recordings bearing on Watergate, told a federal judge today that impeachment by Congress is the only remedy to abuse of presidential power.

Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, pressing for a court order to compel Nixon to surrender the tapes, claimed that a federal grand jury had to have access to the tapes to determine conclusively who should be indicted in the scandal.

"There is reason to believe that the executive offices have been corrupted, although the extent of the rot is not yet clear," Cox asserted.

Cox and White House attorney Charles Alan Wright presented their positions before U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica. A large crowd was present at a show-cause hearing preceding an expected historic battle on the issue in the Supreme Court.

Sirica announced at the conclusion of the two and a half hours of arguments that he expected to hand down a ruling "a week from today" — which would be next Wednesday.

Among the spectators were Samuel Dash and Fred Thompson, counsel for the Senate Watergate Committee which is suing Nixon separately for release of the White House tapes.

Wright, speaking first, maintained that the President was given extraordinary powers by the framers of the Constitution and that they wanted him to use those powers.

In the event a President abused them, Wright said, the framers provided "a remedy — the impeachment powers of Congress."

Cox rejected Wright's claim that the President has the sole power to determine what material should be made public, saying that position runs counter to "the ancient precept that no man should be the judge of his own cause."

Cox argued that Wright was asking the judge to grant Nixon "the right to withhold evidence on his own say-so that is not shared by any other citizen or other government official."

The President, said Cox, cannot place himself above the law to protect the confidentiality of presidential conversations and papers.

PLAN

black, they will take a hard look."

He said he expects to have a preliminary set of policy guidelines drafted by next month.

Discussion of population controls was prompted by a request from Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini that the county consider giving veto power over county planning decisions to a countywide review agency.

He said he hoped cities would follow the county's lead in giving up some "local authority" on planning matters as they relate to population growth.

Giacomini said his proposal for the countywide review agency is different from one proposed last year in that it could only veto a project and could not direct local planning commissions on what should be approved.

Currently, the countywide review agency is recommended in the countywide plan only as an advisory body.

Giacomini recommended the veto power be granted prior to the November water bond election as a showing of the county's intent to limit future population growth through planning. Supporters of the bond measure fear it will be rejected by voters as a way of controlling growth.

Supervisors, while agreeing that "a review agency with teeth" may become a reality in the future, took no action on Giacomini's request, saying they prefer to continue studying area planning commissions for various parts of the county.

Baptiste said such commissions would give local communities greater control over the countywide plan and may eliminate the need for one large countywide review agency.

existence of the San Rafael Canal."

The width of the old 5.8-mile canal owned by the state varies from several hundred feet at the mouth down to a point in the downtown area, according to the commission staff. A spokesman said there is no title problem with the new alignment since title to it was acquired by the city at the time of the realignment.

The City of San Rafael paid for the $36,000 survey by Hoffman and Albritton of San Rafael. Their field work, largely a retracing of a century-old survey, was being checked today along the canal by the commission's staff.

Firemen Safe From Inflation

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board agreed last night to protect district firemen against inflation by granting them salary increase if the cost of living rises by more than four per cent, according to board secretary Bernard Lenhart.

For example, if the cost of living index goes up by 6 per cent, firemen would receive 2 per cent salary increases. A 5 per cent rise would mean a 1 per cent salary hike.

The raise would be in addition to a five per cent pay hike already granted. There would be no reduction in pay should the cost of living index dip under four per cent, Lenhart said.

Gas Station Shutdown Not Likely

By NELS JOHNSON

Many Marin County service station operators plan business as usual over the Labor Day weekend, despite an apparent national protest over Phase Four price controls, a protest that could idle thousands of gas pumps across the country.

Many station operators said that although they are outraged at the government's Phase Four petroleum price controls, they cannot afford to shut down in protest.

Other operators said they will follow the recommendation of the Marin Independent Service Station Association, which said today it is uncertain what the local reaction to any national protest will be. "I doubt Marin stations will close Labor Day," said association president Jack Dalpino, who added his group's 150-member stations have not been directed "to either stay open, or to close."

Dalpino said the Marin association and other Bay Area service station associations "have already voted to go along with the National Retail Service Station Association" but as of yet have received no word of a national Labor Day protest to gas price rollbacks.

The American Automobile Association said today a nationwide survey showed that gasoline associations "in many states and cities" were organizing closings "as early as next weekend but most planned to coincide with the long Labor Day weekend."

At issue are profit margins allowed under Phase Four price controls. Dalpino said the measure will require operators on Sept. 1 to roll back prices to those charged last Jan. 10, plus whatever increases in cost oil companies have passed on since then. The effect will be to limit profits to those made last January, he said.

"I just can't say whether our stations will be open or closed over Labor Day," he said, saying the association will meet Sept. 4 "to decide what to do.

"There has never been anything planned for Labor Day," he said.

Many Marin service station operators said local economics will force them to remain open Labor Day regardless of any national or locally-urged shutdown.

"I will not close down and jeopardize business," said Reno Guerra, owner of Country Club Shell Service Center in Novato. "But I disagree with Phase Four wholeheartedly," he said.

Guerra said the federal price lid will "about cut my profit in half ... it's going to have a tremendous impact."

"I just can't afford to close," Miro Kvapilik, owner of a Texaco station in Fairfax, said flatly. "I got plenty of gas and I got to sell it," he said.

"If I've got the fuel, I'll sell it," declared Terra Linda Union 76 owner Jerry Mawrocki. "I don't plan to close."

Said Jerry Sharpe, manager of Gilmore's Shell Service Center in San Rafael. "You stay open, you make money. You close, you don't make money. And the way things are, you have to make money."

Ray Coombes, owner of R and S Chevron Service in Belvedere, and Philip Menzio, owner of a Mobil station in Mill Valley, said they would abide by whatever is recommended by the Marin Independent Service Station Association.

Gives Himself Up

NIXON

message was that some aides "were not cooperating."

The President has refused to give the Senate Watergate Committee and federal prosecutors access to the tapes of his conversations on Watergate.

Nixon said he allowed his deposed chief-of-staff, H. R. Haldeman, to listen to one taped conversation to be "absolutely" certain of his response to allegations made by former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Nixon said the only tape that Haldeman was allowed to hear was the one taken on Sept. 15, 1972, at a meeting attended by Haldeman and Dean in the Oval Office in Washington. Nixon said Haldeman listened to the tape of the conversation at the President's request.

Dean, testifying before the Senate Watergate Committee, said he received the impression at the Sept. 15 meeting that Nixon knew that a Watergate cover-up was in progress.

Nixon also was asked about testimony by his former attorney general and ex-campaign manager, John N. Mitchell, that he did not tell Nixon about what he knew about others' involvement in Watergate before the 1972 election for fear Nixon would fire them and jeopardize the election outcome.

"Throughout, I would have expected Mr. Mitchell to tell me if he was involved or if anyone else was involved," Nixon said. "He did not tell me."

The President said: "Had he told me, I would have blown my stack, just as I did at Ronald Ziegler the other day." That was a reference to an incident Monday when Nixon shoved his press secretary during a mixup over whether the press was supposed to follow the President into a meeting in New Orleans or take another route.

Nixon said he would not release the White House tape recordings to the Senate Select Committee or the special federal prosecutor or to a neutral group because of the "principle of confidentiality" he feels must be upheld in the White House.

Letting some neutral committee listen to the tapes would not be satisfactory, he said. "I don't believe, first, that it would satisfy the public mind, and it should not," Nixon said.

"To have these tapes listened to by the prosecutor or a judge or in camera or in any way would violate the principle of confidentiality. That is why we are standing firm on the proposition," Nixon said.

The principle of confidentiality "either exists or it doesn't exist," Nixon said. "Once it is compromised, the principle of confidentiality is thereby irreparably damaged."

Attempted Sex Attack Is Reported

A San Anselmo woman has reported that a burly 200-pound man tried to rape her early Tuesday morning after he picked her up hitchhiking in San Francisco.

The 23-year-old woman, a San Francisco bartender, got in a beat-up 1960 Ford Falcon with the man on California Street in San Francisco, seeking a ride to Novato. When he slowed to let her out on South Novato Boulevard and Court Road, he grabbed at her legs and hair to keep her in the car, and clamped a hand over her mouth to keep her from screaming, she said.

She managed to escape when she hit him in the face and he momentarily released his hold.

The woman described the attacker as a six-foot, 200-pound black man, with long bushy sideburns and a moustache. He wore a dark jacket and a green military shirt underneath, she told police.

The incident was reported to police only last night because of her hysterical condition after the attack, the victim said.

Boy Admits He Set Grass Fires

An 11-year-old Rohnert Park boy was taken into custody yesterday, suspected of setting six grass fires.

Sgt. Lee Holmes said officers became suspicious after the boy was seen at nearly all the grass fires which have occurred since June. When questioned, he admitted setting the fires, Holmes said.

He was picked up at 12:15 p.m. yesterday as firefighters put out a grass fire behind Rancho Feliz mobile home park on South Santa Rosa Avenue. The youth was released to his father. He is to appear in juvenile court.

OBITUARIES

Almon C. Jones Sr. Dies At 73

Private funeral for Almon Clyde Jones Sr., a former supervisor of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the U.S. Treasury Department and a 42-year resident of Marin, will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Jones, 73, died Sunday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness.

He worked in federal government posts for 46 years and was with the Treasury Department for 43 years. He was a tax division supervisor for Northern California, Nevada and Utah when he retired in December, 1965.

Jones was born in Michigan and served with the Army in World War I. He and his wife, Violet, were married in 1919 in Everett, Wash. and celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1969.

The couple moved to the Bay Area in 1921 and lived in Berkeley and Lodi before moving to San Anselmo in 1931. They had resided at 9 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera since 1960.

Jones was a member of erican Legion Post 179 of San Anselmo, Independent Order of Foresters, Marin Rod and Gun Club, Elks Club, Veterans of World War I, Sons in Retirement Service and the National Associations of Retired Civil and Federal employees.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Wanda M. Leach of Merced, a son, Almon C. Jones Jr. of San Rafael, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family prefers memorial gifts to the Kidney Foundation of Northern California.

GABRIEL MENDOZA

Mass of the Resurrection for Gabriel F. Mendoza of San Anselmo was celebrated yesterday in San Francisco.

He died Friday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 68.

He was born and reared in San Francisco. He was a retired cab driver working for the DeSota Cab Co. For the past 15 years, he and his wife, Dorothy I. Mendoza, who survives him, have made their home in Marin County at 62 Ridge Road, San Anselmo.

He was a member of the Chauffer's Union Local 265.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

ZELINA GAMBONI

Mass of the Resurrection for Zelina I. Gamboni of Atherton, a native of Olema, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Sacred Heart Church, Olema.

Mrs. Gamboni, 80, died Monday in Atherton after a long illness.

She and her late husband, Walter J. Gamboni grew up on ranches in Olema. His father, Joseph Gamboni Sr., owned a ranch there and the family owned and operated the Olema Meat Market for many years. The market building was bought by the Smithsonian Institute six years ago, moved to Washington, D.C. and reassembled.

Mrs. Gamboni was a registered nurse.

The couple moved to Atherton about 50 years ago. He worked as an electrician for Stanford University until his retirement.

She is survived by two daughters, Eleanor Bine of San Francisco and Rita Gamboni of Moss Beach, San Mateo County, a son, Walter J. Gamboni (amboni Jr., of Delano, Fresno County and four grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Olema Cemetery.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

Apartment Plans Given Approval

Precise plans for a 104-unit apartment complex, part of the Shelter Ridge Development were approved last night by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee.

Developers of the project originally had proposed to put up 156 units but had agreed to reduce the project's density to 104 units by eliminating one story from the buildings.

The committee also approved a location and parking plan for the new Pacific Telephone Co. offices on Lomita Drive.

Bid Accepted

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District last night accepted a low bid of $38,500 from the Shaw Construction Co. of Belmont to build a new 12-inch main from the Richardson Bay Bridge to its Ricard Road pumping station.

EDWARD BANTLY

Funeral was held today for Edward Mark Bantly, 54, at Strawberry who died Sunday at his home at 5 South Knoll Road.

Bantly was a teletype operator at Dean Witter and Co. in San Francisco and was also a former technician with International Telephone and Telegraph in San Francisco. He was past president of Communications Workers of America, Local 9470.

A native of Canada, he had lived in the Bay Area 27 years and in Marin County 14 years.

Survivors include his wife, Joyce, sons, Stephen of San Bruno and David of Strawberry; a brother, Francis J. Bantly of Vancouver, and four sisters, Mary Elliott, Agnes Webb and Irene Crossley of Victoria, B.C., and Amelia Clarke of San Diego.

E.M. MAHER

Emmett M. Maher of Fairfax, a retired railroad freight claims agent, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday.

His wife, Catherine R. Maher, found him lying on a couch. He was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. Mrs. Maher said her husband had appeared to be in good health the night before, the Marin County Coroner's office reported.

An autopsy is planned.

Maher had lived in Fairfax for two years, at 22 Claus Circle. He had retired after 32 years with Southern Pacific Railroad.

He was born in Brownsville, Tex., and moved to California 60 years ago.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one son, Roger Maher of San Rafael, two daughters, Janet Utzinger of San Anselmo and Joan Ritter of Concord, a brother, John Maher of Walnut Creek, a sister, Helen Keeble of Palo Alto, and four grandchildren.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in St. Rita's Church, Fairfax. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today in the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

MARIE HIRST

Private funeral for Marie Hirst of Greenbrae was yesterday in Greenbrae.

She died Monday at her home at 440 Los Cerros Drive. She was 83.

She was born in Denmark and spent her childhood in Wisconsin. She lived her adult life in Oregon, most of the time in the Umpqua Valley. She was a department manager for Montgomery Ward Store in Roseburg, Ore.

On the retirement of her husband, the late Harry Hirst, in 1969, they moved to Mill Valley.

Mrs. Hirst has made her home with her daughter, Bett Waldhaus who survives her, for the past 12 years.

She also is survived by a sister, Chris Rasmussen of Roseburg, Ore.

Inurnment was private.

WILLIAM SHEAHAN

Mass of the Resurrection for William F. Sheahan of Corte Madera, a retired postal employee, was offered yesterday in San Francisco.

Sheahan, 83, died Saturday in a Daly City hospital after a long illness.

He was born and reared in San Francisco. He worked as a carpenter at the post office's Rincon Annex in San Francisco for more than 25 years until he retired in 1959. He then moved to 111 Baltimore Avenue, Corte Madera. He was a member of Retired Federal Employees Association of Marin County.

He leaves no immediate family.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

ANNA JACOBSEN

Anna Jacobsen, 77, long-time Petaluma resident, died yesterday at her home at 1321 Chapman Lane after a lengthy illness.

A native of Denmark, Mrs. Jacobsen came to the United States and Sonoma County at the age of 16. She married J. Carl Jacobsen, a rancher, in 1916.

Mrs. Jacobsen was a 50-year member of the Danish Sisterhood, Petaluma Chapter No. 126.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, Elray and Walter Jacobsen of Petaluma; a daughter, Julia Foster of Sebastopol; a sister, Hertha Nelson of Two Rock and two sisters in Denmark; 12 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. Friday at the Sorensen Funeral Htme, Petaluma. Entombment will be a Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

H. PATRICIA WALSH

A memorial service for H. Patricia Walsh of San Mateo, mother of Kathleen Steadman and Susan Walsh of Corte Madera, will be at 7:30 tomorrow at Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

Mrs. Walsh died Aug. 15 in her south bay home.

A native of Australia, Mrs. Walsh moved to California 15 years ago.

Mrs. Walsh, an amateur artist, had displayed her paintings at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

She is also survived by a third daughter Frances Walsh of Bethel Island.

Contributions to a favorite charity are preferred by the family.

ANDREW KOSKI

Andrew I. Koski, 66, longtime Petaluma resident, died today at a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Koski, a native of Minnesota, worked for the Roofers Union, Santa Rosa Local No. 236, as business representative, financial secretary and treasurer.

He lived at 1995 Western Avenue and was a member of the Petaluma Moose Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Ellen; a son, Andrew I. Koski Jr. of Santa Rosa; two stepsons, Larry Hellman of Petaluma and Duane Hellman of Sonoma; a stepdaughter, Elvina Mayberry of Santa Rosa; a sister Mae Murray of Novato; a brother Matt Koski of Duluth, Minn., eight grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Sausalito Council Denies Four-Way Lot Split Plea

A four-way lot split, tied up in the city council and the court for over a month, was denied last night by the Sausalito City Council. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 1.)

Split of the 48,700 square foot property bounded by Channing Way, Prospect Avenue and Cloud View Trail, was defeated 3-2 with Councilmen Sally Stanford and Earl F. Dunphy dissenting.

Property owner Peter Di Francesca filed suit in Marin Superior Court after the council on July 18 deadlocked 2-2, with Councilman Stephen A. Fraser absent, on appeal of a planning commission's denial.

The court, which had ruled that the deadlocked vote did not constitute final action on the part of the council, will decide Thursday whether to uphold the council's rejection.

Di Francesca's attorney, William H. Stephens, said the lawsuit was filed solely to force the council into a decision before the Marin Municipal Water District's Aug. 28 deadline for water service applications. He added that it should not be taken as a hostile act toward the council.

The decision included an amendment by Councilman Evert J Heynneman that the split was "inconsistent with orderly growth." The denial also stated that the split did not provide for a 30-foot frontage required by the city and would interfere with the natural environment of the property.

The split could be done in a way that would preserve the property, said Fraser, suggesting Di Francesca come up with a better design with "less disturbance of the natural environment, social amenities and configuration of the lot."

Attorney Stephens said the lots would exceed by 50 per cent the area of any other parcel around the property. He also said the split was still subject to review and the buildings were not necessarily in a fixed position.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

PROBE — Directed the staff to investigate alleged shoddy building practices at the Marina Vista Housing Development where a duplex under construction was blown down last week because of heavy wind. The staff is to meet with the complaining homeowners in the development and with representatives of the developer, Ticor Properties. Staff is to investigate how far the city can legally proceed in the matter, and decide what action can be taken on a homeowner's request to refuse occupancy permits for the development for the next 30 days.

FILL — Approved a conditional use permit for Robert H. Hall to fill an area of approximately 6,000 square feet at Gate 5 in the Marinship.

ASSESSMENT — Gave the legal firm of Sturtis, Den-Dulk, Douglass and Anderson the legal right to form the Marinship Storm Drain Assessment District with a contingency fee of 3 per cent of the construction contract costs.

SENIOR — Referred the Marin Senior Coordinating Council contract to provide recreational services for senior citizens to the recreation department before council action.

LIQUOR — Approved the planning commission recommendation to allow alcoholic beverages other than beer and wine at the Ristorante Topolino at 2009 Bridgeway.

PARK — Received without comment a recommendation by Mayor Robin Sweeny to remove two sunken steel barges, one partially sunken dredge and a sunken power boat hull from the water area of the Earl Dunphy Park.

IMPROVEMENT — Were told by City Mgr. Thomas P McKenzie that bidding on the Bridgeway Improvement District project would probably begin in January with construction following in the spring.

HOUSES — Deferred until Aug. 28 discussion of eviction of two elderly women from two city-owned houses at 405 and 407 Johnson Street.

INFLUENCE — Deferred until Sept. 12 discussion on the city's sphere of influence until planning director Herb Case can meet with the Marin City Council for their opinions on being included in the city.

CABS — Deferred until Aug. 28 a request by Earl Bailey for an increase in rates for the Sausalito Yellow Cab Company.

PARKING — Deferred until September a request by Ned Martin for leasing 52 parking spaces on Johnson Street for a proposed marina in the area between Johnson and Pine Streets.

OPTION — Directed McKenzie to negotiate with the school board for an extension of the lease option on the Central School property due to expire Aug. 26.

MEETING — Adjourned to a regular meeting Aug. 28 at 8 p.m. at city hall to discuss an appeal by the Sausalito Richardson Bay Railroad on a denial by the planning commission for a conditional use permit.

Senator Saves Pair In Water

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater went to the rescue of a man and a woman shoved from a speeding boat off Newport Beach, Calif., his office reports.

The Arizona Republican's secretary, Judy Eisenhower, said yesterday that Goldwater told her he was on his boat Sunday "when this speedboat buzzed by and a short time later the senator heard a woman screaming.

"The senator tried to maneuver his boat close to the two, and when he couldn't he dove in and pulled them out," she said.

Ruegg Admits Policeman Drove Him To The Airport

Novato Mayor Fred F Ruegg admitted last night, in response to queries by the Novato Citizens For Change, that he was driven to the Oakland Airport by a police officer

Ruegg said he was driven to the airport "on one occasion" while on city business, on his way to a convention in Anaheim.

It was determined it was the cheapest way, to have a police officer drive me down," he said. "I make no apologies. My time is valuable and when I don't take my own car, I don't take public transportation."

In response to a query about long distance telephone calls to locate a missing relative "who wasn't even a resident of Novato," Ruedd said that, too, was a charge aimed at him.

He said one of his brothers had disappeared and he had exhausted all sources when he asked the police chief for information about how to track him.

Novato Police located the missing brother three or four days later, and "I asked if there were any telephone calls I should pay for, Ruegg said.

He was told he wouldn't have to pay since it was a service offered by police, he said.

Ruegg also said he has made telephone calls "out of the area" on city business from his home and "when the bill comes in I don't charge the city back."

Councilmen George C. Quesada suggested that further queries from Novato Citizens For Change, they don't relate to city policy, be directed to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, rather than being presented at council meetings.

In response to the group's criticism of Brown's management, Quesada said, "the city manager is a closed item. . we have in effect backed the city manager "

He said brown is doing a "creditable job" and he believes it wrong "to continue harassment."

Novato Recreation Director Quits

Edward W. Adams, Novato's parks and recreation director for more than eight years, quit last night without giving a reason or revealing his plans for the future. (Other Novato City Council stories, page 1)

The veteran Novato employee, who resigned effective Aug. 31, is the third department head to leave the city in recent weeks.

Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps left in mid-July to enter private business and Police Chief Allen V. Klemme resigned July 31 by mutual agreement with City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

When the Novato City Council reached the part of its meeting open for comment from staff members, Adams announced that he was resigning after eight-and-one-half years as recreation director.

The council accepted the resignation and Councilman F. Wayne Sartain said Adams has "run a hell of a recreation program" and "made a substantial contribution to parks and recreation in Novato."

The Novato City Council Also:

LAND OFFER — Referred to the city park and recreation commission a proposal from Charles D. Kuhn to dedicate a small parcel of land at Alameda De La Loma and Fairway Drive to the city for park use.

STOP SIGNS — Authorized traffic stop signs on Estrella Way at San Carlos Way and at San Luis Way, on Bradley Avenue, just north of Hill Road, and on Jackson Drive at Jackson Court.

FLOOD CONTROL — Agreed to set a public hearing, date undetermined, on the Novato Flood Control District's $4.5 million bond measure to finance a Novato Creek Project. Councilman George C. Quesada rapped county flood control engineer Charles E. Murphy for a decision against installing debris racks on Warner and Novato Creeks this year. "The racks should get in this year before we get another flood," Quesada said.

PLAYGROUND FEES — Referred to the parks and recreation commission a recommendation by Adams that the nonresident fee for playground use be dropped because it costs more in money and time to enforce it than the city collects.

RECYCLING — Endorsed the efforts of Survival Inc. to establish its recycling depot at the vacant Lee Brothers Market at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue.

COUNTRY CLUB — Referred to the city planning commission a letter from the Marin Country Club Homeowners Association requesting that the city forestall any attempts to construct housing at the Marin Country Club Golf Course.

OLIVE AVENUE — Referred to the traffic safety committee a petition from about 30 residents protesting speeding and auto noise along Olive Avenue.

WESTERN WEEKEND — Received a report from Robert Wright, president of Western Weekend Inc. that the group is seeking another site for the event, which has been held at the end of Rowland Boulevard in recent years.

CLAIM DENIED — Denied a claim by Clifford Eric Bowen of Sonoma for $17,500 for injuries suffered in a traffic accident on San Marin Drive May 21. He charged the city was negligent.

AIRPORTS — Requested the Association of Bay Area Governments to appoint a representative of Novato to its aviation study committee if commercial use of Hamilton Air Force Base is to be discussed or if planning of aviation facilities is in any way to include the Novato area.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the Novato Community House for a joint meeting with the Novato Plan Review Committee.

Councilman David Price Jones and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, both on vacation, were absent.

San Rafael Library To Get Repairs

The San Rafael Public Library will be closed for four or five days during the first half of September for repairs to make it more earthquake resistant.

The closing probably will be for two days at one time, then two or three days later, San Rafael Library Board members were informed at their meeting last night. Librarian Vivan Smith will be informed of the closing dates at least a week in advance by the contractor.

The board received an invitation from County Librarian Bruce Bajema for San Rafael participation in the county library's new computer book-tracing system. Board members expressed interest in hearing details at some later time.

The county library also submitted a proposed new contract for bookmobile service, which would charge that service for Terra Linda to the city because of the Terra Linda annexation. The contract calls for a maximum of $2,934 for the current fiscal year. The city had budgeted $2,400. Chairman James H. Mayer was authorized to sign the contract.

Architect Andrew James Ring III presented new preliminary plans for enlargement of the library and construction of a Terra Linda branch, calling for a total square footage of approximately 24,000 in the downtown library (which now has 10,600 square feet) and 5,000 in the branch. He said both could be built for not more than $1 million.

Board members will meet with the city council on Sept. 24 to discuss library needs.

A unique landmark built of stones from each of Michigan's 83 counties is located in Kewadin, Mich.

Four Indicted For Helping Escaped Convict

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four Bay Area radicals were indicted yesterday on charges of harboring and aiding an escaped convict who killed a California Institution for Men, Chino, correctional officer.

The suspects, according to the federal grand jury, brought Ronald W. Beaty, 35, to the San Francisco Peninsula after his escape on Oct. 6. Beaty was captured on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge on Dec. 11 and later convicted of killing guard Jesus Sanchez.

Indicted were Jean S. Hobson, 45, Palo Alto, her son, Bruce, 23, formerly of Mountain View, Morton Newman, 30, formerly of Menlo Park, and Robert A. Seabock, 22, formerly of Palo Alto.

Pacifica Garbage Strike Continues

PACIFICA (UPI) — A strike by garbage truck drivers entered its ninth day today with no sign of settlement.

The 12 drivers of the Coastside Scavenger Co., which serves about 9,000 residential customers, were demanding higher wages and better fringe benefits.

Roth Bids For State's Top Job

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

William Matson Roth of Ross, scion of a San Francisco shipping family, became a dark-horse Democratic candidate for governor of California today.

The 56-year-old financier and University of California regent entered an already crowded race for the Democratic nomination next June with an announcement prepared for news conferences in Los Angeles, Sacramento and San Francisco.

"You know, I'm absolutely unknown," Roth said in an interview in April.

Since then, he has toured the state in a camper truck to test his chances of winning the governorship in 1974 when Republican Ronald Reagan steps down.

He still is relatively unknown. But in his statement today, Roth called for Democrats to join him in a political crusade that would return the power of government to the people.

"They know they want a less complicated and pleasanter life and a fuller sense of community," he said. "But they feel betrayed by a private and public leadership that has misused its own technological capabilities."

Roth has not run for statewide office before but has been active in politics for more than two decades, often serving as an effective Democratic fundraiser. He was Adlai Stevenson's Northern California finance chairman in 1952 and 1956.

Last year, Roth worked for Sen. Edmund Muskie in the Democratic primaries. During the general election, he was Northern California chairman for Sen. George McGovern.

Roth is a grandson of the founder of the Matson steamship line. He served as treasurer, vice president and a director of the firm during 1951-59.

Roth now is involved with several business firms, but he said in his announcement that his battle is with private as well as public leadership.

"It has become 'we the people' versus 'they,' the politicial and corporate leaders," he said.

Roth said he offers practical experience in both business and government, but he said the theme of his campaign would be "my independence, my openness and particularly my belief in the need to assert the public good."

Roth chose Ghirardelli Square for his San Francisco announcement. He is the developer of the square.

TOURING CLASS — Flower arrangement students from Japan watch Larkspur florist Katherine Eubanks (right) put the finishing touches on an arrangement that uses an old rotary sawblade and other scrap metal for a base. The touring group's teacher, kimono-clad Momeo Kaifu (center), of Nagoya, Japan, studied western floral arrangements in Mrs. Eubanks's shop seven years ago. She brought some of her students to Marin yesterday while on a tour of the western U.S.

Firemen Control Blaze At Novato

A fire which cut through 50 acres of grass, brush, and trees yesterday in a steep canyon surrounded by expensive Novato homes was still being mopped up today by Novato fire fighters.

The fire started at 4:59 p.m. and quickly turned into a raging inferno in the canyon between Drakewood Lane, Shevelin Road, Sunset Parkway, and the hill behind San Jose Junior High School.

One fireman said the blaze, fanned by a light breeze, was whipped into a vortex within the tight canyon walls, throwing flames 50 to 75 feet into the air

It quickly turned into a general alarm and Marin County fire department was called in to assist.

The fire was brought under control at 11:41 p.m. More than 50 firemen and 11 units including three from Marin County and two from Hamilton Air Force Base, were at the scene.

Novato Fire Chief Raymond Dougherty suffered a back injury while working the hose lines, and was taken to Novato General Hospital, where he was reported in good condition today

Although flames came to "within three feet" of some homes along Shevelin Road, according to Novato chief James W Kidder, no fire damage to structures was reported.

However, residents of the area estimate the smoke damage to the interiors of their homes in the thousands of dollars.

Mrs. Karl J. Zueger of 9 Shon Court said she went to get her sheep off the hill in front of the fire and left her house open. The house filled with moke and now will require complete cleaning of rugs and draperies to get rid of the smell, she said.

Armando Renzuello of 242 Shevelin Road, who raises homing-racing pigeons, let the birds out of their cages when the fire was within about six or eight feet of them

The pigeons circled around and around in the fire, going through the smoke until the fire was over and then most of them returned to their cages. Some had not returned at nightfall.

Chief Kidder praised a large number of teen-age volunteers who worked side-by-side with firemen.

"The amount of help which those young boys gave us — well we couldn't weigh it in terms of cost," he said. "They chipped right in and gave our men the extra hand where they needed it."

He added that residents of North Marin should know that the area is tinder dry He said firemen were lucky to be able to prevent damage and hold the fire to 50 acres.

He said that on a hotter day, or in a higher wind, "it would have been a different story. We would have had problems, a lot of problems."

Novato's Center Road Closing Is Announced

Center Road between Lu Sutton School and Wilson Avenue will be closed indefinitely starting today according to Novato acting public works director Thomas R. Nolan.

The stretch is being widened and reconstructed and the crew has run into problems with subgrading that require closing, Nolan said.

Japanese Visit Larkspur Florist

By JEFF GREER

A Japanese woman who once studied floral arrangements with Larkspur florist Katherine Eubanks returned to Larkspur yesterday, bringing her own students with her.

The 14 Japanese women and two men murmured softly and busily clicked cameras while Mrs. Eubanks demonstrated how occidental flower arrangers work Her former pupil, Momeo Kaifu of Nagoya, Japan, pointed out — in Japanese — to the far-travelling class how the arrangements differed from traditional Japanese use of flowers.

The women particularly were surprised to find that Mrs. Eubanks used a large purple cabbage, slashed to resemble a flower as the foundation for one arrangement

Only the diminuitive teacher wore classic Japanese women s garb She was clad in a bright, flowered silk kimono with a pale green and silver obi Her face was powdered the traditional white and her hair carefully piled high on her head. had henna tints A large white gardenia was tucked over her right ear

Her students wore western garb, ranging from print dresses and pantsuits for the women to dark business suits for the men.

When Momeo Kaifu returned to Japan after her studies in Larkspur seven years ago, she found her countrymen simply couldn't supply the many species of colorful flowers she had watched Mrs Eubanks using so freely in arrangements. So, she turned to making extremely lifelike, brilliant flowers from paper she explained.

The Japanese woman's fame as arranger and creator of artificial flowers grew when she wrote two brightly illustrated books on the art.

"She is the top flower teacher in Japan now," tour guide Shuji Tanoue explained She has schools both in Nagoa and in Tokyo.

Yesterday's visit caused much gift exchanging. The Japanese teacher gave Mrs. Eubanks and her two granddaughters colorful bouquets of paper flowers and a mass of paper snapdragons that Mrs. Eubanks promptly arranged as the students watched The visitor also gave Dale Eubanks, Mrs Eubanks's son who now operates the shop, copies of her two books.

In return, Mrs. Eubanks and her husband Ray gave each visitor a small corsage made of redwood sprigs, cones, and soft orange ribbons

The translator echoed Ray Eubanks explanation that the sprigs came from gigantic old trees in a five-acre grove at the Eubanks home in Booneville, Mendocino County The listeners murmured, seemingly awed by the description of the trees

Momeo Kaifu hugged the Eubanks granddaughters, and insisted that if they ever visit Japan, they must stay at her home.

Meanwhile, her students bustled from corner to corner of the florist shop, exclaiming to each other over terrariums and vases. Mrs. Eubanks explained that western arrangers haunt junkyard and antique stores in search of unusual containers; the students giggled.

Finally, the party reentered the tour bus back to San Francisco, where they already had inspected Golden Gate Park They also will visit Reno, Los Angeles and Hawaii on their trip.

Three Given Sentences For Theft

Two men, one a former employee of McDonald's restaurant in Strawberry, have been sentenced to 45 days in jail and placed on one year probation for stealing $2,259 from a safe at the restaurant.

A third man, said to have held the money while his friends went on a vacation to New Mexico and Disneyland, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and one year's probation. All three were ordered to repay the money.

Gary Richard Westover, 20, of Rancho Cordova, a former assistant manager at McDonald's and Michael John Connolly 20, of San Rafael were sentenced by Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best after they pleaded guilty to grand theft

James H Krainik, 20, of 136 Uplands Circle, Corte Madera, once a McDonald's maintenance man, was sentenced by Judge E. Warren McGuire, who had found Krainik guilty after a non-jury trial.

The Marin Probation Department's report on the three said they stole $2,259 from the McDonald's safe Feb. 6 "for a lark." Krainik, the report said, "did not give any real consideration to the consequences of his behavior."

Utah became the 45th state Jan. 4, 1896.

King of Sweden Is Seriously Ill

HELSINGBORG, Sweden (UPI) — King Gustaf VI Adolf lay seriously ill in the Helsingborg Hospital today, but his doctor expressed satisfaction with the monarch's response to treatment.

"The king had a quiet night and we are satisfied with his development," Prof Gunnar Bioerck, the king's chief personal physician, said in a brief statement.

Fog Cancels Out Morton

MOUNT MCKINLEY Alaska (UPI) — Secretary of the Interior Rogers C B Morton arrived by train last night after an abrupt change in plans.

Several hundred persons in Fairbanks listened to other speakers at a luncheon where they had expected to hear Morton.

Roy Sampsel, an assistant to Morton who arranged the Alaskan trip, said he had made the decision to cancel a planned overflying of portions of Alaska because of fog

Behr's Bill On Cronism To Governor

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to curtail "political incest" on certain special district governing boards won final approval today and went to the governor.

The bill, SB 488 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would limit the terms of appointees to the next general election.

Behr has criticized the common practice in some districts of appointing cronies to four-year terms just after elections. Appointed incumbents with four years in office usually are re-elected without effective opposition.

A broader version with the same provision, Behr's SB 489, is nearing final action in the Assembly. It would apply to all special districts, except school districts.

The bill also gives recreation and park district boards only 60 days to fill a vacancy. After that, the county board of supervisors would get the job, but if they also failed to act a special election would have to be held.

This provision was aimed at the problem the Strawberry Recreation District had over much of the past year in filling a vacancy. It took the board more than nine months to agree on an appointee.

Tiburon Subdivision Plan Before Court

A San Francisco law professor and neighbor of a proposed 16-unit subdivision in Tiburon filed suit yesterday to halt the project on grounds of an improper environmental impact report.

Justin C. Smith, professor at Hastings College of Law, contends the City of Tiburon erred in accepting a report on the Paradise Estates subdivision which was prepared by the developer, Pacific Land Projects Inc.

State law, Smith said in the action filed in Marin Superior Court, requires environmental impact reports to be prepared either by the governmental body involved — in this case the city of Tiburon — or a contractor selected by it.

Instead, the suit claimed, the developer assembled the document and the city accepted it without charge.

Smith also said the city council erred in throwing out an appeal of planning commission approval of the impact report and of the project itself on July 23.

At that meeting, Marg D. Widman, another neighbor of the development, who had appealed the impact report, withdrew her objections after the developer cut the project from 19 units to 16 and made other concessions.

Smith and 19 others had joined the appeal, but too late to meet statutory time limits, and Mrs. Widman was the only official appellant.

Smith, who lives at 16 Hillcrest Road, claims the development site on Paradise Drive near Trestle Glen Drive is a "truly unique asset to the surrounding area in that it is an undeveloped portion of Ring Mountain," which conservationists have vowed to protect from development.

Charter Flight Refunds Ordered

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 300 persons who paid up to $1,425 for charter flights they were not allowed to take will receive partial refunds, according to a Superior Court decision.

Judge David N. Eagleson ruled against Associated Cultural Clubs, Inc. and its principal operator, Maria Rita Bopp...

The summary judgment handed down Monday ended a two-year-old civil suit against the organization by the attorney general's office. Miss Bopp and the firm were also ordered to pay the state a civil penalty of $2,500 for making false and misleading statements to the public.

Development Near Center Is Supported

Plans for a restaurant and offices adjacent to the Washington Square Shopping Center were approved last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

Connolly Development Co. received approval for a steak house-type restaurant and offices on South McDowell Boulevard at McKenzie Drive. Developers said an apartment building now on the site will be moved to another location.

Commissioner Lyle D. Hood cast the only dissenting vote, saying developers had received rezoning approval only for offices and should not be permitted the restaurant.

In other business, the commission approved plans by Dr. Daniel P. Krakora to convert a building at 6 Fifth Street for a medical office and plans by Dr. Charles Brandner for a new veterinary clinic at 347 Lakeville Street.

Humane Society To Hold A Dog Wash

Junior volunteers from the Marin County Humane Society will hold a "dog wash", in which they will brush, groom and bathe dogs, from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Northgate Shopping Center.

They will set up with equipment, including tubs and dryers, near the fountain in the mall. The volunteers will only wash dogs who have been licensed, according to John Gill, humane society executive director.

Bagley Expresses Misgivings About The Tax Limit Initiative

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — The governor's Assembly spokesman on fiscal matters, William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, yesterday declared he has "strong misgivings" about the governor's tax limit initiative on the November ballot.

The assemblyman's public position has been strictly neutral, and he insisted his criticism of the initiative does not mean he was opposing it. He acknowledged the governor had asked him to be neutral on it, "and I said yes — and I keep my promises."

Bagley added "this is the first time I've been neutral, and it's tough." As the governor's spokesman in the lower house on fiscal issues, he said, his opposition to the initiative would have "an inordinate effect."

He tied his criticism to Friday's legislative approval of Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to cut the sales tax by a penny for six months starting Oct. 1. Bagley was one of only three assemblymen to vote against the measure.

The initiative, according to Bagley, would cut state spending money by $525 million, largely because it was written before the sales tax cut was proposed. The cut will cost the state $325 million in revenue under the initiative, which permanently ties spending limits to the sales tax in effect when the initiative is voted in November.

An additional $200 million simply was overlooked by the governor's staff when it drafted the initiative, Bagley said.

Passage of the initiative thus would "destroy the state's ability to solve any problems," he declared.

Inflation alone would push this year's $9.4 billion budget to $9.9 billion next year, but because of the sales tax cut the initiative would return the figure next year to $9.4 billion "and we totally ignore inflation. No household budget can ignore inflation," he added.

Bagley noted the governor belatedly realized the impact of the sales tax cut on his initiative, but was unable to work out any other solution with Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys. At the governor's request, Bagley said he attempted to set up a breakfast meeting between the two men the day before final legislative action on the sales tax cut, but Moretti declined.

Moretti, a candidate for governor next year, is opposed to the initiative and will use the same argument as Bagley to oppose it. The governor presumably will rebut that Moretti voted for the sales tax cut, and Moretti will counter that the cut was the governor's own idea.

The cut was triggered by the state's unprecedented $826 million tax surplus.

Bagley predicted that passage of the initiative would force local governments to make up the tax gap with lotteries, special user fees and increased sales taxes.

Chrysler Receives UAW Demands

DETROIT (UPI) —United Auto Workers leaders confronted Chrysler with its contract demands today, 24 hours after picking the company as a strike target if a new contract is not signed by Sept. 15.

If Chrysler and the UAW fail to reach agreement by 11:59 p.m. on Sept. 14, the union will order its 128,500 U.S. and Canadian members to strike the company.

NEW ZOO RESIDENTS

There's a population explosion of newborn cubs in the process at a St. Louis zoo. So far, the total is at 15. These three, a lion, leopard and jaguar cub play under the supervision of their cub-sitters, Mary Ann Moore (left) and Mary Lou Welling. This was part of the cubs' daily exercise yesterday, and zookeepers are getting their exercise keeping up. (UPI Telephoto)

Behr's Bill On Cronism To Governor

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to curtail "political incest" on certain special district governing boards won final approval today and went to the governor.

The bill, SB 488 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would limit the terms of appointees to the next general election.

Behr has criticized the common practice in some districts of appointing cronies to four-year terms just after elections. Appointed incumbents with four years in office usually are re-elected without effective opposition.

A broader version with the same provision, Behr's SB 489, is nearing final action in the Assembly. It would apply to all special districts, except school districts.

The bill also gives recreation and park district boards only 60 days to fill a vacancy. After that, the county board of supervisors would get the job, but if they also failed to act a special election would have to be held.

This provision was aimed at the problem the Strawberry Recreation District had over much of the past year in filling a vacancy. It took the board more than nine months to agree on an appointee.

Tiburon Subdivision Plan Before Court

A San Francisco law professor and neighbor of a proposed 16-unit subdivision in Tiburon filed suit yesterday to halt the project on grounds of an improper environmental impact report.

Justin C. Smith, professor at Hastings College of Law, contends the City of Tiburon erred in accepting a report on the Paradise Estates subdivision which was prepared by the developer, Pacific Land Projects Inc.

State law, Smith said in the action filed in Marin Superior Court, requires environmental impact reports to be prepared either by the governmental body involved — in this case the city of Tiburon — or a contractor selected by it.

Instead, the suit claimed, the developer assembled the document and the city accepted it without charge.

Smith also said the city council erred in throwing out an appeal of planning commission approval of the impact report and of the project itself on July 23.

At that meeting, Marg D. Widman, another neighbor of the development, who had appealed the impact report, withdrew her objections after the developer cut the project from 19 units to 16 and made other concessions.

Smith and 19 others had joined the appeal, but too late to meet statutory time limits, and Mrs. Widman was the only official appellant.

Smith, who lives at 16 Hillcrest Road, claims the development site on Paradise Drive near Trestle Glen Drive is a "truly unique asset to the surrounding area in that it is an undeveloped portion of Ring Mountain," which conservationists have vowed to protect from development.

Charter Flight Refunds Ordered

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 300 persons who paid up to $1,425 for charter flights they were not allowed to take will receive partial refunds, according to a Superior Court decision.

Judge David N. Eagleson ruled against Associated Cultural Clubs, Inc. and its principal operator, Maria Rita Bopp...

The summary judgment handed down Monday ended a two-year-old civil suit against the organization by the attorney general's office. Miss Bopp and the firm were also ordered to pay the state a civil penalty of $2,500 for making false and misleading statements to the public.

Development Near Center Is Supported

Plans for a restaurant and offices adjacent to the Washington Square Shopping Center were approved last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

Connolly Development Co. received approval for a steak house-type restaurant and offices on South McDowell Boulevard at McKenzie Drive. Developers said an apartment building now on the site will be moved to another location.

Commissioner Lyle D. Hood cast the only dissenting vote, saying developers had received rezoning approval only for offices and should not be permitted the restaurant.

In other business, the commission approved plans by Dr. Daniel P. Krakora to convert a building at 6 Fifth Street for a medical office and plans by Dr. Charles Brandner for a new veterinary clinic at 347 Lakeville Street.

Humane Society To Hold A Dog Wash

Junior volunteers from the Marin County Humane Society will hold a "dog wash", in which they will brush, groom and bathe dogs, from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Northgate Shopping Center.

They will set up with equipment, including tubs and dryers, near the fountain in the mall. The volunteers will only wash dogs who have been licensed, according to John Gill, humane society executive director.

Bagley Expresses Misgivings About The Tax Limit Initiative

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — The governor's Assembly spokesman on fiscal matters, William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, yesterday declared he has "strong misgivings" about the governor's tax limit initiative on the November ballot.

The assemblyman's public position has been strictly neutral, and he insisted his criticism of the initiative does not mean he was opposing it. He acknowledged the governor had asked him to be neutral on it, "and I said yes — and I keep my promises."

Bagley added "this is the first time I've been neutral, and it's tough." As the governor's spokesman in the lower house on fiscal issues, he said, his opposition to the initiative would have "an inordinate effect."

He tied his criticism to Friday's legislative approval of Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan to cut the sales tax by a penny for six months starting Oct. 1. Bagley was one of only three assemblymen to vote against the measure.

The initiative, according to Bagley, would cut state spending money by $525 million, largely because it was written before the sales tax cut was proposed. The cut will cost the state $325 million in revenue under the initiative, which permanently ties spending limits to the sales tax in effect when the initiative is voted in November.

An additional $200 million simply was overlooked by the governor's staff when it drafted the initiative, Bagley said.

Passage of the initiative thus would "destroy the state's ability to solve any problems," he declared.

Inflation alone would push this year's $9.4 billion budget to $9.9 billion next year, but because of the sales tax cut the initiative would return the figure next year to $9.4 billion "and we totally ignore inflation. No household budget can ignore inflation," he added.

Bagley noted the governor belatedly realized the impact of the sales tax cut on his initiative, but was unable to work out any other solution with Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys. At the governor's request, Bagley said he attempted to set up a breakfast meeting between the two men the day before final legislative action on the sales tax cut, but Moretti declined.

Moretti, a candidate for governor next year, is opposed to the initiative and will use the same argument as Bagley to oppose it. The governor presumably will rebut that Moretti voted for the sales tax cut, and Moretti will counter that the cut was the governor's own idea.

The cut was triggered by the state's unprecedented $826 million tax surplus.

Bagley predicted that passage of the initiative would force local governments to make up the tax gap with lotteries, special user fees and increased sales taxes.

Pact Is Signed For Steam Plant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has signed an agreement to build a 15th steam generating unit in the Happy Jack-Sulphur Bank geysers area in Sonoma County, the company announced yesterday.

The agreement for geothermal steam to operate a 55,000-kilowatt plant was signed with Pacific Energy Corp.

PG&E has eight geothermal power units operating in the geysers area and three under construction. Applications to operate three more are before the California Public Utilities Commission.

Ancient Indian Village Is Found

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) — The remnants of a prehistoric Indian village have been uncovered by a road building crew at Albany's Marine Corps Supply Center, officials said yesterday.

An Indian historian, Dan Kirkley of Camilla, said artifacts found at the site may date back 15,000 years.

Boy Scouts found some arrowheads at the site about four months ago, but it wasn't until bulldozer began digging a three-foot deep, 25-foot wide path through the base that the size of the find was realized.

Foreign Editor Is Hit, Killed By Car

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Gordon Jeffery, internationally known British foreign correspondent and editor, died yesterday after being hit by a car while in California to cover President Nixon.

Jeffery, 41, was foreign editor of the London Daily Mirror. He suffered massive internal injuries Monday night when he was struck as he ran across the Pacific Coast Highway in front of the hotel where the Western White House press corps stays. The driver of the car told police it was dark and he did not see Jeffery.

Suspect Held In Death Plot

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — The Brazilian government said last night a municipal official has been arrested on suspicion of plotting to assassinate President Emilio Garrastazu Medici.

The government reported the arrest indirectly in a brief announcement warning the nation's censored newspapers against publishing anything about it.

The announcement said Odair Pinto, a municipal councilor in Belo Horizonte, was arrested on suspicion of "preparing an attempt on the life of the president of the republic."

The agreement for geothermal steam to operate a 55,000-kilowatt plant was signed with Pacific Energy Corp.

PG&E has eight geothermal power units operating in the geysers area and three under construction. Applications to operate three more are before the California Public Utilities Commission.

Ancient Indian Village Is Found

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) — The remnants of a prehistoric Indian village have been uncovered by a road building crew at Albany's Marine Corps Supply Center, officials said yesterday.

An Indian historian, Dan Kirkley of Camilla, said artifacts found at the site may date back 15,000 years.

Boy Scouts found some arrowheads at the site about four months ago, but it wasn't until bulldozer began digging a three-foot deep, 25-foot wide path through the base that the size of the find was realized.

Foreign Editor Is Hit, Killed By Car

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Gordon Jeffery, internationally known British foreign correspondent and editor, died yesterday after being hit by a car while in California to cover President Nixon.

Jeffery, 41, was foreign editor of the London Daily Mirror. He suffered massive internal injuries Monday night when he was struck as he ran across the Pacific Coast Highway in front of the hotel where the Western White House press corps stays. The driver of the car told police it was dark and he did not see Jeffery.

Suspect Held In Death Plot

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — The Brazilian government said last night a municipal official has been arrested on suspicion of plotting to assassinate President Emilio Garrastazu Medici.

The government reported the arrest indirectly in a brief announcement warning the nation's censored newspapers against publishing anything about it.

The announcement said Odair Pinto, a municipal councilor in Belo Horizonte, was arrested on suspicion of "preparing an attempt on the life of the president of the republic."

Canadian Youth Killed In Wreck

An 8-year-old Canadian boy was fatally injured and three members of his family were seriously hurt in a shattering collision near Petaluma yesterday, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Saren Bertelson of Burnaby, B.C., died today in Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital, of massive head injuries and the loss of one arm.

His brother, Thomas, 11, was in Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma with severe head injuries, and his father, Elmar Arnt Bertelson, 39, was in Sonoma Valley Hospital with leg injuries. His mother Karin, 33, also was in Sonoma Valley Hospital with a fractured shoulder, the patrol reported.

Investigators said the accident happened shortly after 2 p.m. in the southbound outside lane of Highway 101 when the Bertelson station wagon was struck from the rear at a high rate of speed by a light van driven by Robert Charles Miller, 24, of 115 Jordan Street, San Rafael. The station wagon was slammed up an embankment, then rolled back down onto its top.

Officers said the accident is still under investigation and no citation has yet been issued.

Landmark Dims On Energy Cuts

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The State of Oregon pulled the plug on a landmark after Gov. Tom McCall ordered cuts in government use of energy and fuel.

The spotlight focused on the golden pioneer statue atop the Capitol was turned off last night.

For decades, the statue has been visible at night throughout the city.

Obscenity Law Is Struck Down

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —The Indiana Supreme Court yesterday struck down the state's obscenity law governing literature—saying the law was too vague to comply with U.S. Supreme Court obscenity law guidelines.

The high court ordered the convictions overturned of Harry Mohoney, convicted of sending pornographic literature into Indiana, and Allan Stroud, convicted of selling obscene literature.

The state law, enacted in 1961, banned the shipment of obscene material into Indiana.

Legislator Will Learn The Facts

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Rep. William S. Cohen wants to meet the voters and discuss "their problems, concerns, ideas or suggestions."

So the 32-year-old Maine Republican set off yesterday on a two-week, 300-mile trek through the state. He said he'll spend his nights in the homes of constituents.

$5 Million Suit Filed For Alleged Beating

A Sausalito man yesterday sued the County of Marin and various county officials for $5.5 million, claiming he was beaten when he tried to make a telephone call from County Jail May 5.

Gordon Lewis Johnson Jr., 39, of 260 Spencer Avenue, who was arrested in Sausalito that day on suspicion of drunken driving, filed the action in Marin Superior Court.

Johnson, a caterer, claimed he was illegally forbidden to make a telephone call by deputies Wayne Woodside and Steven Spaelti, and when he persisted they "did cruelly, willfully, maliciously and barbarically assail, batter, beat, strike, choke, kick, shove and otherwise abuse and brutalize" him.

After the alleged attack, the suit said, the deputies refused to allow him medical treatment for shock and wounds on his head and body. As a result he has been "permanently scarred and disfigured," according to suit.

Johnson asks $280,000 in medical damages, $300 for clothing he claims was ruined and $5.22 million in punitive damages.

Others named besides Spaelti and Woodside are Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, the County of Marin and the board of supervisors.

Supervisors Aug. 7 rejected a $2.5 million claim filed by Johnson, who pleaded guilty to the drunken driving charge and was sentenced to 15 days in jail suspended, placed on probation for two years and fined $302.

Jupiter-Bound Ship Enters Astrobelt

MOUNTAIN VIEW (AP) — The Jupiter-bound spacecraft Pioneer 11 has begun a seven-month journey through the 56-million-mile-wide astrobelt, the Ames Research Center reports.

Launched last April, Pioneer II is now one-third of the way on its 620-million mile trip to Jupiter. It is expected to reach there in early December of 1974, the center said.

Police Called To Quiet Christians

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Police were called to quiet a group of 30 church members singing hymns and picketing to protest the showing of the movie "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Harvey Smith, manager of the Town and Country Theater called police last night and complained that the group was blocking the entrance of his theater. Smith said they were singing hymns so loudly patrons watching the movie were disturbed.

The group, which has been picketing the movie since Saturday, left quietly after police arrived.

Planters Now Picking, Pickling Produce

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Home gardeners who struggled through the rains and other hazards of early planting this year, now are reaping the harvest with everything from beans to zucchini, fresh off the vine.

This means Phase 2 in the food economy drive — pickling and preserving and utilizing every pint and pound of produce.

Why not pickle some onions, or okra, as well as green tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, green beans, cauliflower or even zucchini? They are all super as pickled products — and most are as easy to do as dills or gherkins.

One way to achieve this variety is by putting up common foods in uncommon ways. The other is by putting up foods that almost never reach the marketplace.

YOU MAY want to make your own catsup this year, especially if you have a bumper crop of tomatoes. You may like to brine your own olives or salt your own fish.

But even sticking to the simple process of pickling can put you into three categories — the vegetable pickles, fruit pickles, and also fish pickles.

So here are some hints for the basic kind of pickling.

Premium pickle products cannot be obtained unless top-quality ingredients are selected, no matter what the product is. Vegetables should be tender. Fruit should be firm and slightly underripe.

If your products are now home grown, be sure to check to see that they are unwaxed. The pickling brine cannot penetrate a waxed vegetable.

The best salt for preparing a brine is a pure granulated salt. Use if it is available. Uniodized salt will produce a cloudy brine while iodized salt may cause the pickles to darken.

The best vinegar for pickling is either cider or distilled. Read the label before purchasing. A vinegar for pickling should have an acidity of 4 to 6 per cent if a firm pickled product is desired. This is 40 to 60 grain vinegar.

A word of caution — if a crisp, pickled product is desired, do not dilute the vinegar unless stated in the recipe.

Fresh spices are recommended for the best flavored products. Spices deteriorate quickly in heat and humidity. Alum and lime are not needed to make pickles crisp and firm if good quality ingredients and up-to-date procedures are used.

ALL PICKLE products should have heat treatment, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It recommends the heat, even for brined pickles and sauerkraut, to destroy organisms that cause spoilage and to inactivate enzymes that may affect flavor, color and texture.

Adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars in a boiling water bath. Check the water level in the water bath. It should be two inches over the jar tops. Count the processing time when the water begins to boil.

Any large metal container may be used for a water-bath canner if it has the following three requirements:

It must be deep enough to allow for two inches of water above the jar tops, plus extra space for boiling.

It must have a close-fitting cover.

It must be equipped with a wire or wood rack with partitions to keep jars from touching each other and falling against the sides of the canner.

A steam pressure canner can serve as a water bath. To use it for this purpose, set the cover in place without fastening it. Be sure the petcock is wide open so that steam escapes and pressure is not built up.

To ensure acceptable quality and bacteriological safety of the finished pickle product, you must follow recommended procedures. Ingredients, time, and money may be wasted if you use outdated or careless canning procedures.

Follow carefully the directions for closing jars according to the kind of cap you use, whether it is the two-piece metal cap or the porcelain lined zinc cap with shoulder rubber ring.

The end result — a delicate pickled product when the lush gardens are gone.

OKRA PICKLE

- 3½ pounds small okra pods
- 1 pint distilled vinegar, white
- 1 quart water
- ⅓ cup salt
- 3 small hot peppers, if desired
- 4 or 5 garlic buds
- 2 teaspoons dill seed

Pack okra firmly in hot sterilized Ball jars. Put a garlic bud in each jar. Combine remaining ingredients; simmer 15 minutes. Pour boiling brine in jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space and seal. Process in boiling water bath at simmering temperature, about 180 to 200 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Let ripen several weeks before opening. Yield: four to five pints.

PICKLED PEPPERS

- 4 quarts long red, green, or yellow peppers
- 1½ cups salt
- 4 quarts of water
- 2 cloves garlic
- 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- 10 cups vinegar
- 2 cups water
- ¼ cup sugar

Cut two small slits in each pepper. Wear rubber gloves to prevent burning hands. Dissolve salt in 4 quarts of water. Pour over peppers and let stand 12 to 18 hours in a cool place. Drain; rinse and drain thoroughly. Combine remaining ingredients; simmer 15 minutes.

Remove garlic. Pack peppers into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Pour boiling hot pickling liquid over peppers, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Adjust caps. Process half-pints and pints 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Yield: about eight pints.

Use Those Tomatoes For A Spicy Chutney

If you grow your own tomatoes or have a neighbor who brings over baskets full, turn them into tomato chutney, which is good with dinner and cold meats.

TOMATO CHUTNEY

- 3 pounds tomatoes
- 2 pounds apples
- 4 medium onions
- 2 cups cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 3¾ cups sugar
- ¼ cup orange marmalade
- 2 tablespoons mixed pickling spice

Wash, peel and core apples and tomatoes. Peel the onions, cut ingredients into quarters. Use a blender or coarse blade of a food chopper to cut the ingredients finer. Put in a four-quart saucepan.

Combine with other ingredients. Put spices in a cheese cloth bag before adding to the mixture. Cook the mixture over moderate heat for one to one and one-half hours or until it is thick. Stir frequently. Discard the spice bag. Pack the sauce in hot sterilized jars and seal. Makes four pints.

Suggestions: Mix the ingredients together in one large kettle. Make two separate bags of spices with one tablespoon in each bag. Cook the mixture in two two-quart saucepans. It will cook quicker and prevent sticking to bottom.

Salt Salads

Salt crisp green salids before serving. Salting too soon can cause the greens to wilt.

Company Lunch

Macaroni and cheese, baked in a loaf pan, is delicious turned out, sliced and served with a mushroom sauce. Makes a pleasant company lunch when offered with a salad.

Recipes Can Be Varied For Pancakes

It's fun — and very taste-tempting — to vary pancake recipes now and then. And when you start with complete pancake mix it really couldn't be simpler to do.

For mouth-watering Peach Pancakes with Bacon Syrup, add water and chopped canned peach slices to the mix and bake. Top the delicious stacks with hot maple-blended syrup to which crumbled crisp bacon slices have been added.

PEACH PANCAKES WITH BACON SYRUP

Makes 6 servings

Syrup:

- 4 bacon slices
- 1 cup maple-blended syrup

Pancakes:

- 2 cups complete pancake mix
- 1½ cups water
- ½ cup chopped canned peach slices, well drained

For syrup, pan-fry bacon until crisp; drain on absorbent paper. Place syrup in saucepan; heat thoroughly. Do not boil. Crumble bacon into warm syrup just before serving.

For pancakes, combine mix and water in bowl. Stir lightly until batter is fairly smooth. Fold in peaches.

For each pancake, pour about ¼ cup batter onto hot, lightly greased griddle to make 12 pancakes. Turn pancakes when edges look cooked. Turn only once.

Top each serving with warm bacon syrup.

Shrimp Dish For Calorie Counters

For calorie watchers who want to serve something flavorful, home economist Peggy Hopkins suggests this China-inspired Shrimp Marco Polo from her repertoire of new low-calorie recipes for the North Bay Division, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Rafael.

Either canned or fresh shrimp can be used, she adds.

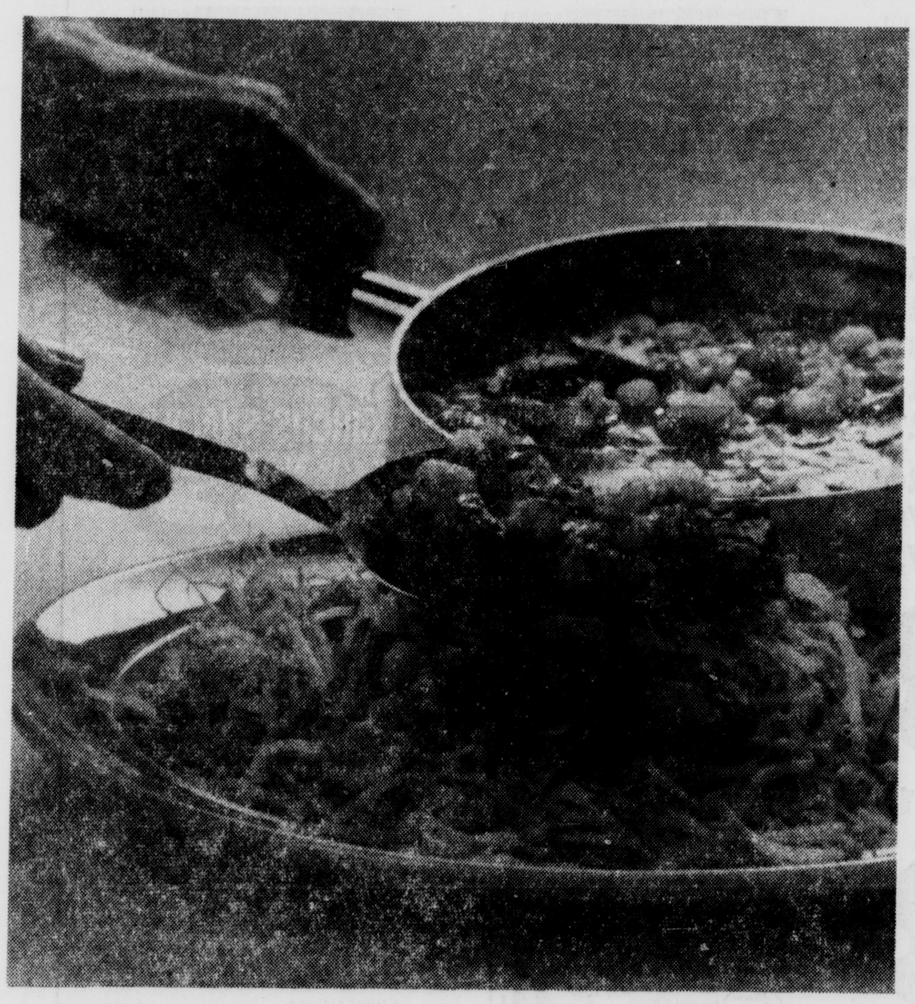
SHRIMP MARCO POLO

- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 cup fresh sliced mushrooms
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 1-pound can whole tomatoes, chopped
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- ½ teaspoon tabasco sauce
- 2 tablespoon parsley flakes
- 1 pound fresh bean sprouts
- 1¼ cups cooked or canned shrimp

Saute onion and celery in butter until limp; add mushrooms and saute one minute. Stir in garlic, tomatoes, tomato sauce, salt, tabasco and parsley flakes. Simmer, covered, 25 minutes to blend flavors; stir occasionally. Meanwhile, wash bean sprouts and place in saucepan leaving on excess water. Sprinkle with salt.

Cover and simmer 10 minutes; toss to cook evenly just until crisp tender. Add shrimp to sauce; stir to mix. Let stand a few minutes to heat shrimp; do not boil.

Serve over hot bean sprouts. Makes four servings, approximately 170 calories per serving.



SHRIMP MARCO Polo is a savory shrimp and mushroom dish in sauce poured over bean sprouts for an oriental and low-calorie supper.

Protein Food

Dry beans, peas, lentils, and peanut butter are good protein foods, and can be substituted occasionally for meat. We should have two servings of meat or meat substitutes every day.

Unusual Dressing For Green Salad

Try this green salad with an unusual dressing.

GREEN SALAD WITH CURRY DRESSING

- ½ head lettuce
- 2 cups fresh spinach
- 2 tomatoes
- 3 scallions
- 6 radishes, sliced

Dressing:

- ¾ cup oil
- ¼ cup vinegar
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- Salt and pepper to taste

Tear lettuce and spinach into pieces and place in a salad bowl. Cut tomatoes in wedges. Slice scallions including tops and add, along with tomatoes, to the salad greens. Combine dressing ingredients thoroughly. Toss salad with about one-third cup of salad dressing. Serve immediately.

Makes six servings.

Patties Sandwiched

Make thin patties of ground beef. Sandwich the patties together with pickle relish and thin onion rings. Grill as usual and serve between toasted buns.

Butterscotch Filling

Use butterscotch pudding mix as a filling for graham cracker crust. Top with whipped cream flavored with chocolate.

Floss On Turkey

Use dental floss when sewing a turkey. It won't dry out and will be easier to remove.

Main-Dish Omelet Uses Leftovers

Keep these ideas in mind to use when you are pressed for time.

For dinner tonight, make a simple main-dish omelet with an Italian accent to economically use up leftovers. Firttata is its name, made with sauteed vegetables, leftover bits of meat or fish. Here's how:

Saute minced onion, 1/4 cup diced leftover ham or other meat, any leftover vegetable or one thin-sliced zucchini in heated oil. Beat three eggs, one teaspoon grated parmesan cheese, 1/8 teaspoon basil, salt and pepper, mix well. Pour over vegetable mixture, cook until browned on one side. Turn, finish cooking. This should be flat, like a pancake. Makes two dinner servings.

BROILED EGGS AU GRATIN

Fry eggs in skillet on top of stove just until white begins to set. Sprinkle with grated cheese, place under broiler until done as desired.

EGGS DE LUXE

Arrange cooked asparagus or broccoli spears on toast. Top with two poached eggs and pour cheese sauce over all. Sprinkle with paprika.

BAKED EGGS IN HASH

Spread your favorite canned corned beef hash in baking pan. Make "wells" in hash. Drop eggs in "well." Bake in slow oven about 15 minutes.

AVOCADO LUNCH

Now, with avocados plentiful you can serve an egg-stuffed avocado half for a filling lunch meal. Coarsely chop six hard-cooked eggs with two tablespoons grated onion, 1/4 cup chopped parsley, one cup thinly sliced onion, one tablespoon chili sauce, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, salt and pepper to taste. Split, peel and pit avocados. Place avocado half on lettuce bed, fill with egg salad. Makes six servings.

EGG CLUB SANDWICHES

For four club sandwiches, spread your favorite seasoned egg salad on four toast slices, top with lettuce and a second toast slice. Spread with mayonnaise, top with tomato slices and crisp bacon or thin ham slices, then close with a third toast slice. Fasten with toothpicks topped with pitted ripe olives. Cut in quarters.

The secret of perfect eggs is slow, gentle cooking. Hard-cooked eggs are not boiled, but cooked at below simmering for about 20 minutes. Plunge eggs immediately into cold water to stop cooking. They shell easiest if cracked all over immediately, then gently peeled.

Planters Now Picking, Pickling Produce

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Home gardeners who strug gled through the rains and other hazards of early planting this year, now are reaping the harvest with everything from beans to zucchini, fresh off the vine.

This means Phase 2 in the food economy drive — pickling and preserving and utilizing every pint and pound of produce.

Why not pickle some onions, or okra, as well as green tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, green beans, cauliflower or even zucchini? They are all super as pickled products — and most are as easy to do as dills or gherkins.

One way to achieve this variety is by putting up common foods in uncommon ways. The other is by putting up foods that almost never reach the marketplace.

YOU MAY want to make your own catsup this year, especially if you have a bumper crop of tomatoes. You may like to brine your own olives or salt your own fish.

But even sticking to the simple process of pickling can put you into three categories — the vegetable pickles, fruit pickles, and also fish pickles.

So here are some hints for the basic kind of pickling.

Premium pickle products cannot be obtained unless top-quality ingredients are selected, no matter what the product is. Vegetables should be tender. Fruit should be firm and slightly underripe.

If your products are now home grown, be sure to check to see that they are unwaxed. The pickling brine cannot penetrate a waxed vegetable.

The best salt for preparing a brine is a pure granulated salt. Use if it is available. Uniodized salt will produce a cloudy brine while iodized salt may cause the pickles to darken.

The best vinegar for pickling is either cider or distilled. Read the label before purchasing. A vinegar for pickling should have an acidity of 4 to 6 per cent if a firm pickled product is desired. This is 40 to 60 grain vinegar.

A word of caution — if a crisp, pickled product is desired, do not dilute the vinegar unless stated in the recipe.

Fresh spices are recommended for the best flavored products. Spices deteriorate quickly in heat and humidity. Alum and lime are not needed to make pickles crisp and firm if good quality ingredients and up-to-date procedures are used.

ALL PICKLE products should have heat treatment, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It recommends the heat, even for brined pickles and sauerkraut, to destroy organisms that cause spoilage and to inactivate enzymes that may affect flavor, color and texture.

Adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars in a boiling water bath. Check the water level in the water bath. It should be two inches over the jar tops. Count the processing time when the water begins to boil.

Any large metal container may be used for a water-bath canner if it has the following three requirements:

It must be deep enough to allow for two inches of water above the jar tops, plus extra space for boiling.

It must have a close-fitting cover.

It must be equipped with a wire or wood rack with partitions to keep jars from touching each other and falling against the sides of the canner.

A steam pressure canner can serve as a water bath. To use it for this purpose, set the cover in place without fastening it. Be sure the petcock is wide open so that steam escapes and pressure is not built up.

To ensure acceptable quality and bacteriological safety of the finished pickle product, you must follow recommended procedures. Ingredients, time, and money may be wasted if you use outdated or careless canning procedures.

Follow carefully the directions for closing jars according to the kind of cap you use, whether it is the two-piece metal cap or the porcelain lined zinc cap with shoulder rubber ring.

The end result — a delicate pickled product when the lush gardens are gone.

OKRA PICKLE

3½ pounds small okra pods
1 pint distilled vinegar, white
1 quart water
⅛ cup salt
3 small hot peppers, if desired
4 or 5 garlic buds
2 teaspoons dill seed

Pack okra firmly in hot sterilized Ball jars. Put a garlic bud in each jar. Combine remaining ingredients; simmer 15 minutes. Pour boiling brine in jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space and seal. Process in boiling water bath at simmering temperature, about 180 to 200 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Let ripen several weeks before opening. Yield: four to five pints.

PICKLED PEPPERS

4 quarts long red, green, or yellow peppers
1½ cups salt
4 quarts of water
2 cloves garlic
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
10 cups vinegar
2 cups water
¼ cup sugar

Cut two small slits in each pepper. Wear rubber gloves to prevent burning hands. Dissolve salt in 4 quarts of water. Pour over peppers and let stand 12 to 18 hours in a cool place. Drain; rinse and drain thoroughly. Combine remaining ingredients; simmer 15 minutes.

Remove garlic. Pack peppers into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Pour boiling hot pickling liquid over peppers, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Adjust caps. Process half-pints and pints 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Yield: about eight pints.

Convenience Foods Hike Meal Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eating habits that depend increasingly on convenience foods, including snacks, are partly responsible for the high cost of food served at home.

This is an escapable conclusion based on the first quarter report of the National Menu Census, a study made every five years by the Market Research Corporation of America MRCA.

The report covers July-September, 1972, but "we have found in past years that what you learn in the first quarter carries through, except for seasonal items," says Edgar Nelson, board chairman of MRCA.

In an interview, Nelson said he expects the pattern to continue, despite consumer complaints about spiraling food prices.

Trends sighted in the report include a 15 per cent increase in carried lunches, but Nelson thinks this is due as much to an increase in the working populaton as it is to economy-minded consumers.

Supporting the big spender theory is a 50 per cent increase in wine consumption over the same period five years ago; expanded consumption of frozen multiple — course dinners in smaller towns and areas and an increase in the number of households serving them, and no decline in household consumption of expensive beef cuts.

However, roast beef consumption was down eight per cent, he added, while ground beef consumption rose 30 per cent and fish, 12 per cent. The latter two could be tied to budgeting, but the growth also can be linked with what an associate of Nelson termed a tremendous growth in sales of packaged dry mixes for making main dishes with ground meat or tuna.

Nelson said the most frequent users of frozen dinners are low-income, one-person households in the east-south-central region of the United States with an educational level of less than ninth grade.

He said the increase in wine serving was observed in lower income groups although the greatest growth was in upper income households.

The menu census, first made 20 years ago, tries to determine why people eat what they eat. Analyses of the informatin gathered in the census are sold to manufacturers for among other things guidance in developing new products and new uses for existing ones, planning advertising campaigns and tailoring products to specific markets.

Nelson said meal skipping is increasing but many snacks are served not at snack time but as part of a meal. Forty per cent of all corn chip procucts servings are in carried lunches.

Breakfast is the meal most often skipped, and the number one group of skippers consists of men and women 18-24 years old. The second most frequent breakfast skippers are the 13-14 year olds.

But midmorning snack incidence has increased only one per cent over five years ago, while afternoon snacks are up 10 per cent and evening ones, eight per cent.

At the same time, fewer regular main meals are being served. They represented 66 per cent of total meal serving occasions in 1967, but dropped to 63 per cent by 1972, while total snack serving occasions increased six per cent during the same period.

Nelson said the heaviest users of commercial snacks are high income households, but households of five or more persons also use commercial snacks frequently.

Curry Sauce

For a quick curry sauce you can use a can of condensed tomato soup, seasoning it with curry powder, Worcestershire sauce, instant minced onion and a dash of vinegar. Good with shrimp served over rice and topped with peanuts.

Austrian Pancakes: Entree Or Dessert

Austria's cuisine is a delightful potpourri reflecting the hundreds of years that Vienna was the center of the Hapsburg empire and Austria ruled many of its neighbors. Some of Austria's beloved dishes trace their origins to the surrounding countries that once made up this imperial empire.

Palatschinken, or pancakes, are known as palacsinta in Hungary. Austrians enjoy them either as an entree or as dessert, depending upon the filling.

For an entree, try the apple-sour cream filling. If the pancakes are for dessert, you'll want to fill them with the apricot-cheese mixture.

AUSTRIAN PANCAKES

3 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup club soda
Butter or margarine

Beat eggs with milk, sugar and flour. Let stand for 30 minutes. Just before preparing pancakes, stir in club soda. Brush a seven-inch crepe pan lightly with butter or margarine. Spoon about two or three tablespoons of the batter into the pan, rotating the pan so that the batter coats it evenly and thinly.

Cook over medium heat until edges of pancake are brown. Loosen edges of pancake with a knife and turn in pan and brown on other side.

Stack pancakes, cover and keep warm in a 300 degree oven until all of the pancakes have been made.

When ready to serve, fill with either apple-sour cream filling or apricot-cheese filling. Serve immediately. Makes 16 pancakes.

APPLE-SOUR CREAM FILLING

1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pie-sliced apples, drained and chopped
2 cups (1 pint) dairy sour cream
2 packages (6 ounces each) Austrian Swiss cheese, grated

At serving time, mix apples and sour cream. Spoon some of the sour cream mixture on each pancake. Sprinkle filling with some of the grated Swiss cheese. Roll up pancake, enclosing the filling. If desired, serve sprinkled with additional finely grated Swiss cheese.

APRICOT-CHEESE FILLING

1 cup apricot preserves
½ cup walnuts, ground
1 package (6 ounces) Swiss cheese, grated

Spread each pancake with apricot preserves. Sprinkle with ground walnuts and grated Swiss cheese. Roll up pancake, enclosing the filling.

Asparagus wilted? Refresh it. Put in cold water, stem ends down.

Convenience Foods Hike Meal Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eating habits that depend increasingly on convenience foods, including snacks, are partly responsible for the high cost of food served at home.

This is an escapable conclusion based on the first quarter report of the National Menu Census, a study made every five years by the Market Research Corporation of America MRCA.

The report covers July-September, 1972, but "we have found in past years that what you learn in the first quarter carries through, except for seasonal items," says Edgar Nelson, board chairman of MRCA.

In an interview, Nelson said he expects the pattern to continue, despite consumer complaints about spiraling food prices.

Trends sighted in the report include a 15 per cent increase in carried lunches, but Nelson thinks this is due as much to an increase in the working population as it is to economy-minded consumers.

Supporting the big spender theory is a 50 per cent increase in wine consumption over the same period five years ago; expanded consumption of frozen multiple — course dinners in smaller towns and areas and an increase in the number of households serving them, and no decline in household consumption of expensive beef cuts.

However, roast beef consumption was down eight per cent, he added, while ground beef consumption rose 30 per cent and fish, 12 per cent. The latter two could be tied to budgeting, but the growth also can be linked with what an associate of Nelson termed a tremendous growth in sales of packaged dry mixes for making main dishes with ground meat or tuna.

Nelson said the most frequent users of frozen dinners are low-income, one-person households in the east-south-central region of the United States with an educational level of less than ninth grade.

He said the increase in wine serving was observed in lower income groups although the greatest growth was in upper income households.

The menu census, first made 20 years ago, tries to determine why people eat what they eat. Analyses of the informatin gathered in the census are sold to manufacturers for among other things guidance in developing new products and new uses for existing ones, planning advertising campaigns and tailoring products to specific markets.

Nelson said meal skipping is increasing but many snacks are served not at snack time but as part of a meal. Forty per cent of all corn chip procucts servings are in carried lunches.

Breakfast is the meal most often skipped, and the number one group of skippers consists of men and women 18-24 years old. The second most frequent breakfast skippers are the 13-14 year olds.

But midmorning snack incidence has increased only one per cent over five years ago, while afternoon snacks are up 10 per cent and evening ones, eight per cent.

At the same time, fewer regular main meals are being served. They represented 66 per cent of total meal serving occasions in 1967, but dropped to 63 per cent by 1972, while total snack serving occasions increased six per cent during the same period.

Nelson said the heaviest users of commercial snacks are high income households, but households of five or more persons also use commercial snacks frequently.

Curry Sauce

For a quick curry sauce you can use a can of condensed tomato soup, seasoning it with curry powder, Worcestershire sauce, instant minced onion and a dash of vinegar. Good with shrimp served over rice and topped with peanuts.

Austrian Pancakes: Entree Or Dessert

Austria's cuisine is a delightful potpourri reflecting the hundreds of years that Vienna was the center of the Hapsburg empire and Austria ruled many of its neighbors. Some of Austria's beloved dishes trace their origins to the surrounding countries that once made up this imperial empire.

Palatschinken, or pancakes, are known as palacsinta in Hungary. Austrians enjoy them either as an entree or as dessert, depending upon the filling.

For an entree, try the apple-sour cream filling. If the pancakes are for dessert, you'll want to fill them with the apricot-cheese mixture.

AUSTRIAN PANCAKES

3 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup club soda
Butter or margarine

Beat eggs with milk, sugar and flour. Let stand for 30 minutes. Just before preparing pancakes, stir in club soda. Brush a seven-inch crepe pan lightly with butter or margarine. Spoon about two or three tablespoons of the batter into the pan, rotating the pan so that the batter coats it evenly and thinly.

Cook over medium heat until edges of pancake are brown. Loosen edges of pancake with a knife and turn in pan and brown on other side.

Stack pancakes, cover and keep warm in a 300 degree oven until all of the pancakes have been made.

When ready to serve, fill with either apple-sour cream filling or apricot-cheese filling. Serve immediately. Makes 16 pancakes.

APPLE-SOUR CREAM FILLING

1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pie-sliced apples, drained and chopped
2 cups (1 pint) dairy sour cream
2 packages (6 ounces each) Austrian Swiss cheese, grated

At serving time, mix apples and sour cream. Spoon some of the sour cream mixture on each pancake. Sprinkle filling with some of the grated Swiss cheese. Roll up pancake, enclosing the filling. If desired, serve sprinkled with additional finely grated Swiss cheese.

APRICOT-CHEESE FILLING

1 cup apricot preserves
½ cup walnuts, ground
1 package (6 ounces) Swiss cheese, grated

Spread each pancake with apricot preserves. Sprinkle with ground walnuts and grated Swiss cheese. Roll up pancake, enclosing the filling.

Asparagus wilted? Refresh it. Put in cold water, stem ends down.

DIPSEA RACE STORY

Marin Author Uses Various Setting

By BETTY FROST

Writer Susan Trott frequently uses a Marin background for the fiction she writes for adults and children.

The Dipsea Race, scheduled Sunday, provides the background for a short story which will soon appear in Redbook magazine.

In "Mr. Privacy," her first novel for children, published last year, the action is divided between Mill Valley and Stinson Beach. However, for "The Sea Serpent of Horse," her second book for children 11 and over, she returned to her native New England for the setting.

"I am interested in the between age child who likes to read and is ready to read something interesting. Children do love a good story, with a feeling of excitement about what is going to happen next, a satisfying conclusion and interesting characters. A lot of adult fiction has moved away from that treatment," the Mill Valley woman said.

A THIRD novel in this genre is complete and it will be set entirely in Mill Valley. The books are published by Little, Brown and Co. of Boston.

"Each of the books is completely different," she emphasized. "'The Sea Serpent of Horse' is a blend of reality and fantasy. The scene is Gloucester, Mass., where rumors of a sea serpent have persisted for generations. It piques the imagination."

Susan Trott has an extensive library of her own and does much of her research at home or in the Mill Valley Public Library.

She lives in one of the traditional brown shingled homes built for summer use at the turn of the century in the heavily wooded section of Mill Valley.

MOST OF her writing is done in a neat upstairs den, where everything she needs is at hand. A glass door leading down a short flight of steps takes her directly into a redwood grove. She maintains an orderly work schedule, and writes every day, usually devoting the entire morning to her work.

The legend that Jack London once vacationed in her home and wrote about it in "Sea Wolf" makes her feel that she is part of a literary tradition.

Her adult fiction, particularly her short stories, have been published all over the world. About four years ago, she began writing for children.

Susan is married to John Mitchell, who is in the shipping business with the Pacific Far East Lines. They have three children, Ann, 13; Emery, 11, and Natalie, 8.

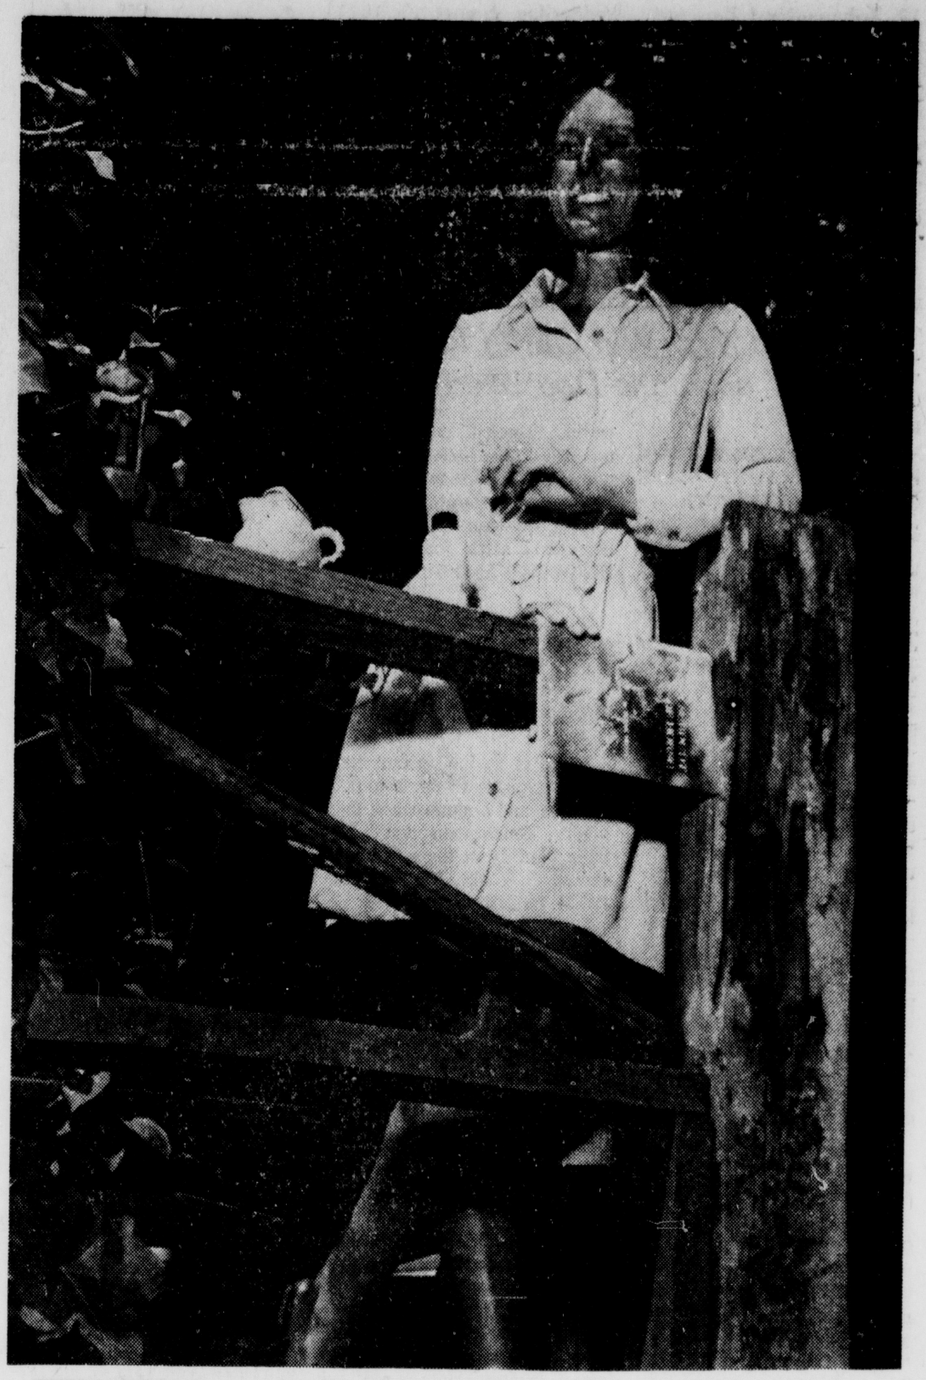
"When I have finished a children's novel I read it to our children," Mrs. Mitchell said. "Sometimes they make suggestions and I make changes in the stories."

Reared in Massachusetts, the writer attended Bennington College in Vermont but she left college to spend fulltime on her writing.

COMBINING FAMILY life and a career "has worked very well for me," she said. "I couldn't give up either one. The children arrived knowing that I write. If anything has to give, it's the housework. I do have to quite firmly refuse to become active in community affairs to do my work so that I can meet my commitments."

For refreshment she plays tennis and hikes on the mountain. "It is an antidote to writing to move around, to exercise and it gives me a feeling of well being," she said.

The Mitchells left the East 15 years ago and have lived in Mill Valley since coming to the Bay Area.



THE LEGEND that Jack London once vacationed in her Mill Valley home pleases writer Susan Trott, who has just had "The Sea Serpent of Horse," a children's book, published.

NORMAN AND Ila Campbell stand before an enlargement of their 1923 wedding picture, when Mrs. Campbell was 21 and he was 24. Their son surprised them with enlargements of many of their old photographs, and displayed the prints at the couple's 50th anniversary reception at the Art and Garden Center Sunday.

MARRIED IN COLORADO

The Norman B. Campbells Host 160 At Golden Wedding Party

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Campbell of San Rafael was celebrated Sunday at a reception attended by 160 guests at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Included in the guest list was Mrs. Campbell's 91-year-old mother, Mrs. Eva Jackson. The Campbells were wed Aug. 14, 1923, at her parent's home in Sterling, Colo.

The moved to Marin City in 1943 after farming in Colorado. Campbell, a carpenter, was working for the Burlington Railroad in Sterling before their marriage.

He was business manager for Carpenters' Local No. 35 of San Rafael from 1950 until his retirement in 1965, and he was twice president of the Marin City Council. Campbell was also one of the orginators of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and served two terms as treasurer for the Marin Association for Mental Health.

Campbell was also a member of the Marin Central Labor Committee, the county board of permit appels, the county's senior coordinating council and the negotiating committee for the Bay County District of the Carpenters' Union when the fringe benefit system was created.

He was also associated with the Boy Scouts for 27 years, and was on the committee that made recommendations and acquired the Marin Sierra Camp at Yuba Gap. He is currently on the advisory committee of the county vocation commission, and was one of its instigators, and a member of the growth and density committee.

His wife, Ila, has been active in the Carpenters' Ladies' Auxiliary and the ladies' auxiliarys of the San Rafael Methodist Church.

The Campbells have three children, Patricia Branson of Boise, Ida.; Eleanor Plumpbridge of Carson City, Nev., and Bernard Campbell of San Francisco; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Among the guests at the reception were Mrs. Campbell's brother, Rev. Montford Jackson of Denver, Colo., a retired Methodist minister, and Campbell's five brothers and sisters, Bruce Campbell of Novato; Jack Campbell of Inglewood; Harry Campbell of Mullen, Neb.; Mrs. Harry Burg of Bennett, Neb., and Mrs. Pearl Ruby of Fullerton, Neb.

Marin Women

Couple Married In Garden Rite

Deborah Lee Zeller wed Charles Sorrell Gush III Sunday in the garden of her parent's home in Kentfield.

Deborah, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Michael Zeller, chose Mrs. Dannis A. Gilardi of Mill Valley as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids at the afternoon wedding were Mrs. Douglas Sheeks of Belvedere and Mrs. Anthony Warberg of Sacramento.

Charles is the son of Mrs. Charles Huddleston of Berkeley and Charles Sorrell Gush Jr. of Palo Alto. Robert Hicks of San Francisco was his best man and Tom Willer of Davis and Anthony Warberg of Sacramento were ushers.

The bride was graduated from Redwood High School and the University of California, Davis. She is the sister of Mrs. Edward Gale Barry of Chapel Hill, N.C., and Dr. Michael E. Zeller of Woodbridge, Conn. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Michael J. Zeller of San Francisco.

The bridegroom was graduated from San Ramon High School in Danville and attended the University of California, Davis. He is employed at Butlers Nursery in Davis. Charles is the grandson of Mrs. Florine Walst of Almanor and Charles Sorell Gush of Menlo Park.

The newlyweds will live in Davis after a camping trip to Lake Almanor.

The annual barbecue of World Wings International will be held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Roberts in Novato, beginning at 2 p.m.

The hosts plan to use the slow roasting method Roberts learned in Australia to roast a whole lamb over a fire.

Swimming, archery and other activities are planned, followed by the dinner.

Reservations chairmen are Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Wayne S. Lowe of Mill Valley.

A BACKYARD barbecue is planned by Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae of Marin and their husbands on Saturday at 5:30 p.m. Hosts for the party will be Mrs. and Mrs. William Lewis of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Peter Van Alyea of Greenbrae is reservations chairman.

AN INITIATION ceremony will be held by San Rafael Assembly 195, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, at 7 p.m. Thursday at Masonic Hall in San Rafael.

Initiates will be Miki Dohemann and Nancy George. Susan George, worthy adviser, and Debbie Williams, faith, will conduct the ceremony. Assisting will be Mikki Fredericks, Laura Clark and Lori Kimberling.

The assembly will also review final plans for its booth at the Marin County Fair.

VOLUNTEERS TO assist with the Mill Valley Oral History Project will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Mill Valley Public Library. Mrs. Robert Andreson is chairman.

THE ANNUAL membership tea of the Marin Chapter, Women's Council of Realtors, will be held from 2 to 5:30 p.m. today at the home of the president, Mrs. Doris Green in Belvedere. A shuttle service will carry guests from the Safeway parking lot in Tiburon to the home.

THE QUESTION Marks Square Dance Club will dance Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Women's Club Hall in Cotati. Dane Hobaugh will be the caller.

Milk For Sleep

The September Family Circle maintains that all those tales about warm milk before bedtime producing a sound sleep is true. The calcium in milk, according to the magazine, has marvelous tranquilizing abilities.

Binding Feet Ancient Custom

Binding women's feet to make them appear smaller was a Chines custom for almost 1,200 years. To create these so-called "Mandarin feet," 10-foot long bandages were wound around the foot in such a way as to draw the heel and toes nearer together, making a bulge in the instep and a deep niche in the sole underneath.

"The degree of deformity," writes Dr. Martha E. Mottram, a San Francisco radiologist, in the American Journal of Roentgenology, "depends upon the age at which binding was initiated, on the skill and perseverance of the binder and the cooperation of the young girl."

X-rays of the feet of Chinese women mostly in their 80s now, suggest that they eagerly removed the bindings when the practice was declared illegal in 1911, Dr. Mottram said.

DIPSEA RACE STORY

Marin Author Uses Various Setting

By BETTY FROST

Writer Susan Trott frequently uses a Marin background for the fiction she writes for adults and children.

The Dipsea Race, scheduled Sunday, provides the background for a short story which will soon appear in Redbook magazine.

In "Mr. Privacy," her first novel for children, published last year, the action is divided between Mill Valley and Stinson Beach. However, for "The Sea Serpent of Horse," her second book for children 11 and over, she returned to her native New England for the setting.

"I am interested in the between age child who likes to read and is ready to read something interesting. Children do love a good story, with a feeling of excitement about what is going to happen next, a satisfying conclusion and interesting characters. A lot of adult fiction has moved away from that treatment," the Mill Valley woman said.

A THIRD novel in this genre is complete and it will be set entirely in Mill Valley. The books are published by Little, Brown and Co. of Boston.

"Each of the books is completely different," she emphasized. " 'The Sea Serpent of Horse' is a blend of reality and fantasy. The scene is Gloucester, Mass., where rumors of a sea serpent have persisted for generations. It piques the imagination."

Susan Trott has an extensive library of her own and does much of her research at home or in the Mill Valley Public Library.

She lives in one of the traditional brown shingled homes built for summer use at the turn of the century in the heavily wooded section of Mill Valley.

MOST OF her writing is done in a neat upstairs den, where everything she needs is at hand. A glass door leading down a short flight of steps takes her directly into a redwood grove. She maintains an orderly work schedule, and writes every day, usually devoting the entire morning to her work.

The legend that Jack London once vacationed in her home and wrote about it in "Sea Wolf" makes her feel that she is part of a literary tradition.

Her adult fiction, particularly her short stories, have been published all over the world. About four years ago, she began writing for children.

Susan is married to John Mitchell, who is in the shipping business with the Pacific Far East Lines. They have three children, Ann, 13; Emery, 11, and Natalie, 8.

"When I have finished a children's novel I read it to our children," Mrs. Mitchell said. "Sometimes they make suggestions and I make changes in the stories."

Reared in Massachusetts, the writer attended Bennington College in Vermont but she left college to spend fulltime on her writing.

COMBINING FAMILY life and a career "has worked very well for me," she said. "I couldn't give up either one. The children arrived knowing that I write. If anything has to give, it's the housework. I do have to quite firmly refuse to become active in community affairs to do my work so that I can meet my commitments."

For refreshment she plays tennis and hikes on the mountain. "It is an antidote to writing to move around, to exercise and it gives me a feeling of well being," she said.

The Mitchells left the East 15 years ago and have lived in Mill Valley since coming to the Bay Area.

THE LEGEND that Jack London once vacationed in her Mill Valley home pleases writer Susan Trott, who has just had "The Sea Serpent of Horse," a children's book, published.

NORMAN AND Ila Campbell stand before an enlargement of their 1923 wedding picture, when Mrs. Campbell was 21 and he was 24. Their son surprised them with enlargements of many of their old photographs, and displayed the prints at the couple's 50th anniversary reception at the Art and Garden Center Sunday.

MARRIED IN COLORADO

The Norman B. Campbells Host 160 At Golden Wedding Party

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Campbell of San Rafael was celebrated Sunday at a reception attended by 160 guests at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Included in the guest list was Mrs. Campbell's 91-year-old mother, Mrs. Eva Jackson. The Campbells were wed Aug. 14, 1923, at her parent's home in Sterling, Colo.

The moved to Marin City in 1943 after farming in Colorado. Campbell, a carpenter, was working for the Burlington Railroad in Sterling before their marriage.

He was business manager for Carpenters' Local No. 35 of San Rafael from 1950 until his retirement in 1965, and he was twice president of the Marin City Council. Campbell was also one of the orginators of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and served two terms as treasurer for the Marin Association for Mental Health.

Campbell was also a member of the Marin Central Labor Committee, the county board of permit appels, the county's senior coordinating council and the negotiating committee for the Bay County District of the Carpenters' Union when the fringe benefit system was created.

He was also associated with the Boy Scouts for 27 years, and was on the committee that made recommendations and acquired the Marin Sierra Camp at Yuba Gap. He is currently on the advisory committee of the county vocation commission, and was one of its instigators, and a member of the growth and density committee.

His wife, Ila, has been active in the Carpenters' Ladies' Auxiliary and the ladies' auxiliarys of the San Rafael Methodist Church.

The Campbells have three children, Patricia Branson of Boise, Ida.; Eleanor Plumpbridge of Carson City, Nev., and Bernard Campbell of San Francisco; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Among the guests at the reception were Mrs. Campbell's brother, Rev. Montford Jackson of Denver, Colo., a retired Methodist minister, and Campbell's five brothers and sisters, Bruce Campbell of Novato; Jack Campbell of Inglewood; Harry Campbell of Mullen, Neb.; Mrs. Harry Burg of Bennett, Neb., and Mrs. Pearl Ruby of Fullerton, Neb.

HELEN HELP US!

Miss And Mrs. Win Out In Poll, But 'Ms' and Jane Doe Liked, Too

READERS:

Earlier this summer I asked for your vote on the Ms. vs. Mrs. or Miss controversy.

Predictably, the traditional "Miss" and "Mrs." won, but the count was closer than you might expect: 61 per cent for Mrs. or Miss, and 39 per cent for the new Ms., with several adding they really preferred no title at all — "Just call me Jane, or if you want to be formal, Jane Doe."

Here are some of the better arguments:

If women must proclaim their marital status, why not men? You can call me "Mrs." when you call my husband "Mrd." (short for "Married.") — MS. RILEY

"Miss" has sweetness, class and dignity; it is a definite person word. I don't like "Ms." which is one step more in reducing us to nonentities. It has a sad sound, like a sad ending. . .a sound of fizzling out — Mzzzz. . .— MISS S.G.

According to etiquette, a divorced woman is still "Mrs." (or was until "Ms." came along). When you are released from prison, after having paid your debt to society, you aren't required to wear your prison number, or sign it after your name as though to tell the world, "Once I made a mistake." I'd take back my maiden name, but it's too much hassle, changing accounts, etc. and there's my daughter to consider. So I settle for "Ms." — DIVORCED AND GLAD

I'm a man who prefers Miss or Mrs., so I'll know where I stand. Messing around with a Mrs. can be dangerous. — JULES

There is no law in our state which requires a woman to take her husband's name when they marry. Since men don't lose their identity at the altar, why should I? — MS. JONES MARRIED TO MR. SMITH

I'm proud to be the Mrs. of my beloved Mr. — 46 YEARS MARRIED

I prefer "Ms." to keep 'em guessing. — WIDOWED

I abhor "Ms." as much as I dislike "committeeperson," "chairperson," etc. When mail comes to me addressed "Ms." I refuse it. — MRS. T.C.

Titles are the expression of respect to the individual. Referring to the woman in terms of her relationship to a man — or non-relationship as the case may be — takes her personhood away. It's time women realized their worth. — FEMALE NON-APPENDAGE

I prefer "Miss," so that interesting men will be more interested in me. — WOULD RATHER MIX THAN FIGHT

I think "Ms." was created for the angry woman — the one who is unhappily single or unhappily married. My marriage has never meant being restrained, hampered or "unliberated," but only "enhanced" as a whole person. — MRS. FOREVER

As a businessman, I was using "Ms." in letter salutations long before it became a cause. When women sign themselves "Mary Smith" — no title — it's the only safe way to go. — EXECUTIVE

I prefer "Mrs." because I am proud that a man has chosen me to be his lifetime mate and I want everyone to know I wear the title as I would a crown. "Ms." denotes nothingness. — MRS. S.C.K.

My husband owns me by law. I've been compelled to take his name, his credit rating, his insulting remarks. I need something to call my own. "Ms." gives me at least a little individuality. — MSFORTUNATE

To me, "Ms." signifies either a wealthy, haughty career woman or an old maid who doesn't want anyone to know her manless status. — MRS. AVERAGE WOMAN

"Ms." sounds like the buzzing of an insect, which is what these liberationists are, buzzing around trying to change our God-given privilege to be protected by men. — AGAINST THE MIZ-BIZ.

James Clark, Gail Prebil Say Vows

The Art and Garden Center in Ross was the setting for the Aug. 12 wedding of Gail Johanna Prebil to James Davis Clark Jr., both of San Rafael.

Gail, the daughter of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Fred C. Prebil of San Rafael, chose her sister Catherine J. Prebil as maid of honor. David Warren of Dallas, Tex., was the best man.

James, the son of Mrs. Mary E. Clark of Houston, Tex., chose his brother Edward J. Clark of San Mateo as an usher at the afternoon wedding.

The bride was graduated from Terra Linda High School, the University of Santa Clara and the University of California at Los Angeles where she received her teaching credential. She now teaches at Carondelet High School in Walnut Creek.

James was graduated from Westbury High School in Houston and Austin College in Sherman, Tex. He is employed with Pacific Gas & Electric Co. in San Francisco.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice T. Briggs of Lynn, Mass., and the brother of Robert C. Clark, also of Lynn.

The newlyweds will make their home in Walnut Creek after a wedding trip to Boston, Mass., and Montreal and Quebec, Canada.

FIRST YEAR

The Funny-Looking Feet, Legs Perfectly Normal In An Infant

Sixteenth in a series

Most babies' legs and feet don't look "normal" until the child has been walking for several years. The feet seem to turn in or out in the first year of life. The legs look bowed by the time a baby is 12 or 18 months old.

Almost all of these funny-looking feet and legs are perfectly normal and will gradually straighten out as he runs, plays, and climbs. If you can move the foot easily into a "normal" looking position, and if the foot moves freely when he kicks and struggles, it is almost certainly a normal foot that developed a bend or twist while he was sitting on it during your pregnancy.

YOU WON'T cause bowed legs by pulling your baby into a standing position or letting him walk or stand "too early." Also, he won't learn to walk any sooner by being placed in a walker —which usually isn't much fun for him anyway.

About 1/4 of all babies develop a swelling at the navel. This usually grows rapidly for several months, then grows with the baby for several months, then gets smaller and disappears. Large hernias may not go away until the child is 4-6 years old. The bulge often gets tight or tense when the baby cries or coughs.

Since these hernias almost always go away if they are left alone for long enough, there is no reason to have them repaired by surgery. They almost never cause any kind of trouble or pain. Occasionally a 4 to 6-year-old child may be embarrassed by a particularly large hernia, and it can be repaired at that time. By waiting, you will almost certainly save your baby an unpleasant and unnecessary operation.

The boy's penis and scrotum and the girl's clitoris and labia are usually rather large at birth. They get slightly smaller over the next few weeks.

A girl may have a slight white discharge in the first few weeks, which is normal. It should become less and should not irritate the skin. Get medical advice if it becomes worse or if she develops a discharge after the first week or two. Any bulge or lump in a girl's genitals should be checked by a doctor.

ONE OR BOTH of a boy's testicles may seem particularly large, and be surrounded by a water sac or "hydrocele." These are painless and cause no harm. They go away by themselves, usually within a few months. Seek medical care for any swelling in the groin, and seek medical care immediately for any painful swelling in the groin or testicles.

A circumcision should heal completely within a week to 10 days. The tip of a circumcised boy's penis may become irritated by the diaper. Put a little vaseline or zinc oxide paste on the irritated area each time you change the diaper.

If you want your boy circumcised, have it done while you are still in the hospital. If it not necessary, and it should almost never be done as a special operation once you and he have left the hospital (except for religious circumcisions).

THE FIRST teeth usually appear at about 6 months of age and the average one-year-old has about six teeth. But don't worry if they come by 3 or 4 months, or not until 12 or 13 months. Early or late teeth don't seem to make any difference to the baby. He can chew most foods with his gums.

When a tooth is coming through the gum, the gum may become red and sore, and the baby may seem irritable for a day or so. Sucking on something cold may help. Half of a baby aspirin every 3 or 4 hours may relieve the pain. Don't use teething lotions or paragoric to rub the gums; they are often dangerous. And don't blame fever, vomiting, or other signs of illness (other than mild fussiness, some spitting up, and slight change in bowels) on teething. If your child really seems sick, it is not his "teething" that is causing it.

HELEN HELP US!

Miss And Mrs. Win Out In Poll, But 'Ms' and Jane Doe Liked, Too

READERS:

Earlier this summer I asked for your vote on the Ms. vs. Mrs. or Miss controversy.

Predictably, the traditional "Miss" and "Mrs." won, but the count was closer than you might expect: 61 per cent for Mrs. or Miss, and 39 per cent for the new Ms., with several adding they really preferred no title at all — "Just call me Jane, or if you want to be formal, Jane Doe."

Here are some of the better arguments:

If women must proclaim their marital status, why not men? You can call me "Mrs." when you call my husband "Mrd." (short for "Married.") — MS. RILEY

"Miss" has sweetness, class and dignity; it is a definite person word. I don't like "Ms." which is one step more in reducing us to nonentities. It has a sad sound, like a sad ending. . .a sound of fizzling out — Mzzzz. . .— MISS S.G.

According to etiquette, a divorced woman is still "Mrs." (or was until "Ms." came along). When you are released from prison, after having paid your debt to society, you aren't required to wear your prison number, or sign it after your name as though to tell the world, "Once I made a mistake." I'd take back my maiden name, but it's too much hassle, changing accounts, etc. and there's my daughter to consider. So I settle for "Ms." — DIVORCED AND GLAD

I'm a man who prefers Miss or Mrs., so I'll know where I stand. Messing around with a Mrs. can be dangerous. — JULES

There is no law in our state which requires a woman to take her husband's name when they marry. Since men don't lose their identity at the altar, why should I? — MS. JONES MARRIED TO MR. SMITH

I'm proud to be the Mrs. of my beloved Mr. — 46 YEARS MARRIED

I prefer "Ms." to keep 'em guessing. — WIDOWED

I abhor "Ms." as much as I dislike "committeeperson," "chairperson," etc. When mail comes to me addressed "Ms." I refuse it. — MRS. T.C.

Titles are the expression of respect to the individual. Referring to the woman in terms of her relationship to a man — or non-relationship as the case may be — takes her personhood away. It's time women realized their worth. — FEMALE NON-APPENDAGE

I prefer "Miss," so that interesting men will be more interested in me. — WOULD RATHER MIX THAN FIGHT

I think "Ms." was created for the angry woman — the one who is unhappily single or unhappily married. My marriage has never meant being restrained, hampered or "unliberated," but only "enhanced" as a whole person. — MRS. FOREVER

As a businessman, I was using "Ms." in letter salutations long before it became a cause. When women sign themselves "Mary Smith" — no title — it's the only safe way to go. — EXECUTIVE

I prefer "Mrs." because I am proud that a man has chosen me to be his lifetime mate and I want everyone to know I wear the title as I would a crown. "Ms." denotes nothingness. — MRS. S.C.K.

My husband owns me by law. I've been compelled to take his name, his credit rating, his insulting remarks. I need something to call my own. "Ms." gives me at least a little individuality. — MSFORTUNATE

To me, "Ms." signifies either a wealthy, haughty career woman or an old maid who doesn't want anyone to know her manless status. — MRS. AVERAGE WOMAN

"Ms." sounds like the buzzing of an insect, which is what these liberationists are, buzzing around trying to change our God-given privilege to be protected by men. — AGAINST THE MIZ-BIZ.

James Clark, Gail Prebil Say Vows

The Art and Garden Center in Ross was the setting for the Aug. 12 wedding of Gail Johanna Prebil to James Davis Clark Jr., both of San Rafael.

Gail, the daughter of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Fred C. Prebil of San Rafael, chose her sister Catherine J. Prebil as maid of honor. David Warren of Dallas, Tex., was the best man.

James, the son of Mrs. Mary E. Clark of Houston, Tex., chose his brother Edward J. Clark of San Mateo as an usher at the afternoon wedding.

The bride was graduated from Terra Linda High School, the University of Santa Clara and the University of California at Los Angeles where she received her teaching credential. She now teaches at Carondelet High School in Walnut Creek.

James was graduated from Westbury High School in Houston and Austin College in Sherman, Tex. He is employed with Pacific Gas & Electric Co. in San Francisco.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice T. Briggs of Lynn, Mass., and the brother of Robert C. Clark, also of Lynn.

The newlyweds will make their home in Walnut Creek after a wedding trip to Boston, Mass., and Montreal and Quebec, Canada.

FIRST YEAR

The Funny-Looking Feet, Legs Perfectly Normal In An Infant

Sixteenth in a series

Most babies' legs and feet don't look "normal" until the child has been walking for several years. The feet seem to turn in or out in the first year of life. The legs look bowed by the time a baby is 12 or 18 months old.

Almost all of these funny-looking feet and legs are perfectly normal and will gradually straighten out as he runs, plays, and climbs. If you can move the foot easily into a "normal" looking position, and if the foot moves freely when he kicks and struggles, it is almost certainly a normal foot that developed a bend or twist while he was sitting on it during your pregnancy.

YOU WON'T cause bowed legs by pulling your baby into a standing position or letting him walk or stand "too early." Also, he won't learn to walk any sooner by being placed in a walker —which usually isn't much fun for him anyway.

About 1/4 of all babies develop a swelling at the navel. This usually grows rapidly for several months, then grows with the baby for several months, then gets smaller and disappears. Large hernias may not go away until the child is 4-6 years old. The bulge often gets tight or tense when the baby cries or coughs.

Since these hernias almost always go away if they are left alone for long enough, there is no reason to have them repaired by surgery. They almost never cause any kind of trouble or pain. Occasionally a 4 to 6-year-old child may be embarrassed by a particularly large hernia, and it can be repaired at that time. By waiting, you will almost certainly save your baby an unpleasant and unnecessary operation.

The boy's penis and scrotum and the girl's clitoris and labia are usually rather large at birth. They get slightly smaller over the next few weeks.

A girl may have a slight white discharge in the first few weeks, which is normal. It should become less and should not irritate the skin. Get medical advice if it becomes worse or if she develops a discharge after the first week or two. Any bulge or lump in a girl's genitals should be checked by a doctor.

ONE OR BOTH of a boy's testicles may seem particularly large, and be surrounded by a water sac or "hydrocele." These are painless and cause no harm. They go away by themselves, usually within a few months. Seek medical care for any swelling in the groin, and seek medical care immediately for any painful swelling in the groin or testicles.

A circumcision should heal completely within a week to 10 days. The tip of a circumcised boy's penis may become irritated by the diaper. Put a little vaseline or zinc oxide paste on the irritated area each time you change the diaper.

If you want your boy circumcised, have it done while you are still in the hospital. If it not necessary, and it should almost never be done as a special operation once you and he have left the hospital (except for religious circumcisions).

THE FIRST teeth usually appear at about 6 months of age and the average one-year-old has about six teeth. But don't worry if they come by 3 or 4 months, or not until 12 or 13 months. Early or late teeth don't seem to make any difference to the baby. He can chew most foods with his gums.

When a tooth is coming through the gum, the gum may become red and sore, and the baby may seem irritable for a day or so. Sucking on something cold may help. Half of a baby aspirin every 3 or 4 hours may relieve the pain. Don't use teething lotions or paragoric to rub the gums; they are often dangerous. And don't blame fever, vomiting, or other signs of illness (other than mild fussiness, some spitting up, and slight change in bowels) on teething. If your child really seems sick, it is not his "teething" that is causing it.

Hotel To Out Broadway Broadway

By WILLIAM MARLIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — You theater buffs want to know something? The longest (and highest) running show in Broadway history is about to hit the boards.

In a cyclopic coup d'grace, Atlanta-based architect John Portman has up-ended the Great White Way in the guise of a 54-story, 2,020-room caravansarie for Western International Hotels.

With approval by the city planning commission and the board of estimate, construction is set for next spring, with a planned-for opening early in 1977

Located on the west side of Broadway between 45th and 46th streets, Portman's regards thereto will cost around $150 million — and steal just about every show in town.

But, then, that is Portman's style Certainly his significance. As architecture's answer to David Merrick, his proposed city-within-a-city is designed to show up the mediocrity of neighboring Times Square for what it is and send it packing.

The idea worked out over the last several years in Mayor John V. Lindsay's Office of Midtown Planning and Development: Phase out the district's vehicular and visual pollution; phase in pedestrian and plaza activity; encourage developers, by means of New York's zoning-bonus system, to include public amenities and cultural facilities in new structures.

The proposed hotel takes what planners call the "zoning envelope" and licks it absolutely clean. It not only meets the maximum zoning limit in midtown but, because of the amenities included, stretches that limit 20 per cent — the maximum bonus provided by the innovative theater district code, which is one of the many urban-design "firsts" to have emerged from the Lindsay years.

Considering that Portman is a developer as well as an architect (his Portman Properties co-owns the hotel with Peter J. Sharp of New York), he quickly grasped the economic as well as design dividends of theater district zoning. This translated into the mind-blowing mix of activities he is about to build.

Two squared-off pylons, parallel to each other and running east and west, will punctuate the skyline. Deep trusses, 112 feet long, will connect these vertical elements, supporting the various levels of activity.

Like Portman's already reknowned hotels in Atlanta, Chicago, and San Francisco (The Hyatt Regency) this one will have a soaring atrium lending drama and unity to the first seven levels above the street entrance, these containing retail shops, services, specialty restaurants — all housing successively recessed "balconies" overlooking the common space.

Still another such atrium looms above the 13th-floor registration lobby, rising 35 stories above the lobby's shops, cafe, and lounges, brushing by a mezzanine restaurant and club, spatially embracing balcony after balcony of guest rooms.

In between the atria, on the ninth floor, and again on the two topmost floors, things will revolve — dervishly, one suspects. These include the ninth-floor lounge, encased in a cylinder of glass overlooking Broadway which will be reached by a bridge extending from a truss-supported terrace, and, then, the cylindrical penthouse lounge and restaurant.

Other facilities include an exhibition hall on the 10th floor, and a cavernous ballroom with adjacent meeting rooms on the 11th and 12th floors — all of which will make the hotel a self-contained community of spaces for any caravan (or convention) which comes along.

The progression of space from atria to atria, from lobby to registration to room, will be heightened by the street-to-penthouse pillar to which 12 glass-enclosed elevators will be attached.

As you walk into the behemoth from Broadway, passing still another glass-enclosed cafe, you will be ushered into a kind of space capsule, looking as though it was designed by Busby Berkley in consultation with George Orwell.

The capsule will fling you up through the pool of the lower atrium, through the atrium itself, — all refreshed, as you are sure to be, for the registration lobby, and its pool. After having made your first splash on Broadway, you would then be flung through the upper atrium to your appointed place of rest or recreation.

In psychological terms, one has to wonder whether this drama may not be a little overdone. Huge hunks of space, with lots of things happening, in space, with little happening. However entertaining, this kind of vertigo-go approach, if taken too far and in big doses, can prove disorienting.

If you happen to be visiting from, say, Dubuque, getting back home may be the last thing on your mind — before you lose it.

The reassuring thing is, Portman seems to have taken this psychological danger into account — a solid professional responsibility when you start building this big. This is especially evident in the alternately recessed tiers of rooms overlooking the great atrium.

Besides giving a texture to the exterior, this arrangement helps lend scale and rhythm to what might otherwise be an overwhelmingly huge, ungraspable space. Perhaps, because of this, the human senses will be better able to contend with the immensity.

Architecture is, of course, not just the configuration of space within a building. It is, just as vitally, the configuration of space between buildings. In this sense, an individual building (including this one) becomes almost incidental to the life and activity it generates.

In the scale of Times Square, and in line with midtown redevelopment plans, John Portman's design is, itself, a configuration and even a consummation of the economic and cultural forces at work in New York.

Instead of the usually required setback, the building will edge up to the streetcurb, helping conserve the spatial identity of Times Square.

Instead of a commercial venture turning its back on cultural values, the building will hollow beneath its entry plaza, becoming a 1,050-seat legitimate theater.

Rather than remaining aloof from its neighbors, the building will include an extension of existing Shubert Alley, renovation of the 46th Street Theater, and provision for a 400-car garage.

So the hotel has, indeed, extended itself — both within and without, making economic and zoning realities work for the redemption of city life.

Another French Test Blast Seen

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — French warships are still at the Mururoa Atoll blasting site, presumably preparing for the fourth explosion in France's controversial 1973 nuclear testing program, political sources said today

The sources said French military and Atomic Energy Commission experts, who have already triggered three explosions over the Pacific Ocean atoll 620 miles southeast of Tahiti, plan one or two additional blasts.

It Will All Be Legal Now

CARSON CITY, Nev (UPI) — If judges in remote Nevada hamlets aren't sure what habeas corpus means, they'll soon have a way to find out.

Supreme Court Justice E.M. (Al) Dunderson announced yesterday that legal dictionaries are being supplied to justices of the peace and municipal court judges throughout the state.

He said many judges in outlying areas, where access to law libraries is difficult, need a glossary for legal terms.

The dictionaries, costing $1,000, will be paid for by the Nevada Crime Commission and State Justices Association. The Crime Commission last month agreed to provide medical dictionaries to justices who also act as coroners.

Hotel To Out Broadway Broadway

By WILLIAM MARLIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — You theater buffs want to know something? The longest (and highest) running show in Broadway history is about to hit the boards.

In a cyclopic coup d'grace, Atlanta-based architect John Portman has up-ended the Great White Way in the guise of a 54-story, 2,020-room caravansarie for Western International Hotels.

With approval by the city planning commission and the board of estimate, construction is set for next spring, with a planned-for opening early in 1977

Located on the west side of Broadway between 45th and 46th streets, Portman's regards thereto will cost around $150 million — and steal just about every show in town.

But, then, that is Portman's style Certainly his significance. As architecture's answer to David Merrick, his proposed city-within-a-city is designed to show up the mediocrity of neighboring Times Square for what it is and send it packing.

The idea worked out over the last several years in Mayor John V. Lindsay's Office of Midtown Planning and Development: Phase out the district's vehicular and visual pollution; phase in pedestrian and plaza activity; encourage developers, by means of New York's zoning-bonus system, to include public amenities and cultural facilities in new structures.

The proposed hotel takes what planners call the "zoning envelope" and licks it absolutely clean. It not only meets the maximum zoning limit in midtown but, because of the amenities included, stretches that limit 20 per cent — the maximum bonus provided by the innovative theater district code, which is one of the many urban-design "firsts" to have emerged from the Lindsay years.

Considering that Portman is a developer as well as an architect (his Portman Properties co-owns the hotel with Peter J. Sharp of New York), he quickly grasped the economic as well as design dividends of theater district zoning. This translated into the mind-blowing mix of activities he is about to build.

Two squared-off pylons, parallel to each other and running east and west, will punctuate the skyline. Deep trusses, 112 feet long, will connect these vertical elements, supporting the various levels of activity.

Like Portman's already reknowned hotels in Atlanta, Chicago, and San Francisco (The Hyatt Regency) this one will have a soaring atrium lending drama and unity to the first seven levels above the street entrance, these containing retail shops, services, specialty restaurants — all housing successively recessed "balconies" overlooking the common space.

Still another such atrium looms above the 13th-floor registration lobby, rising 35 stories above the lobby's shops, cafe, and lounges, brushing by a mezzanine restaurant and club, spatially embracing balcony after balcony of guest rooms.

In between the atria, on the ninth floor, and again on the two topmost floors, things will revolve — dervishly, one suspects. These include the ninth-floor lounge, encased in a cylinder of glass overlooking Broadway which will be reached by a bridge extending from a truss-supported terrace, and, then, the cylindrical penthouse lounge and restaurant.

Other facilities include an exhibition hall on the 10th floor, and a cavernous ballroom with adjacent meeting rooms on the 11th and 12th floors — all of which will make the hotel a self-contained community of spaces for any caravan (or convention) which comes along.

The progression of space from atria to atria, from lobby to registration to room, will be heightened by the street-to-penthouse pillar to which 12 glass-enclosed elevators will be attached.

As you walk into the behemoth from Broadway, passing still another glass-enclosed cafe, you will be ushered into a kind of space capsule, looking as though it was designed by Busby Berkley in consultation with George Orwell.

The capsule will fling you up through the pool of the lower atrium, through the atrium itself, — all refreshed, as you are sure to be, for the registration lobby, and its pool. After having made your first splash on Broadway, you would then be flung through the upper atrium to your appointed place of rest or recreation.

In psychological terms, one has to wonder whether this drama may not be a little overdone. Huge hunks of space, with lots of things happening, in space, with little happening. However entertaining, this kind of vertigo-go approach, if taken too far and in big doses, can prove disorienting.

If you happen to be visiting from, say, Dubuque, getting back home may be the last thing on your mind — before you lose it.

The reassuring thing is, Portman seems to have taken this psychological danger into account — a solid professional responsibility when you start building this big. This is especially evident in the alternately recessed tiers of rooms overlooking the great atrium.

Besides giving a texture to the exterior, this arrangement helps lend scale and rhythm to what might otherwise be an overwhelmingly huge, ungraspable space. Perhaps, because of this, the human senses will be better able to contend with the immensity.

Architecture is, of course, not just the configuration of space within a building. It is, just as vitally, the configuration of space between buildings. In this sense, an individual building (including this one) becomes almost incidental to the life and activity it generates.

In the scale of Times Square, and in line with midtown redevelopment plans, John Portman's design is, itself, a configuration and even a consummation of the economic and cultural forces at work in New York.

Instead of the usually required setback, the building will edge up to the streetcurb, helping conserve the spatial identity of Times Square.

Instead of a commercial venture turning its back on cultural values, the building will hollow beneath its entry plaza, becoming a 1,050-seat legitimate theater.

Rather than remaining aloof from its neighbors, the building will include an extension of existing Shubert Alley, renovation of the 46th Street Theater, and provision for a 400-car garage.

So the hotel has, indeed, extended itself — both within and without, making economic and zoning realities work for the redemption of city life.

Another French Test Blast Seen

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — French warships are still at the Mururoa Atoll blasting site, presumably preparing for the fourth explosion in France's controversial 1973 nuclear testing program, political sources said today

The sources said French military and Atomic Energy Commission experts, who have already triggered three explosions over the Pacific Ocean atoll 620 miles southeast of Tahiti, plan one or two additional blasts.

It Will All Be Legal Now

CARSON CITY, Nev (UPI) — If judges in remote Nevada hamlets aren't sure what habeas corpus means, they'll soon have a way to find out.

Supreme Court Justice E.M. (Al) Dunderson announced yesterday that legal dictionaries are being supplied to justices of the peace and municipal court judges throughout the state.

He said many judges in outlying areas, where access to law libraries is difficult, need a glossary for legal terms.

The dictionaries, costing $1,000, will be paid for by the Nevada Crime Commission and State Justices Association. The Crime Commission last month agreed to provide medical dictionaries to justices who also act as coroners.

Manufacturers Are Scrambling To Battle Material Shortages

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Faced with a cotton denim shortage, the nation's largest blue jeans maker has begun rationing its hot-selling bell-bottom jeans to retailers.

Unable to obtain additional plastic resins for moulding vacuum cleaner parts, a Midwest consumer-products company abandons plans for factory expansion.

Under pressure to get 1974 models into dealer showrooms as quickly as possible, one of Detroit's "big three" automakers worries whether suppliers can provide enough sheet steel, zinc, and brass to meet production targets.

While the government struggles to clamp a price lid on an overheated economy, businessmen are scrambling to find enough steel, copper, chemicals, and boxes to keep factories humming.

At a time when strong demand is placing severe strains on manufacturing capacity, shortages of key raw materials are hampering production in the auto, chemical, fiber, and nonferrous metals industries.

Raw material shortages have not yet triggered widespread layoffs, but in some cases have forced employers to reduce working hours or temporarily shut down assembly lines. In one extreme case B. F. Goodrich said the job security of thousands of U.S. rubber workers is threatened by the shrinking supply of tallow, a beef byproduct used in rubbermaking.

"The list of industrial commodities in short supply has gotten so lengthy, we no longer bother to publish it," declares E. F. Andrews, chairman of the National Association of Purchasing Managements' survey committee.

The organization's latest monthly poll of 250 large corporate buyers reports "frustrating distortions and dislocations" in the economy that "plague purchasing managers as business continues at a very high and perhaps unhealthy pace."

Among the most frequently cited items in tight supply are copper, zinc, electric motors, forgings, and paper products.

These shortages, many of which are not immediately visible to consumers, are less dramatic than the well-publicized beef and grain shortages or the continuing energy crunch. Yet the upward spiral in raw material and fabricated product prices inflates industry's cost structure, and is ultimately passed along to consumers.

Harried purchasing agents, whose job is to make sure that production goals don't suffer because of depleted raw material inventories, are placing orders for delivery 6 to 12 months ahead on items in short supply.

Lead times on ordering steel, aluminum, and paper are longer than they have ever been, says George A. Harris, vice president - material for TRW, Inc., a diversified electronics and auto products company.

A larger user of shipping cartons and bags reports that his costs of packaging material have soared by 20 per cent since late 1972, and forward purchasing commitments in some products range as far ahead as 8 to 10 months.

The cyclical machine tool industry, which is enjoying a broad-based upswing after several years in the doldrums, is falling far behind on delivery schedules because of production bottlenecks. The closing of many foundries in recent years partly because of stiffer pollution-control regulations, has aggravated the industry's problems, the executive notes.

While some purchasing executives believe additional export controls on ferrous scrap and other industrial materials in strong demand abroad may help ease the supply pinch, others contend that only a substantial cooling of the economy will bring things back to normal.

Man Seeks Girl Met At Protest

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Bob Hopkins is a walking valentine.

Around his neck as he pounds the pavement of this University city is a huge sign that drops almost to the ground, an appeal for a girl he met in August to contact him.

"Is this face familiar?" the sign reads. "You would have met me Thursday, August 9, as I was picketing in front of A&P. You caught a bus. I didn't catch your name..."

Hopkins, 23, admitted today that he feels "a wee foolish," but he decided it was the only way to meet the girl again.

"Only middle aged ladies talk with me," he said. "Women of the relevant age ignore me."

White House Wins Delay In Milk Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has won a court delay in its effort to keep secret documents relating to a 1971 raise in milk price supports, which Ralph Nader alleges was ordered in exchange for political contributions from the dairy industry.

U.S. District Judge William B. Jones ruled Monday that the White House does not have to comply with his order to turn over the documents until an appeals court rules on President Nixon's claims of executive privilege.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

Defenders Shouldn't Waste Advantage Of Starting First

In many bridge hands there is a race to establish tricks. The defenders have the advantage of starting first, but they can waste this advantage if they are careless.

RACE LOST

West opened the king of diamonds, losing the race before he could even get started.

After winning the first trick, West shifted to the queen of hearts, but he was far too late. South won with the king of hearts, drew trumps and led a diamond.

TAKE THE ACE

West had to take the ace of diamonds, thus establishing two diamonds in the dummy. South still had the ace of hearts and could therefore win a heart continuation, enter dummy with a trump and discard his losing heart on one of dummy's diamonds.

HEART OPENING BETTER

A heart opening is better for the defenders. If West opens the queen of hearts, South must take the king. South draws trumps and knocks out the king of diamonds.

West leads the jack of hearts, forcing out the ace. South has to lead another diamond, and West takes the ace. Now West has won the race, since he can cash a heart trick. The defenders get two diamonds, one heart and the ace of clubs.

RULE FOR LEADS

Now let's see if we can develop a rule for opening leads. When dummy has bid a long suit, it may be important to take your tricks on the run, for otherwise declarer may discard his losers. When dummy has not bid a long suit, save your top cards and try to develop tricks in some other suit. As in today's hand, your top cards will serve as entries so that you can cash the tricks you have managed to establish.

♣ A 10 7 5 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Beware of responding with only 4 points in high cards and a very poor fit with partner's suit. However, you would raise if partner opened with one of any other suit, since then your singleton spade would be an asset rather than a liability.

Digestive Diseases Hit Half Country

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Health Education Committee reports that digestive diseases bother half the population of the United States.

The digestive diseases include disorders of the stomach, intestines, biliary passages (gall bladder), liver and pancreas. Their causes may include infection, cancer, alcoholism, genetic defects and reactions to life stress.

Manufacturers Are Scrambling To Battle Material Shortages

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Faced with a cotton denim shortage, the nation's largest blue jeans maker has begun rationing its hot-selling bell-bottom jeans to retailers.

Unable to obtain additional plastic resins for moulding vacuum cleaner parts, a Midwest consumer-products company abandons plans for factory expansion.

Under pressure to get 1974 models into dealer showrooms as quickly as possible, one of Detroit's "big three" automakers worries whether suppliers can provide enough sheet steel, zinc, and brass to meet production targets.

While the government struggles to clamp a price lid on an overheated economy, businessmen are scrambling to find enough steel, copper, chemicals, and boxes to keep factories humming.

At a time when strong demand is placing severe strains on manufacturing capacity, shortages of key raw materials are hampering production in the auto, chemical, fiber, and nonferrous metals industries.

Raw material shortages have not yet triggered widespread layoffs, but in some cases have forced employers to reduce working hours or temporarily shut down assembly lines. In one extreme case B. F. Goodrich said the job security of thousands of U.S. rubber workers is threatened by the shrinking supply of tallow, a beef by-product used in rubbermaking.

"The list of industrial commodities in short supply has gotten so lengthy, we no longer bother to publish it," declares E. F. Andrews, chairman of the National Association of Purchasing Managements' survey committee.

The organization's latest monthly poll of 250 large corporate buyers reports "frustrating distortions and dislocations" in the economy that "plague purchasing managers as business continues at a very high and perhaps unhealthy pace."

Among the most frequently cited items in tight supply are copper, zinc, electric motors, forgings, and paper products.

These shortages, many of which are not immediately visible to consumers, are less dramatic than the well-publicized beef and grain shortages or the continuing energy crunch. Yet the upward spiral in raw material and fabricated product prices inflates industry's cost structure, and is ultimately passed along to consumers.

Harried purchasing agents, whose job is to make sure that production goals don't suffer because of depleted raw material inventories, are placing orders for delivery 6 to 12 months ahead on items in short supply.

Lead times on ordering steel, aluminum, and paper are longer than they have ever been, says George A. Harris, vice president - material for TRW, Inc., a diversified electronics and auto products company.

A larger user of shipping cartons and bags reports that his costs of packaging material have soared by 20 per cent since late 1972, and forward purchasing commitments in some products range as far ahead as 8 to 10 months.

The cyclical machine tool industry, which is enjoying a broad-based upswing after several years in the doldrums, is falling far behind on delivery schedules because of production bottlenecks. The closing of many foundries in recent years partly because of stiffer pollution-control regulations, has aggravated the industry's problems, the executive notes.

While some purchasing executives believe additional export controls on ferrous scrap and other industrial materials in strong demand abroad may help ease the supply pinch, others contend that only a substantial cooling of the economy will bring things back to normal.

Man Seeks Girl Met At Protest

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Bob Hopkins is a walking valentine.

Around his neck as he pounds the pavement of this University city is a huge sign that drops almost to the ground, an appeal for a girl he met in August to contact him.

"Is this face familiar?" the sign reads. "You would have met me Thursday, August 9, as I was picketing in front of A&P. You caught a bus. I didn't catch your name..."

Hopkins, 23, admitted today that he feels "a wee foolish," but he decided it was the only way to meet the girl again.

"Only middle aged ladies talk with me," he said. "Women of the relevant age ignore me."

White House Wins Delay In Milk Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has won a court delay in its effort to keep secret documents relating to a 1971 raise in milk price supports, which Ralph Nader alleges was ordered in exchange for political contributions from the dairy industry.

U.S. District Judge William B. Jones ruled Monday that the White House does not have to comply with his order to turn over the documents until an appeals court rules on President Nixon's claims of executive privilege.

RACE LOST

West opened the king of diamonds, losing the race before he could even get started.

After winning the first trick, West shifted to the queen of hearts, but he was far too late. South won with the king of hearts, drew trumps and led a diamond.

TAKE THE ACE

West had to take the ace of diamonds, thus establishing two diamonds in the dummy. South still had the ace of hearts and could therefore win a heart continuation, enter dummy with a trump and discard his losing heart on one of dummy's diamonds.

HEART OPENING BETTER

A heart opening is better for the defenders. If West opens the queen of hearts, South must take the king. South draws trumps and knocks out the king of diamonds.

West leads the jack of hearts, forcing out the ace. South has to lead another diamond, and West takes the ace. Now West has won the race, since he can cash a heart trick. The defenders get two diamonds, one heart and the ace of clubs.

RULE FOR LEADS

Now let's see if we can develop a rule for opening leads. When dummy has bid a long suit, it may be important to take your tricks on the run, for otherwise declarer may discard his losers. When dummy has not bid a long suit, save your top cards and try to develop tricks in some other suit. As in today's hand, your top cards will serve as entries so that you can cash the tricks you have managed to establish.

Man Hailed As A 'Good' Genetic Bet

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Man has recently become a "good experimental genetic animal," the president of the Genetics Society of America said yesterday.

"Human beings are now great genetic material," Dr. M.M. Green of the University of California at Davis told a news conference of the second day of the 15th International Congress of Genetics on the UC Berkeley campus.

Nearly 3,000 geneticists from 70 countries are attending the congress held every five years.

"For instance, it has become routine to determine the chromosome complement of anyone," Green said. "And it is now possible to determine the biochemistry of the developing fetus and recommend a course of action."

The president of the host society for the 8-day conference cited Tay-Sachs disease which condemns a child to an early death.

"It is now possible to predict the disease early enough for the prospective mother to have an abortion," he said. "The decision, of course, is up to the parents."

Green said this test is not given routinely because "the frequency of the disease in the population is too low to test everybody."

He mentioned a metabolic defect called Phenylketonuria (PKU), which occurs in one of 20,000 births, and, if uncorrected, leads to mental deficiency.

In 1966, Green said, California passed a law requiring a simple test at birth with the first wet diaper. If PKU is detected, the child is put on a diet for four or five years and the effect brought under control.

"In the six years from passage of the law to November, 1972, there were 133 cases of PKU detected out of 1,950,000 tests," Green said. "Those children were treated and are now in society. The test costs pennies, and the amount of money saved by not having to put these 133 children into institutions runs into the millions of dollars."

Green said the science of genetics is on the verge of important breakthroughs as dramatic as the recent breaking of the genetic code.

He said the process of genetic control of development from conception to birth was "made to order" for a breakthrough.

"And information storage and transmission in genes is also in the same posture—ready for a breakthrough," Green told the news conference.

He said that the same people who had helped break the genetic code were working in these fields.

"In the solution of any problem, there is no substitute for brains," he said.

Fare Increase Granted PSA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday approved fare hikes averaging 4.9 per cent for Pacific Southwest Airlines.

The decision means that the San Diego-based carrier will increase its fares between here and Los Angeles by 92 cents on Sept. 5. The present one-way fare is $16.87.

The PUC said PSA would be able to earn a rate of return of 12.1 per cent and a return on common stock of 15.6 per cent. Annual revenues will grow to $4.6 million, officials said.

Assessment Appeal Deadline Is Monday

Deadline for property owners to file appeals protesting property assessments is 5 p.m. Monday, according to Mona Elder, secretary to the Marin County Assessment Appeals Board.

The board will start hearing the appeals at 9 a.m., Sept. 28, and continue hearing them every Friday thereafter in the Board of Supervisors chambers at the Marin Civic Center.

School Day To End Earlier

School will end at 3 p.m. this year rather than at 3:10 p.m. as it has in the past for fifth through eighth graders at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito, trustees have decided.

During a board meeting Monday, they also shortened school lunch periods to 45 minutes.

The Sausalito School District Board also:

TRANSFERS — Adopted uniform procedures for paying tuition in interdistrict transfer agreements and approved interdistrict transfers to Mill Valley for Lori and Shannon Schilling, Amy Godino, Amy Behnken, Karen Lynn Jackson and Lance and Kirk Bracht. Also approved the transfer of Paul, Catherine and Susanne Lennon to Sausalito from the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District.

TEACHER — Offered Emmy Miller a full-time teaching assignment at Bayside School or a second year's leave of absence from the district.

SUPPORT — Backed Dorothy Brown, a country school board trustee, in her bid for a seat in the California School Boards Association Delegate Assembly.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to instruct the board representative in salary negotiations with district employees and to consider the hiring of school personnel. No action taken.

HOLIDAY — Because of the Labor Day holiday, set the next regular meeting for 8 p.m. Sept. 5 in district offices.

Corona Seeks Lie Test, Chance For New Trial

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Convicted mass murderer Juan V. Corona is seeking a lie detector test and a new trial so he can personally testify he is innocent of 25 slayings which at the time was the nation's worst mass murder.

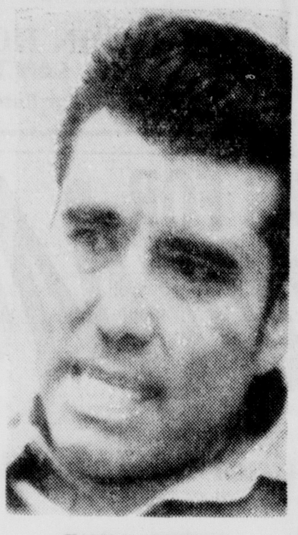
"I didn't kill those people," the former farm labor contractor insists, referring to the 25 migrants who were hacked to death in the spring of 1971 and buried in orchard graves along the Feather River north of Yuba City.

"How can a man, one man, do all those things?"

He did not testify in the trial that culminated last Feb. 6 with Corona being sentenced to 25 consecutive life terms in state prison.

Now with two new civil rights attorneys, he wants a second chance.

Looking his questioners straight in the eye and often waving his arms for emphasis, the Mexican-born Corona discussed in broken English his case with two reporters Monday.



JUAN V. CORONA
'I didn't kill those people'

Later walking with them from the visitors room to his single 6 by 9 cell in a minimum security wing of the California Medical Facility, Corona was asked whether he would object to taking a lie detector test. "No," he replied.

His attorney, Louis Garcia and Mario Obledo, both of San Francisco—said they were trying to arrange one.

In the hour-plus interview, during which he talked more openly about the case than ever before, the 39-year-old Corona said:

He never came in contact with the 25 mostly Caucasian victims because they were "winos" and "these people are not worth a penny" as farm workers. "Five or six of them, they equal one person, one good worker."

His trial attorney, Richard Hawk, was "crazy" for implying his late brother, Natividad, was the real murderer. "My brother was not even in the area. He was in (Guadalajara) Mexico."

"Somebody told me they find some bodies down there" in Texas, where 27 boys were killed after homosexual orgnies, but "they bother me too much already," those kind of problems, so I'm not interested."

His wife and four children are in a "bad situation" financially. "We lost everything, we lost the cars, we lost the property."

"I'm happy I came to America, even though I got involved in this thing."

His prison job is dish washer and he studies English, math and typing.

"Nobody's bothering him; he's not bothering nobody. He's accepted in the general population," reported Clem Rice, prison program administrator.

Corona said he fully expects to get out.

"Our attorneys, they're going to have to prove what is the truth. Why should I have to spend the rest of my life in prison if I haven't ever committed those crimes?" he asked.

"The prosecution," said Obledo, "had a very, very weak circumstantial case at best."

The conviction is under appeal.

The prosecution's evidence included a ledger found in Corona's home which contained the names of some victims, blood found in the defendant's truck and alleged weapons splattered with blood discovered at his house and labor camp.

Corona told the reporters it wasn't his handwriting in the ledger—disputing a prosecution witness—but he wasn't sure whether the ledger was his "because I had so many." He noted there was conflicting testimony about the blood.

"But we didn't prove nothing because we didn't testify at all," he said. Corona's attorney contended the DA had "botched" the case and no defense was necessary.

Would he testify at a new trial? "Naturally, sure, not only myself but all my family and all my friends."

What would he tell the jury? "The truth, sir. The truth is that they're a bunch of liars."

Had he ever killed even one person? "No. No. Why should I kill anybody."

Who killed the 25 drifters? "I don't know, sir."

Heroin Charge Draws Jail Term

A San Jose man who formerly sustained a $60-a-day heroin habit has been told he must spend 30 days in jail and two years on probation for possessing the narcotic.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court imposed the sentence Monday on James Peter Fry, 23.

Fry was arrested Dec. 17 when a car in which he was riding was stopped on the Waldo Grade because it was weaving. Fry pleaded guilty July 27 to possessing a small amount of heroin, which he tried to hide from officers.

Fry was described in his probation report as "poorly motivated toward seeking work" and liable to "drift from one crisis situation to another seeking to be rescued by friends or relatives."

A $200,000 Award To Folk Singer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Folk singer Jimmy Rodgers' $10.2 million damage suit against the city for injuries suffered in what he claimed was a police beating was settled yesterday for $200,000.

The city council approved the sum after the city attorney's office warned that there was a "substantial risk" of a larger judgment if the case were to go to trial.

Rodgers suffered a skull fracture in the Dec. 1, 1967, incident at a San Fernando Valley intersection and he later underwent three brain operations, nearly dying during one of them.

Deputy City Atty. John Neville, in recommending the settlement to the council, said that the entertainer suffered permanent injury.

"He is now an epileptic which our own doctor confirms is a result of his injury," Neville said. "His doctors also claim that as a result of his injury and operations he will age prematurely once he advances into his 50s and 60s. They also claim his voice will lose its quality as time goes on."

Rodgers was driving home from a party when he was pulled off a freeway by Richard Duffy, an off duty police officer who said the singer was driving erratically.

Duffy said he was questioning Rodgers and placed his hand on the entertainer's arm. He said Rodgers "jerked" away and fell to the pavement.

Duffy said he helped him to his feet and that Rodgers walked to the car under his own power and lay down in the right front seat. In the meantime, two other officers called to the scene did not arrest Rodgers because of a dispute over who should handle the booking.

They left without giving him medical attention and Rodgers was found later by a friend, who took him to the hospital when he saw Rodgers was bleeding from the head.

Nevellie said there was "cricumstancial evidence," however, that an altercation had occurred at the scene. Rodgers claimed he was beaten by Duffy.

TV Antenna Is Called Dangerous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new government safety commission has branded "imminently hazardous" the "Little Wonder TV Antenna" and has started steps to remove the product from the market.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said yesterday users of the antenna should unplug or disconnect them immediately because they pose the danger of electrocution.

Commission Chairman Richard O. Simpson said he had asked the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to investigate alleged "misleading and possibly fradulent advertising" of the product by its national distributors, Windsor House of Island Park, N.Y., and Sunset House of Los Angeles, both mail order firms.

'Algameat' Process

MANILA (UPI) — The Philippines' National Institute of Science and Technology says its scientists have developed processes for making "algameat" from chlorella, a common single-celled alga that grows as scum in ponds and is rich in protein.

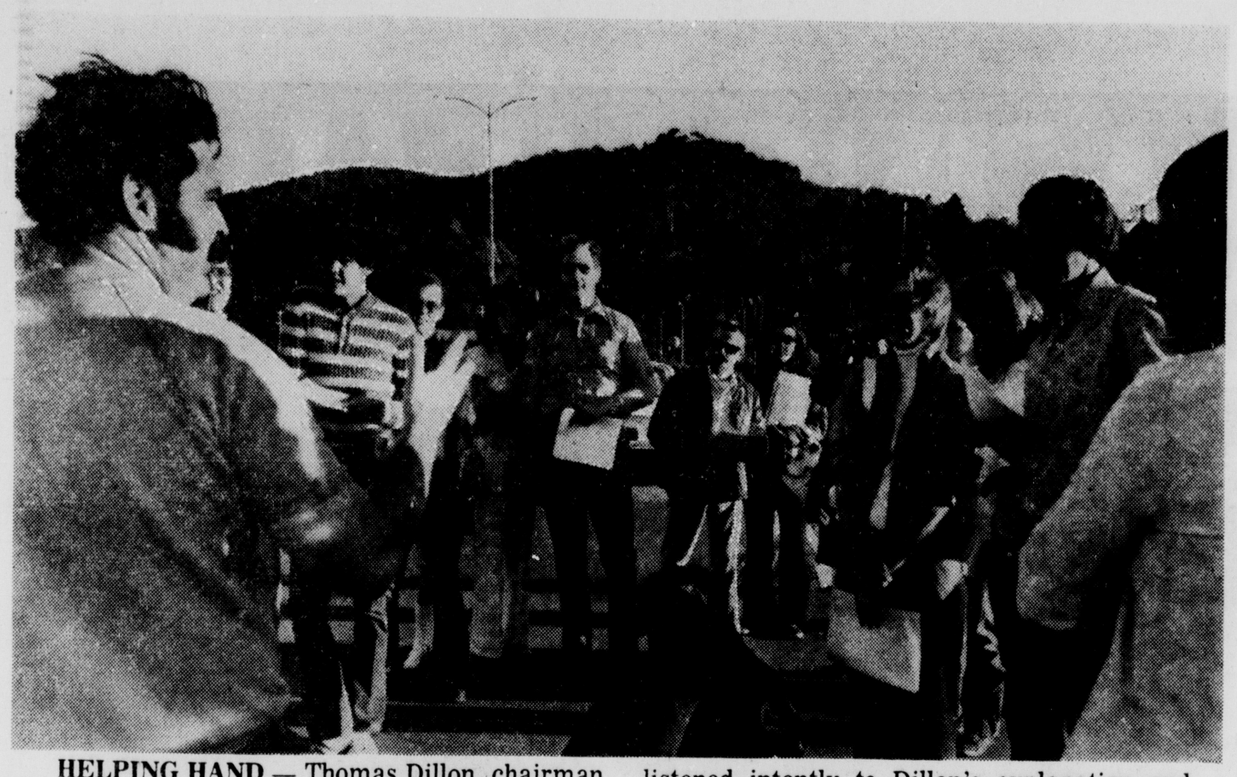
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1973 23



HELPING HAND — Thomas Dillon, chairman of the Marin Rallye Association, gives first-time rallyists a few tips at the beginning of a rally in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. Mark Crawford of Dalls, Tex., (striped shirt) listened intently to Dillon's explanation and navigated Warren Lager of Greenbrae to a secondplace finish Saturday in the "first timer" class.

ROAD RALLIES

Call To High Adventure

By PAUL CANE

"Round and round we go, and where we stop, nobody knows."

A merry-go-round? A centrifuge? A roulette wheel, perhaps?

No, a road rally, a pastime with a growing following in Marin.

Jokingly defined as "the longest distance between two points," a road rally challenges participants to follow obscure instructions in search of coded course markers along out-of-the-way residential routes.

Each valid course marker spotted and recorded by driver or navigator generates points for the team, leading to plaques and trophies for high scorers.

The Marin Rallye Association sponsors semimonthly rallies on local routes. They are not based in any way on speed — the only object is to search, treasure-hunt style, for the course markers.

Driving last weekend with Warren Lager of Greenbrae, Sue Secondo of San Anselmo and Mark Crawford, a former Redwood High School student now living in Dallas, Tex., yielded a first-hand look at the jumble of sights and sounds at a typical rally.

Armed with only a flashlight, a pen, cryptic instructions and two sometimes-helpful navigators, Lager pulled away from the starting line at the Corte Madera Shopping Center in his souped-up dark blue 1965 Buick Skylark.

His mission: to find 61 small square course markers posted on telephone poles from Corte Madera to Novato. His deadline: four hours. His enemy: the three pages of baffling commands issued to the 94 self-proclaimed auto champs taking part.

Why rally?

Debbie Farani of San Rafael, a veteran of 40 rallies, said, "There's no other way to get your frustrations out than to go driving around in circles, acting crazy."

Rallyists, once addicted, apparently keep coming back because of the challenge. In theory, rallying is just following simple turning directions while keeping ones eyes peeled for course markers. In practice, a rally is a tough mental exercise.

But little did Lager and his navigators, all first-time rallyists, know what they had got into.

The first course marker came easily — a coded sign marked SS-5 perched about 12 feet above the ground on a telephone pole on Monona Drive in Corte Madera.

Could it be this easy? Not for long.

Later, with darkness fallen, the three were in a quandary. Should they disregard the general instruction to turn right at all T-intersections in order to follow the main part of Lakeside Drive as it bends left behind the Copper Penny restaurant? They pulled off the side of the road to study the directions, the only light cast by the dim rays of a cheap "Junior Commander" flashlight. It was nearly 9 p.m., and time was slipping by. What to do?

The dilemma was solved when another rally car — a bright yellow Mazda — whizzed by onto Tamalpais Avenue headed toward Larkspur. Lager revved up the engine and pursued it like Parnelli Jones at Indianapolis. He was soon rewarded with another course marker: the yellow Mazda knew what it was doing, after all.

And thus he learned the first rule of rallying: when in doubt, follow somebody else.

An hour later, the group totaled up its course markers and proudly declared that for the first half of the rally it had outfoxed the puzzle makers. The team had managed to disregard instructional tricks, such as misspelled street names and bogus markers placed off the course to lure suckers away from the route. Lager even remembered to turn right at "the home of the Orioles" (Baltimore Avenue in Larkspur).

Confusion reigned in the car for a time on Chanticleer Avenue, near Redwood High School, when Lager decided he was traveling in the wrong direction and whipped around in a U-turn. Then, deciding that he was right the first time, he spun the Buick around again and continued on in the original direction.

It was pointed out that a 360-degree turn was not called for in the directions, but nobody complained because navigator Crawford had spotted another course marker up ahead.

It was with a cheerful outlook, then, that the Buick on Williams Avenue pulled into the first of two checkpoints along the 50-mile course, where a rally official posed a tricky question: "How many miles are there on rallymaster Rich Slusher's speedometer? Of course the question has a catch to it. Speedometers can only measure speed. Odometers measure miles.

Lager therefore answered, "Zero," and the official chalked up 10 points on the team's scoresheet.

The team also got credit for the second question, "How much does an arrow weight?" Lager correctly surmised that the answer was once again zero. According to the rally's general instructions, "arrows do not exist." Therefore, they don't weigh anything.

It's pondering crazy puzzles like these that sometimes causes short tempers between driver and navigator. One man, Michael Bennett of Kentfield, said that he had teamed with his girlfriend for 12 previous rallies, but for this one each was traveling solo — navigating and driving alone. "Last time we had a dispute about the directions," he said, "So this time we're going to see who can do the best by ourselves — it's the battle of the sexes."

Having left Larkspur and Corte Madera behind, Lager and his forces cruising to Novato for the second half of the treasure hunt, had visions of three-foot trophies dancing in their heads. Since first-timers compete only against other first-timers, they believed that they had an excellent chance to win a prize.

In a quick spin around the town, markers were spotted right and left under the perceptive inspection of the crew. The Buick stayed on a particularly good course while trailing one car that seemed to have radar.

But since that car was a Datsun 240-Z, pursuit was difficult for the aging Buick. Soon the group was alone once again.

By 11 p.m. the run was nearly over. Skillful now, the navigators dissected the instructions, picking up valuable course markers at every trap (what organizers call "gimmicks"). Crawford and Lager even remembered to disregard an instruction to turn right onto Court Road. Because, like arrows, "courts do not exist" according to instructions; the command was invalid.

At the finish line — the Novato Straw Hat Pizza parlor — rallyists gathered to munch pizza and rehash the course with their competitors while scores were being posted on a large chalkboard.

Lager was delighted to learn that his crew had received a score of 850 out of a possible 1200, good enough to earn a second-place plaque in the "First Time Rallyist" class.

His glee was tarnished slightly when he discovered that his team's score was no better than average rallywide, and that one driver had accumulated a near-perfect score of 1190. He was further chastened when studying the answer sheet, remembering missed clues and incorrect routes. Such silly errors. But Lager and his team, now genuine rally addicts, will return.

According to Slusher, first-timers always do.

COURSE MARKER — Richard Jaksch of San Francisco jots down the code "K-20" from a marker pole in the Corte Madera Shopping Center parking lot. Many rallyists, thinking the marker was only a sample, failed to receive the bonus points awarded for recording the code numbers on the rally score sheet.

Civics Lists Said Lacking Real Meaning

The average public school civics course fails miserably to teach fundamental principals of democracy, a longtime educator declared yesterday.

Charles N. Quigley, director of the California State Bar's "Law in a Free Society" program, urged Marin citizens to make use of the program as one answer.

Quigley spoke by invitation before the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission in the Marin County Civic Center. About 50 persons in the audience, mostly school officials, listened. Many signed up to join a steering committee to explore using the program in Marin.

"Nationwide polls show that many youth and citizens would not vote" today for many key portions of the U.S. Constitution, Quigley reported. "Schoolteachers themselves are no better than the general populace in understanding our fundamental political system," he said.

Conventional high school civics courses "have no effect whatsoever" in teaching the democratic concepts, he charged.

Quigley described more than eight years of work to develop and test the course sponsored by the bar association. Teachers, after being prepared by special training, use Socratic dialogue and role-playing among their students to teach the concepts of authority, justice, privacy, responsibility and participation, Quigley explained. Other units still under preparation include discussion of the concepts of participation, diversity, property and freedom, he said.

Pupils learn to apply the legal concepts to their own disagreements, holding mock trials or airing their grievances before an impartial arbitrator, Quigley said.

He cited a dramatic change in the atmosphere of a Watts elementary school as proof of the program's worth. "The playground always was a battleground during recess and lunch hour" until the "Law in a Free Society" program was used for a few months, Quigley said.

Then playground supervisors noticed a sharp decline in combats, and more and more requests from the youngsters that disputes be arbitrated.

"They held full hearings, presented witnesses, everything" just the way they had acted out in class, Quigley reported. "If they didn't think the supervisor would be impartial, they went to the principal."

After Quigley's talk, members of the juvenile delinquency prevention commission agreed to support formation of a countywide steering committee to explore the new civics program in Marin schools. Commissioners Elizabeth Emerson, Mary Milligan, Arlene Blumberg, Charles E. Newman and Leroy J. Syrop volunteered to work with the volunteers who signed up for the committee.

Man To Be Tried In Theft Of Car

Enough evidence exists to try Thomas Young, 21, of San Francisco on a charge of stealing a rental car, Marin Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled yesterday.

Young was ordered to appear Monday in superior court following a preliminary hearing.

San Rafael Police said Young rented a car from a San Rafael firm March 23 and failed to return it. He was arrested by San Francisco Police on a warrant and returned to Marin.

Foam Used To Stop Mine Fire

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Rescue workers filled a burning copper mine tunnel with chemical foam yesterday extinguishing the blaze that blocked their way to two miners entombed 1,300 feet under ground for five days.

But officials still estimated that it would be tomorrow by the very earliest before rescuers could reach the men, and possibly several days longer.

A team making a 10-minute reconnaissance dash beyond safety bulkheads reported the fire had been extinguished by the million cubic feet of foam but that the tunnel temperature stood at 140 degrees. They began spraying the tunnel walls with a fog of coolant to reduce the temperature to a workable 100 degrees.

Bus Slows Down Cafe's Drinkers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "People stopped drinking for six seconds at least," bartender Hal Thunes said after a municipal bus burst into the famed Vesuvio Cafe in North Beach.

Moments before the incident yesterday, driver James Dawson had let his passengers out of the bus, noting that his air-brakes weren't working.

"It jumped the curb," said Dawson and then rammed through a plate glass window lettered "Booths for Topless Lady Psychiatrists."

No one was hurt.

Seven Districts Hike Budgets Despite Law

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Seven Marin school districts which expect lower enrollments next school year have adopted 1973-74 budgets up more than 6 per cent above the current year's, despite a new state law which forbids increasing spending per pupil by more than 6 per cent.

Two other districts which expect enrollment to be unchanged have adopted budgets up more than 6 per cent, as has another that expects an increase of only six pupils.

Of the 20 Marin school districts which come under the spending-per-pupil restriction, only two have reduced budgets for next year — and one of those, Shoreline Unified, expects an enrollment increase.

In other districts, increases run from less than 1 per cent in Novato Unified to about 22 per cent in Bolinas-Stinson Elementary School District.

The budget jumps despite restriction on spending per pupil are possible for a variety of reasons, according to Joseph Amato, director of business services for the county schools office.

The restriction, Amato explained, applies only to "regular operating expense." It does not include transportation, money obtained from the federal government under Public Law 874, school lunches, or any of various special programs for the handicapped, pre-schoolers, etc., financed all or in part with state and federal appropriations.

Also, Amato noted, budgets include reserve funds and beginning and ending balances, so it is possible to increase budgets by reducing reserves or cutting closer on expected carry-over balances.

"This will catch up with the districts in a very few years," Amato said, "but this year — the first under the new law — there has been quite a bit of guesswork."

It is because of these factors, he said, that Bolinas-Stinson has been able to adopt a $325,661 budget for next fiscal year, up $56,500 from this year's, although it predicts enrollment of one less pupil — 189 as compared to 190 this year.

(One district in Marin has an even higher increase — Marin Community College District. Its '73-74 budget of $25,240,298 is 31 per cent above the current year's. However, it does not come under the same state law restrictions as the elementary and high school districts, and much of its increase is due to construction and staffing of Indian Valley Colleges at Novato. Also, it predicts enrollment of 6,094 students compared to 5,832 average attendance for the current year.

Besides Bolinas-Stinson, districts which have increased budgets more than 6 per cent despite decreasing enrollments are:

Lagunitas, budget $626,940, up about 12 per cent; Larkspur, budget $2,264,552, up 7 per cent; Mill Valley, budget $4,555,269, up 8 per cent; San Anselmo, budget $2,442,191, up 8 per cent; San Rafael High, budget $6,558,675, up 7 per cent, and Tamalpais High, budget $11,730,742, up 8 per cent.

Sausalito, expecting no change in enrollment, has adopted a $1,387,808 budget, up 16 per cent. Ross, also expecting no change, has increased its budget 9 per cent to $673,715. Kentfield, expecting six more pupils, has upped its budget 9 per cent to $1,826,583.

Districts with increases below 6 per cent are:

Dixie, $5,559,926 (up 4 per cent); Fairfax, $1,334,188 (up 3 per cent); Novato Unified, $11,701,771 (up less than one per cent); Reed, $3,339,824 (up 4 per cent), and San Rafael Elementary, $5,832,718 (up less than 2 per cent).

The two districts with reduced budgets are Nicasio and Shoreline. Nicasio has trimmed its budget 6 per cent to $62,000. Shoreline has made a 22 per cent cut to $1,586,000.

Asked how it was possible to reduce the budget 22 per cent while predicting an enrollment increase of 27 pupils, Shoreline Supt. Kenneth E. Barnes said it was largely a matter of "making the program a little less plush."

Barnes said previous budgets have included funds expected from the federal government under Public Law 874 for removal of land from the tax rolls for Shoreline National Seashore. Because of uncertainty of such funds for next year, none was included, he said — "if we get them, we'll probably build up the reserve."

Shoreline teachers were given a 5 per cent raise (lower than in most districts) plus the usual salary step increases, but the teaching staff was reduced by one. Praising the teachers for "very reasonable" salary requests, Barnes said, "Teachers here are not highly unionized, and they still speak directly to the administration. It's a pleasure."

Enrollment predictions used in preparing the '73-'74 budgets total 48,403 for all public school districts in the county, including the community college district. This is down 1,362 from average daily attendance during the current school year, and down 2,561 from last year.

The attendance estimates for next school year (with this year's average daily attendance in parentheses) are, by district:

Bolinas-Stinson 189 (190); Dixie 4,170 (4,379); Fairfax 970 (980); Kentfield 1,281 (1,275); Lagunitas 477 (481); Larkspur 1,494 (1,539); Marin Community College 6,094 (5,832); Mill Valley 3,300 (3,320); Nicasio 49 (49); Novato Unified 10,150 (11,369); Reed 1,922 (1,869); Ross 403 (503); San Anselmo 1,744 (1,823); San Rafael Elementary 4,125 (4,396); San Rafael High 4,366 (4,412); Sausalito 550 (550); Shoreline Unified 878 (851), and Tamalpais High 6,100 (5,908).

The three small rural school districts, Laguna, Lincoln and Union, expect 18, 15 and nine pupils, respectively — unchanged from this year expect for an increase of three in Lincoln.

No Charge Made In Beating Case

Three brothers arrested on suspicion of threatening and beating two other men during an argument in Tiburon Monday were not charged yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

The Marin District Attorney's Office said it still is investigating the incident in which two brothers, David Giannacchini, 17, of Tennessee Valley, and Larry Giannacchini, 22, of Novato, allegedly were attacked.

Taken into custody on suspicion of beating the Giannacchinis with a pipe and wrench and threatening them with a pistol were: Travis Dean Hayes, 18, and William James Hayes, 22, both of Corte Madera, and Gary Wayne Hayes, 20, of San Rafael.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1973 23

HELPING HAND — Thomas Dillon, chairman of the Marin Rallye Association, gives first-time rallyists a few tips at the beginning of a rally in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. Mark Crawford of Dalls, Tex., (striped shirt) listened intently to Dillon's explanation and navigated Warren Lager of Greenbrae to a secondplace finish Saturday in the "first timer" class.

ROAD RALLIES

Call To High Adventure

By PAUL CANE

"Round and round we go, and where we stop, nobody knows."

A merry-go-round? A centrifuge? A roulette wheel, perhaps?

No, a road rally, a pastime with a growing following in Marin.

Jokingly defined as "the longest distance between two points," a road rally challenges participants to follow obscure instructions in search of coded course markers along out-of-the-way residential routes.

Each valid course marker spotted and recorded by driver or navigator generates points for the team, leading to plaques and trophies for high scorers.

The Marin Rallye Association sponsors semimonthly rallies on local routes. They are not based in any way on speed — the only object is to search, treasure-hunt style, for the course markers.

Driving last weekend with Warren Lager of Greenbrae, Sue Secondo of San Anselmo and Mark Crawford, a former Redwood High School student now living in Dallas, Tex., yielded a first-hand look at the jumble of sights and sounds at a typical rally.

Armed with only a flashlight, a pen, cryptic instructions and two sometimes-helpful navigators, Lager pulled away from the starting line at the Corte Madera Shopping Center in his souped-up dark blue 1965 Buick Skylark.

His mission: to find 61 small square course markers posted on telephone poles from Corte Madera to Novato. His deadline: four hours. His enemy: the three pages of baffling commands issued to the 94 self-proclaimed auto champs taking part.

Why rally?

Debbie Farani of San Rafael, a veteran of 40 rallies, said, "There's no other way to get your frustrations out than to go driving around in circles, acting crazy."

Rallyists, once addicted, apparently keep coming back because of the challenge. In theory, rallying is just following simple turning directions while keeping ones eyes peeled for course markers. In practice, a rally is a tough mental exercise.

But little did Lager and his navigators, all first-time rallyists, know what they had got into.

The first course marker came easily — a coded sign marked SS-5 perched about 12 feet above the ground on a telephone pole on Monona Drive in Corte Madera.

Could it be this easy? Not for long.

Later, with darkness fallen, the three were in a quandary. Should they disregard the general instruction to turn right at all T-intersections in order to follow the main part of Lakeside Drive as it bends left behind the Copper Penny restaurant? They pulled off the side of the road to study the directions, the only light cast by the dim rays of a cheap "Junior Commander" flashlight. It was nearly 9 p.m., and time was slipping by. What to do?

The dilemma was solved when another rally car — a bright yellow Mazda — whizzed by onto Tamalpais Avenue headed toward Larkspur. Lager revved up the engine and pursued it like Parnelli Jones at Indianapolis. He was soon rewarded with another course marker: the yellow Mazda knew what it was doing, after all.

And thus he learned the first rule of rallying: when in doubt, follow somebody else.

An hour later, the group totaled up its course markers and proudly declared that for the first half of the rally it had outfoxed the puzzle makers. The team had managed to disregard instructional tricks, such as misspelled street names and bogus markers placed off the course to lure suckers away from the route. Lager even remembered to turn right at "the home of the Orioles" (Baltimore Avenue in Larkspur).

Confusion reigned in the car for a time on Chanticleer Avenue, near Redwood High School, when Lager decided he was traveling in the wrong direction and whipped around in a U-turn. Then, deciding that he was right the first time, he spun the Buick around again and continued on in the original direction.

It was pointed out that a 360-degree turn was not called for in the directions, but nobody complained because navigator Crawford had spotted another course marker up ahead.

It was with a cheerful outlook, then, that the Buick on Williams Avenue pulled into the first of two checkpoints along the 50-mile course, where a rally official posed a tricky question: "How many miles are there on rallymaster Rich Slusher's speedometer? Of course the question has a catch to it. Speedometers can only measure speed. Odometers measure miles.

Lager therefore answered, "Zero," and the official chalked up 10 points on the team's scoresheet.

The team also got credit for the second question, "How much does an arrow weight?" Lager correctly surmised that the answer was once again zero. According to the rally's general instructions, "arrows do not exist." Therefore, they don't weigh anything.

It's pondering crazy puzzles like these that sometimes causes short tempers between driver and navigator. One man, Michael Bennett of Kentfield, said that he had teamed with his girlfriend for 12 previous rallies, but for this one each was traveling solo — navigating and driving alone. "Last time we had a dispute about the directions," he said, "So this time we're going to see who can do the best by ourselves — it's the battle of the sexes."

Having left Larkspur and Corte Madera behind, Lager and his forces cruising to Novato for the second half of the treasure hunt, had visions of three-foot trophies dancing in their heads. Since first-timers compete only against other first-timers, they believed that they had an excellent chance to win a prize.

In a quick spin around the town, markers were spotted right and left under the perceptive inspection of the crew. The Buick stayed on a particularly good course while trailing one car that seemed to have radar.

But since that car was a Datsun 240-Z, pursuit was difficult for the aging Buick. Soon the group was alone once again.

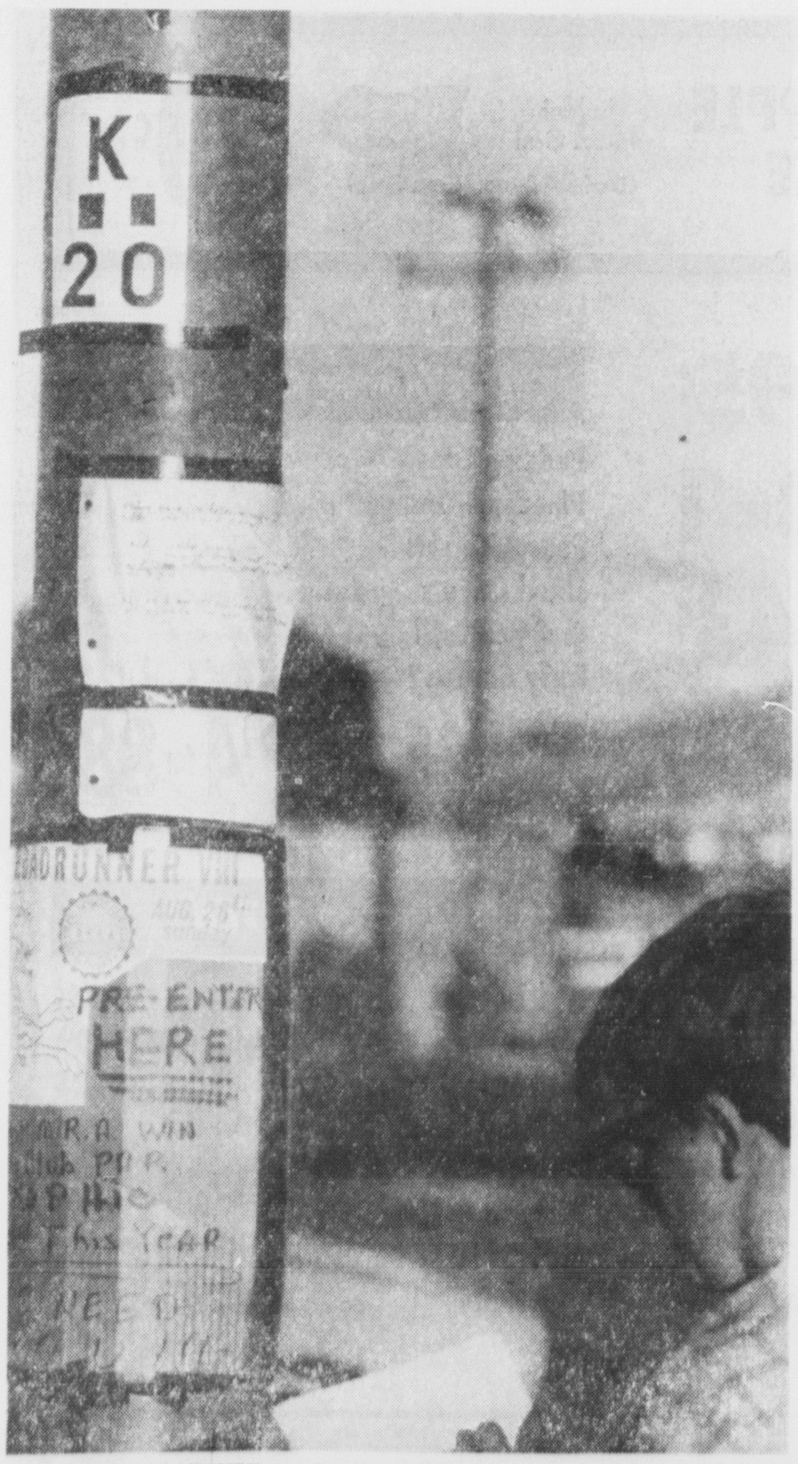
By 11 p.m. the run was nearly over. Skillful now, the navigators dissected the instructions, picking up valuable course markers at every trap (what organizers call "gimmicks"). Crawford and Lager even remembered to disregard an instruction to turn right onto Court Road. Because, like arrows, "courts do not exist" according to instructions; the command was invalid.

At the finish line — the Novato Straw Hat Pizza parlor — rallyists gathered to munch pizza and rehash the course with their competitors while scores were being posted on a large chalkboard.

Lager was delighted to learn that his crew had received a score of 850 out of a possible 1200, good enough to earn a second-place plaque in the "First Time Rallyist" class.

His glee was tarnished slightly when he discovered that his team's score was no better than average rallywide, and that one driver had accumulated a near-perfect score of 1190. He was further chastened when studying the answer sheet, remembering missed clues and incorrect routes. Such silly errors. But Lager and his team, now genuine rally addicts, will return.

According to Slusher, first-timers always do.



COURSE MARKER — Richard Jaksch of San Francisco jots down the code "K-20" from a marker pole in the Corte Madera Shopping Center parking lot. Many rallyists, thinking the marker was only a sample, failed to receive the bonus points awarded for recording the code numbers on the rally score sheet.

Civics Lists Said Lacking Real Meaning

The average public school civics course fails miserably to teach fundamental principals of democracy, a longtime educator declared yesterday.

Charles N. Quigley, director of the California State Bar's "Law in a Free Society" program, urged Marin citizens to make use of the program as one answer.

Quigley spoke by invitation before the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission in the Marin County Civic Center. About 50 persons in the audience, mostly school officials, listened. Many signed up to join a steering committee to explore using the program in Marin.

"Nationwide polls show that many youth and citizens would not vote" today for many key portions of the U.S. Constitution, Quigley reported. "Schoolteachers themselves are no better than the general populace in understanding our fundamental political system," he said.

Conventional high school civics courses "have no effect whatsoever" in teaching the democratic concepts, he charged.

Quigley described more than eight years of work to develop and test the course sponsored by the bar association. Teachers, after being prepared by special training, use Socratic dialogue and role-playing among their students to teach the concepts of authority, justice, privacy, responsibility and participation, Quigley explained. Other units still under preparation include discussion of the concepts of participation, diversity, property and freedom, he said.

Pupils learn to apply the legal concepts to their own disagreements, holding mock trials or airing their grievances before an impartial arbitrator, Quigley said.

He cited a dramatic change in the atmosphere of a Watts elementary school as proof of the program's worth. "The playground always was a battleground during recess and lunch hour" until the "Law in a Free Society" program was used for a few months, Quigley said.

Then playground supervisors noticed a sharp decline in combats, and more and more requests from the youngsters that disputes be arbitrated.

"They held full hearings, presented witnesses, everything" just the way they had acted out in class, Quigley reported. "If they didn't think the supervisor would be impartial, they went to the principal."

After Quigley's talk, members of the juvenile delinquency prevention commission agreed to support formation of a countywide steering committee to explore the new civics program in Marin schools. Commissioners Elizabeth Emerson, Mary Milligan, Arlene Blumberg, Charles E. Newman and Leroy J. Syrop volunteered to work with the volunteers who signed up for the committee.

Man To Be Tried In Theft Of Car

Enough evidence exists to try Thomas Young, 21, of San Francisco on a charge of stealing a rental car, Marin Municipal Court Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled yesterday.

Young was ordered to appear Monday in superior court following a preliminary hearing.

San Rafael Police said Young rented a car from a San Rafael firm March 23 and failed to return it. He was arrested by San Francisco Police on a warrant and returned to Marin.

Foam Used To Stop Mine Fire

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Rescue workers filled a burning copper mine tunnel with chemical foam yesterday extinguishing the blaze that blocked their way to two miners entombed 1,300 feet under ground for five days.

But officials still estimated that it would be tomorrow by the very earliest before rescuers could reach the men, and possibly several days longer.

A team making a 10-minute reconnaissance dash beyond safety bulkheads reported the fire had been extinguished by the million cubic feet of foam but that the tunnel temperature stood at 140 degrees. They began spraying the tunnel walls with a fog of coolant to reduce the temperature to a workable 100 degrees.

Bus Slows Down Cafe's Drinkers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "People stopped drinking for six seconds at least," bartender Hal Thunes said after a municipal bus burst into the famed Vesuvio Cafe in North Beach.

Moments before the incident yesterday, driver James Dawson had let his passengers out of the bus, noting that his air-brakes weren't working.

"It jumped the curb," said Dawson and then rammed through a plate glass window lettered "Booths for Topless Lady Psychiatrists."

No one was hurt.

Seven Districts Hike Budgets Despite Law

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Seven Marin school districts which expect lower enrollments next school year have adopted 1973-74 budgets up more than 6 per cent above the current year's, despite a new state law which forbids increasing spending per pupil by more than 6 per cent.

Two other districts which expect enrollment to be unchanged have adopted budgets up more than 6 per cent, as has another that expects an increase of only six pupils.

Of the 20 Marin school districts which come under the spending-per-pupil restriction, only two have reduced budgets for next year — and one of those, Shoreline Unified, expects an enrollment increase.

In other districts, increases run from less than 1 per cent in Novato Unified to about 22 per cent in Bolinas-Stinson Elementary School District.

The budget jumps despite restriction on spending per pupil are possible for a variety of reasons, according to Joseph Amato, director of business services for the county schools office.

The restriction, Amato explained, applies only to "regular operating expense." It does not include transportation, money obtained from the federal government under Public Law 874, school lunches, or any of various special programs for the handicapped, pre-schoolers, etc., financed all or in part with state and federal appropriations.

Also, Amato noted, budgets include reserve funds and beginning and ending balances, so it is possible to increase budgets by reducing reserves or cutting closer on expected carry-over balances.

"This will catch up with the districts in a very few years," Amato said, "but this year — the first under the new law — there has been quite a bit of guesswork."

It is because of these factors, he said, that Bolinas-Stinson has been able to adopt a $325,661 budget for next fiscal year, up $56,500 from this year's, although it predicts enrollment of one less pupil — 189 as compared to 190 this year.

(One district in Marin has an even higher increase — Marin Community College District. Its '73-74 budget of $25,240,298 is 31 per cent above the current year's. However, it does not come under the same state law restrictions as the elementary and high school districts, and much of its increase is due to construction and staffing of Indian Valley Colleges at Novato. Also, it predicts enrollment of 6,094 students compared to 5,832 average attendance for the current year.

Besides Bolinas-Stinson, districts which have increased budgets more than 6 per cent despite decreasing enrollments are:

Lagunitas, budget $626,940, up about 12 per cent; Larkspur, budget $2,264,552, up 7 per cent; Mill Valley, budget $4,555,269, up 8 per cent; San Anselmo, budget $2,442,191, up 8 per cent; San Rafael High, budget $6,558,675, up 7 per cent, and Tamalpais High, budget $11,730,742, up 8 per cent.

Sausalito, expecting no change in enrollment, has adopted a $1,387,808 budget, up 16 per cent. Ross, also expecting no change, has increased its budget 9 per cent to $673,715. Kentfield, expecting six more pupils, has upped its budget 9 per cent to $1,826,583.

Districts with increases below 6 per cent are:

Dixie, $5,559,926 (up 4 per cent); Fairfax, $1,334,188 (up 3 per cent); Novato Unified, $11,701,771 (up less than one per cent); Reed, $3,339,824 (up 4 per cent), and San Rafael Elementary, $5,832,718 (up less than 2 per cent).

The two districts with reduced budgets are Nicasio and Shoreline. Nicasio has trimmed its budget 6 per cent to $62,000. Shoreline has made a 22 per cent cut to $1,586,000.

Asked how it was possible to reduce the budget 22 per cent while predicting an enrollment increase of 27 pupils, Shoreline Supt. Kenneth E. Barnes said it was largely a matter of "making the program a little less plush."

Barnes said previous budgets have included funds expected from the federal government under Public Law 874 for removal of land from the tax rolls for Shoreline National Seashore. Because of uncertainty of such funds for next year, none was included, he said — "if we get them, we'll probably build up the reserve."

Shoreline teachers were given a 5 per cent raise (lower than in most districts) plus the usual salary step increases, but the teaching staff was reduced by one. Praising the teachers for "very reasonable" salary requests, Barnes said, "Teachers here are not highly unionized, and they still speak directly to the administration. It's a pleasure."

Enrollment predictions used in preparing the '73-'74 budgets total 48,403 for all public school districts in the county, including the community college district. This is down 1,362 from average daily attendance during the current school year, and down 2,561 from last year.

The attendance estimates for next school year (with this year's average daily attendance in parentheses) are, by district:

Bolinas-Stinson 189 (190); Dixie 4,170 (4,379); Fairfax 970 (980); Kentfield 1,281 (1,275); Lagunitas 477 (481); Larkspur 1,494 (1,539); Marin Community College 6,094 (5,832); Mill Valley 3,300 (3,320); Nicasio 49 (49); Novato Unified 10,150 (11,369); Reed 1,922 (1,869); Ross 403 (503); San Anselmo 1,744 (1,823); San Rafael Elementary 4,125 (4,396); San Rafael High 4,366 (4,412); Sausalito 550 (550); Shoreline Unified 878 (851), and Tamalpais High 6,100 (5,908).

The three small rural school districts, Laguna, Lincoln and Union, expect 18, 15 and nine pupils, respectively — unchanged from this year expect for an increase of three in Lincoln.

For Today's Woman

By Carol Drake
Food Consultant

Most of us indulge in moments of nostalgia and bring to mind things that were enjoyed in the "good old days." Like old-fashioned taffy pulls that showed there was no generation gap as the whole family joined in. Teen-age taffy parties also were such fun. Other candy-making sessions were great, too. Making peanut brittle, divinity, fudge . . . popcorn balls, candied apples, etc., were popular at get-togethers. Why not pick up the makings for some of these on your next visit to Safeway and see how your family enjoys happy sessions like these.

Packing a big picnic basket and heading for a day in the sun at the park or beach is another activity families enjoy. And remember the hayrides? Even today, there are places where you can rent equipment for a hayride. And how about the box socials, where the girls packed boxes of food and the boys bid for them at an auction? The bidding was pretty spirited sometimes as the boys vied to buy boxes packed by the most popular girls since winning bidder and the girl shared the food.

OTHER OLD-TIME EVENTS TO CONSIDER: Wiener roasts (Safeway Franks are perfect for these) . . . Fish Fries (Captain's Choice pre-cooked seafoods are ready in minutes) . . . Treasure Hunts (The hostess might serve Busy Baker Cookies, Cragmont Cola, Safeway Canned Ham and Mrs. Wright's Sandwich Buns, etc.)

SUMMONS
No. 67463

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Marin.

FRANK T GREENE and ESTHER P GREENE, husband and wife, Plaintiffs
V

To the Defendants

A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiffs against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint within thirty (30) days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise your default will be entered on application by the plaintiffs and the court may enter a judgement against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

The object of this action is to make the above-named defendants set forth the nature of their claim or claims to the real property hereinafter described, if any they have, and that such claim or claims be adjudged to be of no effect and void, and that plaintiffs' title to said real property be quieted against said defendant.

Said real property is situate in the County of Marin, State of California, and is particularly described as follows:

That certain real property situate in the County of Marin, State of California, described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the Southerly line of Tide Land Survey No. 17 as described in the Patent to Joseph Almy recorded January 20, 1869 in Book A of Patents at page 246, Marin County Records, said point being the Southeast Corner of that certain parcel of land described as "Third" in the deed from Lucinda Almy to the County of Marin, recorded August 4, 1903 in Book 82 of Deeds at page 307, Marin County Records; running thence from said point of beginning along the Easterly line of that certain parcel of land described in the deed from Fernande Hutchinson to the County of Marin, recorded August 4, 1903 in Book 82 of Deeds at page 289, Marin County Records, South 12° 50' East 103.62 feet to the most Northerly corner of that certain parcel of land described in the deed from Louis B. Petar et al to the County of Marin, recorded June 19, 1940 in Book 399 of Official Records at page 18, Marin County Records; running thence along the Easterly line of last said parcel South 12° 50' East 80.55 feet to the most Northerly corner of that certain parcel of land described in the deed from the County of Marin to Louis B. Petar et al, recorded April 10, 1940 in Book 397 of Official Records at page 231, Marin County Records, running thence along the Westerly line of last said parcel South 3° 45' East 60.92 feet to the most Southerly corner of last said parcel and a point on the Easterly line of the aforesaid parcel from Fernande Hutchinson to the County of Marin (82-289); running thence along last said line South 16° 30' West 40.82 feet, thence leaving said line and running East to the Line of Ordinary Low Water on the westerly side of Bolinas Bay; running thence along last said line in a Northerly direction about 280 feet to the Southeast corner of the aforesaid Tide Land Survey 17; running thence along the South line of said Survey 17 West about 85 feet to the point of beginning.

EXCEPTING THEREFROM that portion thereof described in the deed from Peter Anderson to the County of Marin, recorded August 8, 1903 in Book 83 of Deeds at page 163, Marin County Records.

IF YOU WISH TO SEEK THE ADVICE OF AN ATTORNEY IN THIS MATTER, YOU SHOULD DO SO PROMPTLY SO THAT YOUR PLEADING, IF ANY, MAY BE FILED ON TIME.

Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the Engineer and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, currency or bid bond, equal to ten per cent of the aggregate amount of the bid, which amount shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract, if awarded him, and will file the contract bonds required within fifteen days after notice that his bid has been accepted.

The governing body of the public agency set forth above reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any irregularity in any bid received.

Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the said governing body has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is on file at the office of the Clerk of said public agency and incorporated by reference herein. It shall be mandatory that all persons employed in the execution of the contract be paid not less than said specific wages and rates, and that existing labor agreements, relative to overtime, holidays, and other special provisions, be recognized.

Bids will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to said governing body for consideration.

SO MUCH FOR WATERGATE

Who could care about the woes of the world with a bevy of beauties like these to take his mind off his trouble. UPI photographers prove that all is not gloom with this collection of photos. At top are identical twins Patty and Kathy Wright of Santa Monica, in New York to participate in the Model of the year contest. Center left is Julie Hildahl of Sioux City, Iowa, who is doing no more than looking pretty. Center right is Kathy McDermott of Milwaukee, clowning it up by making a mustache of her hair before taking part in the Model of the Year contest. And at the bottom is Kathy Speilman of Westminster, Calif., who is pelted by snow (left) and then brushes it off (right) to hurry home and tell her parents about a snow fight in August.

New Petaluma Library Gets Boost

A new library for Petaluma got a boost today as the city council pledged some of its revenue sharing funds and agreed to consider a bond election for February.

The council told the library board it is prepared to earmark some of its $600,000 in federal money toward a new library but did not specify an amount.

Councilmen said they would also ask the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to reserve part of its revenue sharing funds since the Petaluma library serves many county residents.

Kenneth M. Wightman, library board president, said a commitment of city and county funds would reduce the amount needed for a bond election and improve its changes for success.

The board received permission to hire a consultant to do a site study for the new building. City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said the possibility of two branch libraries should be considered, but library board members said one, large central library was preferred in results of a questionnaire distributed to residents earlier in the year.

Mayor Helen Putnam said a letter requesting county money would be sent immediately in hopes that all revenue sharing funds have not already been earmarked.

Wightman said that although the library serves many county residents, it receives only $3,000 per year in county funds along with the county bookmobile unit for five hours per week.

"If we show some aggressive action like scheduling a bond election and using city revenue sharing funds, we may get some action from the county", Councilman Fred V. Mattei said.

Wightman was less optimistic, however, and said, "We may never get county funds even if we crawl on our hands and knees."

Mrs. Putnam said the city could refuse the use of the library to rural residents and force them to use the county library in Santa Rosa.

The council said it would consider how much money should go to the library at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. when it considers the list of $6 million in capital outlay requests.

Mrs. Putnam said more serious consideration of a Feb. 13 bond election will be given in September. The council has already set a $1.5 million park bond election for that date.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Study Is Planned Of Women Guards

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Reagan administration will launch a pilot project to test the feasibility of using women as correctional officers in male inmate prisons.

State Health and Welfare Secretary Earl Brian yesterday ordered the Department of Corrections to carry out the project to "assess the impact of women guards on the safety of other guards and male prisoners."

Three females already are employed as guards at San Quentin Prison.

Brian said women officers used in the study will be assigned to positions "that do not intrude on the privacy of inmates and are within the limits of prison security.

"A test of this type will enable us to learn from actual experience if women can be advantageously and safely employed in corrections," he added.

REGENT TERMS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation changing selection procedures and reducing terms of office for the University of California Board of Regents has been endorsed by a key Assembly committee despite the university's strong objections.

The proposed constitutional amendment (ACA83) by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, was approved yesterday by the Education Committee on a 12-2 vote and sent to the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The bill also would add a nonvoting faculty member and student representative to the board.

Under the measure, the governor's power to appoint regents would be limited to a list of five candidates chosen by a special committee made up of Senate and Assembly leaders. The superintendent of public instruction and others. Currently, the governor makes appointments subject to Senate confirmation.

Terms for Regents would be cut in half, from 16 to eight years under the bill, which would require a public vote to become law.

CREDIT BIAS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Discriminatory credit practices which prevent women from getting loans would be outlawed under a bill which cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday.

The measure (AB312) by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, advanced to the floor on a 7-3 vote despite opposition from the California Bankers Association.

The bill would make it illegal to deny women credit solely because of their sex or marital status.

John E. Balluff of the bankers group said women should not be treated the same as men in connection with credit because women's earnings and property are treated differently under the state's community property laws. He said the laws make it more difficult to collect a bad debt from a married woman.

POT PENALTY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation reducing criminal penalties for smoking marijuana has been defeated by a Senate committee which was warned the measure might discourage police from enforcing anti-pot laws.

The bill (AB449) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was rejected yesterday by the Judiciary Committee on a 2-6 vote. It would lower the penalty for possession of marijuana and its derivatives, such as hashish, from a possible felony to a misdemeanor.

The legislation was opposed by law enforcement groups, including the California Peace Officers and sheriff's Associations.

TRANSIT FUNDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation permitting the use of gasoline tax funds to finance rapid transit construction has advanced in the Assembly.

The measure (SCA15) by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, cleared the Transportation Committee yesterday on a 12-1 vote and was sent to the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The state Constitution currently restricts the use of gasoline tax revenues to construction of highways.

Mills' proposed constitutional amendment would require voter approval. A similar proposal, Prop. 18, was turned down by the voters in 1970.

HOSPITAL CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Reagan administration bill designed to upgrade the quality of care in California hospitals has won unanimous approval from the Senate.

The measure (SB413) by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was sent to the Assembly yesterday on a 26-0 vote.

Beilenson said the bill requires annual hospital inspections for quality of medical care in addition to an initial survey when a facility first applies for a state license.

He said hospitals are currently inspected only for sanitation and safety by the state.

BARGAINING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving teachers and professors collective bargaining rights, including secret ballot elections to choose a union representative, has been approved by the Assembly Education Committee.

The far-reaching bill (SB400) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, repeals existing laws for teacher bargaining and substitutes new negotiating procedures. A three-member commission would oversee workings of the act.

The bill was sent to the Ways and Means Committee yesterday on an 11-5 vote after frequent amending. Nine votes were needed.

The measure would apply to all California elementary school districts, as well as the University of California, state colleges and community colleges.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 22, the 234th day of 1973 with 131 to follow

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

French composer Claude Debussy was born Aug. 22, 1862.

On this day in history

In 1851, the U.S. yacht America beat the British craft Aurora off England to win the Silver Trophy. The race since has been known as the America Cup.

In 1911, the Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris. It was recovered four months later.

In 1941, Nazi troops advanced to the outskirts of Leningrad, Russia, during World War II.

In 1968, Pope Paul received a hearty welcome in Bogota, Colombia. It was the first trip to Latin America by a Roman Catholic pontiff.

A thought for the day: American writer Bret Harte said, "One big vice in a man is apt to keep out a great many smaller ones."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come, largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Eustachian Tube From Ear To Throat Is Path For Infection

Middle ear infections (otitis media) are common in childhood. They usually occur during an upper respiratory infection or as a complication of the common cold, measles, scarlet fever, or influenza. The infection spreads to the middle ears via the eustachian tubes. These passageways that link the ear with the vault of the throat are designed to equalize air pressure on both sides of the eardrum. This pressure is most noticeable when flying in an airplane, and explains the popping sound heard in the ears as altitude increases.

AT 6,000 FEET, for example, atmospheric pressure is less than at sea level. At this height, air in the middle ear expands and might break the drum, were it not for the eustachian tubes that act as an escape hatch. On descending, the reverse is true. Air rushes into the tubes to increase the pressure within the ears.

The eustachian tube openings are in the back of the throat near the adenoids. Infected adenoids could easily block the openings or the bacteria could spread to the ears. This may occur even though the adenoids have been removed because many respiratory infections settle in this area.

Bacterial invasion of the middle ear is followed by accumulation of pus in the cavity. Severe deep throbbing pain develops in the ear as the pressure of the blocked pus increases. High fever, definite hearing loss, slight dizziness, and nausea or vomiting ensue. Unless the condition is recognized, the drum ruptures. When it does, a blood and pus mixture escapes from the ear and pain subsides.

ANTIBIOTICS are given in full doses. If the drum has not ruptured spontaneously, the physician lances the membrane to lessen the tension within the ear and relive pain. An anesthetic may be needed, especially in adults, in whom the drum is likely to be thick and tender to the touch.

Medication is continued until the ear is dry, the drum looks normal, and hearing is restored. Thanks to penicillin and the sulfonamides, mastoid involvement seldom occurs. However, it is still seen in persons with otitis media who have not received proper treatment.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

DRY EARS

F. I. T. writes: What causes lack of wax in both ears?

REPLY

The absence of wax producing glands. But this is unusual as most of us have wax even though it may not accumulate in large enough quantities to be visible.

SO MUCH FOR WATERGATE

Who could care about the woes of the world with a bevy of beauties like these to take his mind off his trouble. UPI photographers prove that all is not gloom with this collection of photos. At top are identical twins Patty and Kathy Wright of Santa Monica, in New York to participate in the Model of the year contest. Center left is Julie Hildahl of Sioux City, Iowa, who is doing no more than looking pretty. Center right is Kathy McDermott of Milwaukee, clowning it up by making a mustache of her hair before taking part in the Model of the Year contest. And at the bottom is Kathy Speilman of Westminster, Calif., who is pelted by snow (left) and then brushes it off (right) to hurry home and tell her parents about a snow fight in August.

New Petaluma Library Gets Boost

A new library for Petaluma got a boost today as the city council pledged some of its revenue sharing funds and agreed to consider a bond election for February.

The council told the library board it is prepared to earmark some of its $600,000 in federal money toward a new library but did not specify an amount.

Councilmen said they would also ask the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to reserve part of its revenue sharing funds since the Petaluma library serves many county residents.

Kenneth M. Wightman, library board president, said a commitment of city and county funds would reduce the amount needed for a bond election and improve its changes for success.

The board received permission to hire a consultant to do a site study for the new building. City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said the possibility of two branch libraries should be considered, but library board members said one, large central library was preferred in results of a questionnaire distributed to residents earlier in the year.

Mayor Helen Putnam said a letter requesting county money would be sent immediately in hopes that all revenue sharing funds have not already been earmarked.

Wightman said that although the library serves many county residents, it receives only $3,000 per year in county funds along with the county bookmobile unit for five hours per week.

"If we show some aggressive action like scheduling a bond election and using city revenue sharing funds, we may get some action from the county", Councilman Fred V. Mattei said.

Wightman was less optimistic, however, and said, "We may never get county funds even if we crawl on our hands and knees."

Mrs. Putnam said the city could refuse the use of the library to rural residents and force them to use the county library in Santa Rosa.

The council said it would consider how much money should go to the library at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. when it considers the list of $6 million in capital outlay requests.

Mrs. Putnam said more serious consideration of a Feb. 13 bond election will be given in September. The council has already set a $1.5 million park bond election for that date.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Study Is Planned Of Women Guards

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Reagan administration will launch a pilot project to test the feasibility of using women as correctional officers in male inmate prisons.

State Health and Welfare Secretary Earl Brian yesterday ordered the Department of Corrections to carry out the project to "assess the impact of women guards on the safety of other guards and male prisoners."

Three females already are employed as guards at San Quentin Prison.

Brian said women officers used in the study will be assigned to positions "that do not intrude on the privacy of inmates and are within the limits of prison security.

"A test of this type will enable us to learn from actual experience if women can be advantageously and safely employed in corrections," he added.

REGENT TERMS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation changing selection procedures and reducing terms of office for the University of California Board of Regents has been endorsed by a key Assembly committee despite the university's strong objections.

The proposed constitutional amendment (ACA83) by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, was approved yesterday by the Education Committee on a 12-2 vote and sent to the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The bill also would add a nonvoting faculty member and student representative to the board.

Under the measure, the governor's power to appoint regents would be limited to a list of five candidates chosen by a special committee made up of Senate and Assembly leaders. The superintendent of public instruction and others. Currently, the governor makes appointments subject to Senate confirmation.

Terms for Regents would be cut in half, from 16 to eight years under the bill, which would require a public vote to become law.

CREDIT BIAS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Discriminatory credit practices which prevent women from getting loans would be outlawed under a bill which cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday.

The measure (AB312) by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, advanced to the floor on a 7-3 vote despite opposition from the California Bankers Association.

The bill would make it illegal to deny women credit solely because of their sex or marital status.

John E. Balluff of the bankers group said women should not be treated the same as men in connection with credit because women's earnings and property are treated differently under the state's community property laws. He said the laws make it more difficult to collect a bad debt from a married woman.

POT PENALTY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation reducing criminal penalties for smoking marijuana has been defeated by a Senate committee which was warned the measure might discourage police from enforcing anti-pot laws.

The bill (AB449) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, was rejected yesterday by the Judiciary Committee on a 2-6 vote. It would lower the penalty for possession of marijuana and its derivatives, such as hashish, from a possible felony to a misdemeanor.

The legislation was opposed by law enforcement groups, including the California Peace Officers and sheriff's Associations.

TRANSIT FUNDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation permitting the use of gasoline tax funds to finance rapid transit construction has advanced in the Assembly.

The measure (SCA15) by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, cleared the Transportation Committee yesterday on a 12-1 vote and was sent to the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The state Constitution currently restricts the use of gasoline tax revenues to construction of highways.

Mills' proposed constitutional amendment would require voter approval. A similar proposal, Prop. 18, was turned down by the voters in 1970.

HOSPITAL CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Reagan administration bill designed to upgrade the quality of care in California hospitals has won unanimous approval from the Senate.

The measure (SB413) by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was sent to the Assembly yesterday on a 26-0 vote.

Beilenson said the bill requires annual hospital inspections for quality of medical care in addition to an initial survey when a facility first applies for a state license.

He said hospitals are currently inspected only for sanitation and safety by the state.

BARGAINING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving teachers and professors collective bargaining rights, including secret ballot elections to choose a union representative, has been approved by the Assembly Education Committee.

The far-reaching bill (SB400) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, repeals existing laws for teacher bargaining and substitutes new negotiating procedures. A three-member commission would oversee workings of the act.

The bill was sent to the Ways and Means Committee yesterday on an 11-5 vote after frequent amending. Nine votes were needed.

The measure would apply to all California elementary school districts, as well as the University of California, state colleges and community colleges.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 22, the 234th day of 1973 with 131 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

French composer Claude Debussy was born Aug. 22, 1862.

On this day in history:

In 1851, the U.S. yacht America beat the British craft Aurora off England to win the Silver Trophy. The race since has been known as the America Cup.

In 1911, the Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris. It was recovered four months later.

In 1941, Nazi troops advanced to the outskirts of Leningrad, Russia, during World War II.

In 1968, Pope Paul received a hearty welcome in Bogota, Colombia. It was the first trip to Latin America by a Roman Catholic pontiff.

A thought for the day: American writer Bret Harte said, "One big vice in a man is apt to keep out a great many smaller ones."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come, largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

"And NOW, making his farewell appearance."

Judge Gives Jail Term To Forger

A San Anselmo man who has undergone what was described as a dramatic change since his arrest on suspicion of check forgery and burglary has been sentenced to four months in jail for the offenses.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court also placed Flynn William Harris on probation for two years when he sentenced the 23-year-old man Monday.

His attorney, Peter J. Muzio of the public defender's office, called Harris "one of the more hopeful cases I've seen," and Harris's probation report commented on his improvement since his arrest.

"His appearance and attitude are much changed since the spring of this year when he was devoted to hustling drugs and destroying himself," the report said.

For the first time in several years, the report continued, Harris "is devoting his energy to self-constructive rather than self-destructive ventures and is showing much self-motivation."

The Marin District Attorney's Office had recommended one year in jail for Harris, and the probation department asked for no jail time.

Harris, of 34 Karl Avenue, pleaded guilty June 22 to trying to cash a forged $62 check belonging to Robert Finn of San Rafael on March 19, and two burglaries, one April 6 at a San Rafael glass company and the other May 13 at a San Rafael laundry Nothing was taken from either establishment.

Embezzler Sentenced To 56 Days

A former Sausalito bookkeeper who confessed to embezzling more than $400 from her employer has been sentenced to 56 days in jail and placed on one year's probation.

Frances D. Venable, 29, now a Los Angeles resident, already has served 26 days of the sentence and will be released after 30 more days, Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court ruled Monday.

The judge also told Miss Venable to repay $402 stolen from her former employer, Del Davis Associates, a San Rafael consulting firm.

Her attorney, George D. Vaughn, said the crime was a "one-shot matter of indiscretion caused by need of money."

According to her probation report, Miss Venable shows a "lack of remorse (about the crime) and disinterest in explaining her motives."

She also tends to blame others for her problems, the report said.

Kennedy's License Will Be Suspended

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI)— A spokesman for the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles says Joseph P Kennedy III's drivers license will be revoked for at least 60 days following his conviction this week on negligent driving charges.

A young woman seriously injured in the Aug. 13 car crash here which resulted in Kennedy's citation, today was reported improved and in satisfactory condition at Cape Cod Hospital.

COUNSELING SERVICE

Sex Help For Adolescents

By FRED STREBEIGH

"It's really not easy being a young woman and having people call you a sex expert. It doesn't help your social life. Men really freak out that I talk openly about sex."

Elizabeth Cronk, 23, is tending the phone (457-1234) for the new sex information service inauguarated yesterday at the Rites of Passage adolescent counseling center in San Rafael.

Lines are open Mondays from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the center's office at 2144 Fourth Street, she said.

Waiting for the phones to start ringing, Miss Cronk said, "Kids have a lot of information. We're operating on the premise that a lot of it is misinformation.

"A lot of kids would like us to be a service to tell them what they can and cannot do, but I'm not going to tell them."

The purpose is not to influence but to provide information, she said. "I try to be nonjudgemental. I'm not in a position of being able to say 'If it feels good — do it.' "

On the other hand, she will not criticize her callers' needs or problems.

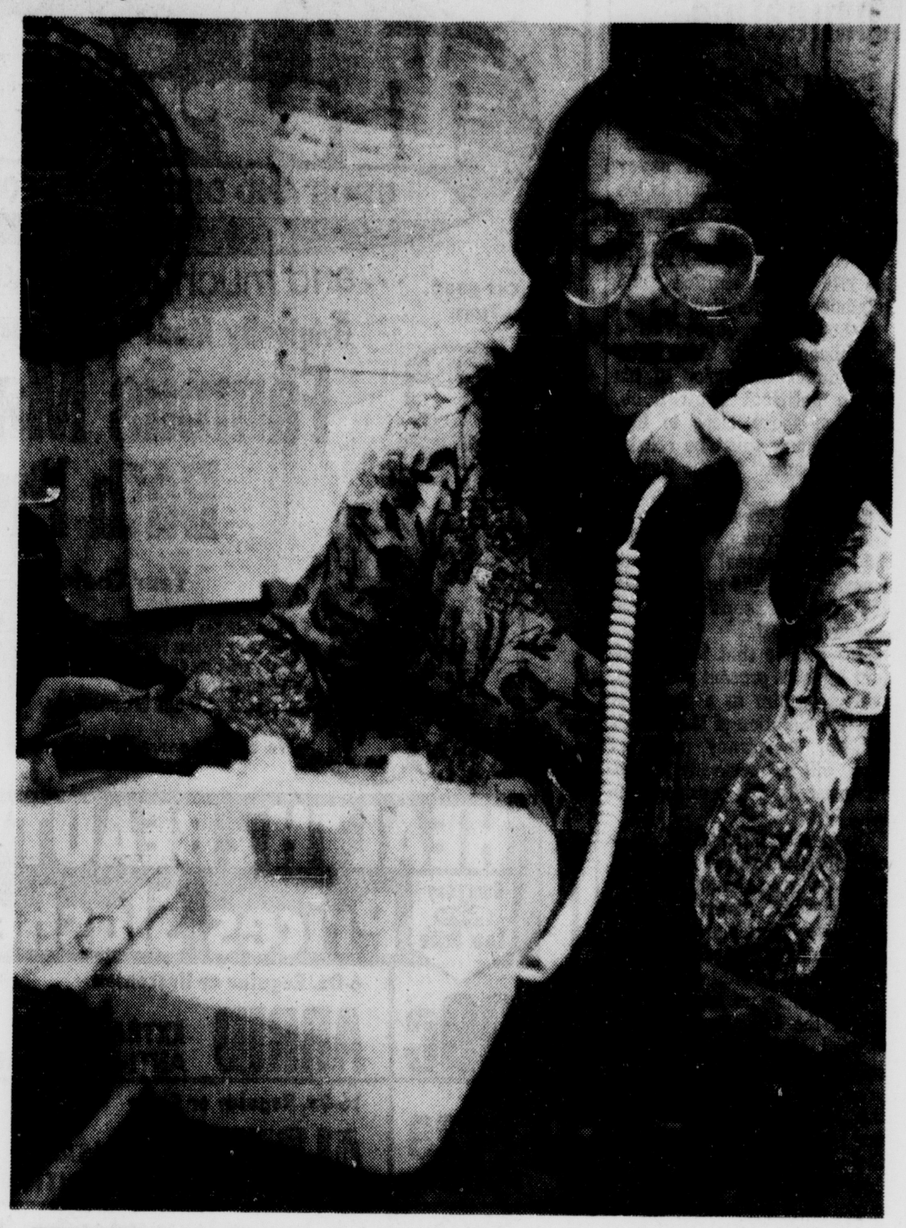
Whether the caller is a young girl wondering if she should sleep with her boy friend or a boy worried about myths surrounding masturabation, what is needed is an "attentive listener," she said, someone who will deal openly with them and acknowledge their importance.

A teen-ager phoned in who said he was "gay," and wanted to know where he could meet other homosexual men in Marin.

Miss Cronk said she had no referral numbers in the county, but could give him some numbers in San Francisco. She did, however, question the impluse to label himself "gay," saying that many people don't feel the need to label themselves.

One assumption of the Rites of Passage center, she said, "is that adolescents go through a lot of trial and error — so that labeling at a young age may box them in, stick them with a label that doesn't necessarily apply "

The purpose, she said is to deal with them "where they are" and let them grow without trauma caused by guilt.



FRIENDLY LISTENER — Elizabeth Cronk lends an understanding ear to a teen-ager troubled by sex. Tending the new phone service in Marin County, she says, is not a matter of telling callers what to do or not do, but of letting them decide for themselves. "Caring," she says, "is my bias." And that and the facts are what she seeks to impart. (Photo by Alfred M. Arm)

"I'm sure it took a lot of moxie to call the first time and say he was gay," she said. She said it was valacble to be able to say he way gay, and find I didn't freak out. I'm not going to say that you're weird, or that you outhg to go meet a nice girl."

The existence of the dialogue is as important as the information imparted, she said. "It is not only that we're giving as accurate information as we can give, but that we're listening, we're respecting their right to ask a question by giving them precise information."

"It opens up lines of communication that they can talk about it on the phone with me," she said, and perhaps leads to discussion "with their peers, hopefully with their parents — that's a goal."

She said the goal of opening dialogues between young people and their parents is one of the special features of the Rites of Passage center

Miss Cronk, who lives in Mill Valley, said what is lacking from the service provided by the San Francisco Sex Information switchboard, where she has worked for six months, is the possiblity for personal contact.

She said her study at Syracuse University in child development and family relations gave her a "developmental perspective" — a belief that "people's families are one of the significant factors in how they become who they are."

She believes "that parents' personal sexuality and sexual adjustment have a lot to do with the tenor of the house" and what kind of messages their children receive "about what it's like to be a woman or a man, about sex roles."

In order to foster the desired dialogue, the center is beginning a series of Saturday sexuality seminars for parents and their children.

The sex information service gains by being associated with a full counseling service she said because "here I can say 'you can come in.' If they feel OK about me (the chance of following through) is higher than if we givem them a strange number" to call for counseling.

What does Miss Cronk feel about her role as sex expert?

"My idea of helping people has changed from telling them what to do to helping them make their decisions — to have the ability to set their own pace, so they have control over each stage."

"I put a lot of emphasis on communication and caring — which is my bias — which is a bias, but I like it."

Television Industry's Profits On Upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp increases in profits by the television industry, reversing a two-year downward trend, were reported yesterday by the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC said the three national networks — ABC, CBS and NBC — reported that pretax profits in 1971 had been $398 million for the industry, a drop of 14.2 per cent from 1970 because of the loss of cigarette advertising and increases in expenses.

In 1970 the industry had reported profits of $454 million, down 18 per cent from 1969 because of stagnating income and rising costs.

The networks, however, had reported a 7.2 per cent increase in profits last year to $54 million. The year before they had marked a decline of 46 per cent to $50 million.

The FCC said the industry reported 1972 revenues of $3.18 billion, up 15.6 per cent from the $2.75 billion of 1971. Expenses rose 11.3 per cent, compared with 0.3 per cent in 1971.

Revenues of the three national networks were up 16.2 per cent to $1.27 billion from $1.09 billion in 1971.

Revenues for network-owned stations increased 14.9 per cent to $327 million, while profits were up 12.4 per cent to $103 million.

For other stations revenues were up 15.3 per cent to $1.58 billion, while profits rose 38.7 per cent to $339 million.

The networks reported news and public affairs expenditures of $147 million, up 29.5 per cent, partly because of coverage of the political conventions.

However, FCC figures show that the 1972 political campaign had little impact on profits. Officials said some $12.6 million was spent in primaries and $24.6 million in the general election, but the profit total probably was small since the charges had to be at the lowest available rate.

The commission said advertising expenditures for television broadcasting amounted to $3.63 billion in 1972, up 14.3 per cent from 1971. This included $590 million in agency commissions, but did not include the cost of commercials and programs supplied by advertisers, which are not reported to the commission.

Of the advertising expenditures, $1.69 billion consisted of network advertising, up 13.2 per cent; $1.17 billion of national and regional spot advertising, up 14.1 per cent and $778 million of local advertising, up 16.9 per cent.

Expo '74 Falling Short Of Money

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 President King Cole said yesterday that the world environmental fair was running out of money

Cole told a news conference that the cash flow situation was "extremely serious" and was now worse than three months ago.

The City of Spokane has applied for a $4 million Economic Development Administration grant but there has been no indication whether it would be awarded, he pointed out.

Steelworkers Will Get Pay Increase

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — About 34,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) will receive a pay adjustment of six cents an hour on Sept. 1, their second increase within a year, under the cost-of-living provision of their 1971 contract with the nation's five major aluminum companies.

USWA President I. W. Abel said today the increase will be paid union members employed by Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser, Ormet and Omal.

Sale Of Used Books Is Set At Library

Friends of the San Rafael Library will hold a sale of used books from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 8 on the lawn in front of the library.

Persons wishing to donate books for the sale may leave them at the library, where further information about the sale is available.

LSD Sales Lead To Jail Term

A San Francisco man whose drug case was dismissed by a Marin judge and then reinstated by a state Appeals Court has drawn a four-month jail term for selling LSD.

Andrew Carl Castagnola, 30, also was placed on probation for two years Monday by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Castagnola was convicted of selling 800 doses of the hallucinogen in March 1971 to an undercover agent.

The conviction came after a Marin Superior Court judge, ruling that Castagnola's rights were violated when his preliminary hearing was postponed overnight despite his objections, dismissed the case.

But a three-judge state Court of Appeals overturned the dismissal, holding that such continuances are "accepted concept of trial procedure."

Judge Best commented that Castagnola, characterized in his probation report as an intelligent and ambitious man, "has contributed positively in many ways to society."

The report said Castagnola has a strong belief in LSD and distributed it primarily due to his feelings and not to make money.

Puerto Rican Will Enter Mayor's Race

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., has abandoned his attempt to become the first Puerto Rican mayor of the nation's largest city.

"I am convinced that an independent candidacy is not feasible. Therefore I will not be a candidate for mayor," Badillo, who lost the Democratic primary runoff to city controller Abe Beame said yesterday.

Assistant Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eugene W. Walsh, 55, a New York City native who joined the FBI in 1942, has been named the agency's assistant director in charge of the administrative division.

Senator Appears Before Grand Jury

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., who sometime in the next month must spend a day in jail on a drunken driving conviction, appeared yesterday before a grand jury investigating accusations of a coverup on his behalf.

His testimony was not known. Fannin spent half an hour before the grand jury, which is investigating the dismissal of the drunken driving charge against him last December. The charge was reinstated a week ago when the grand jury probe began. The county attorney said it should never have been dismissed.

" And NOW, making his farewell appearance. "

Judge Gives Jail Term To Forger

A San Anselmo man who has undergone what was described as a dramatic change since his arrest on suspicion of check forgery and burglary has been sentenced to four months in jail for the offenses.

Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court also placed Flynn William Harris on probation for two years when he sentenced the 23-year-old man Monday.

His attorney, Peter J. Muzio of the public defender's office, called Harris "one of the more hopeful cases I've seen," and Harris's probation report commented on his improvement since his arrest.

"His appearance and attitude are much changed since the spring of this year when he was devoted to hustling drugs and destroying himself," the report said.

For the first time in several years, the report continued, Harris "is devoting his energy to self-constructive rather than self-destructive ventures and is showing much self-motivation."

The Marin District Attorney's Office had recommended one year in jail for Harris, and the probation department asked for no jail time.

Harris, of 34 Karl Avenue, pleaded guilty June 22 to trying to cash a forged $62 check belonging to Robert Finn of San Rafael on March 19, and two burglaries, one April 6 at a San Rafael glass company and the other May 13 at a San Rafael laundry Nothing was taken from either establishment.

Embezzler Sentenced To 56 Days

A former Sausalito bookkeeper who confessed to embezzling more than $400 from her employer has been sentenced to 56 days in jail and placed on one year's probation.

Frances D. Venable, 29, now a Los Angeles resident, already has served 26 days of the sentence and will be released after 30 more days, Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court ruled Monday.

The judge also told Miss Venable to repay $402 stolen from her former employer, Del Davis Associates, a San Rafael consulting firm.

Her attorney, George D. Vaughn, said the crime was a "one-shot matter of indiscretion caused by need of money."

According to her probation report, Miss Venable shows a "lack of remorse (about the crime) and disinterest in explaining her motives."

She also tends to blame others for her problems, the report said.

Kennedy's License Will Be Suspended

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI)— A spokesman for the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles says Joseph P Kennedy III's drivers license will be revoked for at least 60 days following his conviction this week on negligent driving charges.

A young woman seriously injured in the Aug. 13 car crash here which resulted in Kennedy's citation, today was reported improved and in satisfactory condition at Cape Cod Hospital.

COUNSELING SERVICE

Sex Help For Adolescents

By FRED STREBEIGH

"It's really not easy being a young woman and having people call you a sex expert. It doesn't help your social life. Men really freak out that I talk openly about sex."

Elizabeth Cronk, 23, is tending the phone (457-1234) for the new sex information service inauguarated yesterday at the Rites of Passage adolescent counseling center in San Rafael.

Lines are open Mondays from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the center's office at 2144 Fourth Street, she said.

Waiting for the phones to start ringing, Miss Cronk said, "Kids have a lot of information. We're operating on the premise that a lot of it is misinformation.

"A lot of kids would like us to be a service to tell them what they can and cannot do, but I'm not going to tell them."

The purpose is not to influence but to provide information, she said. "I try to be nonjudgemental. I'm not in a position of being able to say 'If it feels good — do it.' "

On the other hand, she will not criticize her callers' needs or problems.

Whether the caller is a young girl wondering if she should sleep with her boy friend or a boy worried about myths surrounding masturabation, what is needed is an "attentive listener," she said, someone who will deal openly with them and acknowledge their importance.

A teen-ager phoned in who said he was "gay," and wanted to know where he could meet other homosexual men in Marin.

Miss Cronk said she had no referral numbers in the county, but could give him some numbers in San Francisco. She did, however, question the impluse to label himself "gay," saying that many people don't feel the need to label themselves.

One assumption of the Rites of Passage center, she said, "is that adolescents go through a lot of trial and error — so that labeling at a young age may box them in, stick them with a label that doesn't necessarily apply "

The purpose, she said is to deal with them "where they are" and let them grow without trauma caused by guilt.

FRIENDLY LISTENER — Elizabeth Cronk lends an understanding ear to a teen-ager troubled by sex. Tending the new phone service in Marin County, she says, is not a matter of telling callers what to do or not do, but of letting them decide for themselves. "Caring," she says, "is my bias." And that and the facts are what she seeks to impart. (Photo by Alfred M. Arn)

"I'm sure it took a lot of moxie to call the first time and say he was gay," she said. She said it was valacble to be able to say he way gay, and find I didn't freak out. I'm not going to say that you're weird, or that you outhg to go meet a nice girl."

The existence of the dialogue is as important as the information imparted, she said. "It is not only that we're giving as accurate information as we can give, but that we're listening, we're respecting their right to ask a question by giving them precise information."

"It opens up lines of communication that they can talk about it on the phone with me," she said, and perhaps leads to discussion "with their peers, hopefully with their parents — that's a goal."

She said the goal of opening dialogues between young people and their parents is one of the special features of the Rites of Passage center

Miss Cronk, who lives in Mill Valley, said what is lacking from the service provided by the San Francisco Sex Information switchboard, where she has worked for six months, is the possiblity for personal contact.

She said her study at Syracuse University in child development and family relations gave her a "developmental perspective" — a belief that "people's families are one of the significant factors in how they become who they are."

She believes "that parents' personal sexuality and sexual adjustment have a lot to do with the tenor of the house" and what kind of messages their children receive "about what it's like to be a woman or a man, about sex roles."

In order to foster the desired dialogue, the center is beginning a series of Saturday sexuality seminars for parents and their children.

The sex information service gains by being associated with a full counseling service she said because "here I can say 'you can come in.' If they feel OK about me (the chance of following through) is higher than if we givem them a strange number" to call for counseling.

What does Miss Cronk feel about her role as sex expert?

"My idea of helping people has changed from telling them what to do to helping them make their decisions — to have the ability to set their own pace, so they have control over each stage."

"I put a lot of emphasis on communication and caring — which is my bias — which is a bias, but I like it."

Television Industry's Profits On Upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp increases in profits by the television industry, reversing a two-year downward trend, were reported yesterday by the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC said the three national networks — ABC, CBS and NBC — reported that pretax profits in 1971 had been $398 million for the industry, a drop of 14.2 per cent from 1970 because of the loss of cigarette advertising and increases in expenses.

In 1970 the industry had reported profits of $454 million, down 18 per cent from 1969 because of stagnating income and rising costs.

The networks, however, had reported a 7.2 per cent increase in profits last year to $54 million. The year before they had marked a decline of 46 per cent to $50 million.

The FCC said the industry reported 1972 revenues of $3.18 billion, up 15.6 per cent from the $2.75 billion of 1971. Expenses rose 11.3 per cent, compared with 0.3 per cent in 1971.

Revenues of the three national networks were up 16.2 per cent to $1.27 billion from $1.09 billion in 1971.

Revenues for network-owned stations increased 14.9 per cent to $327 million, while profits were up 12.4 per cent to $103 million.

For other stations revenues were up 15.3 per cent to $1.58 billion, while profits rose 38.7 per cent to $339 million.

The networks reported news and public affairs expenditures of $147 million, up 29.5 per cent, partly because of coverage of the political conventions.

However, FCC figures show that the 1972 political campaign had little impact on profits. Officials said some $12.6 million was spent in primaries and $24.6 million in the general election, but the profit total probably was small since the charges had to be at the lowest available rate.

The commission said advertising expenditures for television broadcasting amounted to $3.63 billion in 1972, up 14.3 per cent from 1971. This included $590 million in agency commissions, but did not include the cost of commercials and programs supplied by advertisers, which are not reported to the commission.

Of the advertising expenditures, $1.69 billion consisted of network advertising, up 13.2 per cent; $1.17 billion of national and regional spot advertising, up 14.1 per cent and $778 million of local advertising, up 16.9 per cent.

Expo '74 Falling Short Of Money

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 President King Cole said yesterday that the world environmental fair was running out of money

Cole told a news conference that the cash flow situation was "extremely serious" and was now worse than three months ago.

The City of Spokane has applied for a $4 million Economic Development Administration grant but there has been no indication whether it would be awarded, he pointed out.

Steelworkers Will Get Pay Increase

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — About 34,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) will receive a pay adjustment of six cents an hour on Sept. 1, their second increase within a year, under the cost-of-living provision of their 1971 contract with the nation's five major aluminum companies.

USWA President I. W. Abel said today the increase will be paid union members employed by Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser, Ormet and Omal.

Sale Of Used Books Is Set At Library

Friends of the San Rafael Library will hold a sale of used books from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 8 on the lawn in front of the library.

Persons wishing to donate books for the sale may leave them at the library, where further information about the sale is available.

LSD Sales Lead To Jail Term

A San Francisco man whose drug case was dismissed by a Marin judge and then reinstated by a state Appeals Court has drawn a four-month jail term for selling LSD.

Andrew Carl Castagnola, 30, also was placed on probation for two years Monday by Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Castagnola was convicted of selling 800 doses of the hallucinogen in March 1971 to an undercover agent.

The conviction came after a Marin Superior Court judge, ruling that Castagnola's rights were violated when his preliminary hearing was postponed overnight despite his objections, dismissed the case.

But a three-judge state Court of Appeals overturned the dismissal, holding that such continuances are "accepted concept of trial procedure."

Judge Best commented that Castagnola, characterized in his probation report as an intelligent and ambitious man, "has contributed positively in many ways to society."

The report said Castagnola has a strong belief in LSD and distributed it primarily due to his feelings and not to make money.

Puerto Rican Will Enter Mayor's Race

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., has abandoned his attempt to become the first Puerto Rican mayor of the nation's largest city.

"I am convinced that an independent candidacy is not feasible. Therefore I will not be a candidate for mayor," Badillo, who lost the Democratic primary runoff to city controller Abe Beame said yesterday.

Assistant Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eugene W. Walsh, 55, a New York City native who joined the FBI in 1942, has been named the agency's assistant director in charge of the administrative division.

Senator Appears Before Grand Jury

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., who sometime in the next month must spend a day in jail on a drunken driving conviction, appeared yesterday before a grand jury investigating accusations of a coverup on his behalf.

His testimony was not known. Fannin spent half an hour before the grand jury, which is investigating the dismissal of the drunken driving charge against him last December. The charge was reinstated a week ago when the grand jury probe began. The county attorney said it should never have been dismissed.

Reagan New Leader For Nomination

By CURTIS J. SITOMER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LOS ANGELES — Gov. Ronald Reagan — who never turned down a good part in his years as a Hollywood actor — may now have an important edge on getting the lead role in the 1976 drama entitled "1976 Republican nomination."

Although the conservative Republican usually shies away from direct discussion of his future political aspirations, many of those close to him insist he now must be considered a "leader" for the Republican nod.

Why? Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's fortunes, Watergate, the philosophical mood of America, and the man himself are the reasons political sources tick off.

Few believe that Vice President Agnew's present problems, subjecting him to a probe for possible violation of Maryland's bribery, conspiracy, and tax laws, will not seriously impede his quest for the presidency in 1976.

Up to now, Agnew had to be considered a leading contender. Many believed the top standard bearer would likely be a conservative — and one totally free of the taint of Watergate or any other governmental scandal.

But Agnew no longer seems to fill the bill. Even if he is cleared of all charges, many believe, he is no longer a viable presidential contender. If this is the case, that leaves Reagan and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally Jr. as the top Republican aspirants to the "right" of center. The moderate push will likely come from New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, and perhaps U.S. Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee.

Why Governor Reagan and not Connally? Some analysts here say the former Democrat recently turned Republican is still to be considered a "Johnny-come-lately" by many Republican regulars. They concede Connally has proved himself as a Nixon loyalist. But they also insist he has not yet earned his medal as a "party" loyalist.

Also, Connally, as other Republican hopefuls, will likely have to face rugged intraparty primary test in order to emerge as a serious presidential contender.

When New York Mayor John V. Lindsay switched from the Republican Party to the Democratic ranks last year, he failed to gain substantial support from either party regulars or primary voters some point out.

But why Ronald Reagan? Many contend his liabilities are numerous. Reagan has never really shaken the somewhat derisive image of a movieland personality turned politician.

Many liberals view him as an "unbending reactionary." They charge his "trim, cut, and squeeze" approach to government has not worked in California — and in fact has resulted in even higher budgets and bigger personal taxes.

Others strongly disagree. Reagan's assets are many, they say. Among them:

He will be viewed by the voters as "Mr. Clean." There have been no serious scandals during Ronald Reagan's almost seven years as California governor. And the Governor presents an image as a clean-living family man shocked by public corruption and personal vice.

Reagan is a growing asset to the national Republican Party. He has apparently bridged his differnces with the more moderate Nixon administration. He has remained quietly loyal to the President during the Watergate furor. Moreover, the articulate and personable California governor is a popular banquet speaker and an effective fundraiser for the party.

Sewer Project Contracts Given

Contracts for two sewer improvement projects were awarded Monday night to the low bidders by the Ross Valley Sanitary District board.

They were for relocation of a sewer line in Kentfield on College Avenue, $31,191, to Shaw Construction Co., and Madrone Avenue sewer renovation, $21,405, Maggiori and Ghilotti.

The board also learned in a letter from county Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell that gross assessed valuation in the district has risen 12.7 per cent over last year, with the total now at $148,322,915.

Reagan New Leader For Nomination

By CURTIS J. SITOMER
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

LOS ANGELES — Gov. Ronald Reagan — who never turned down a good part in his years as a Hollywood actor — may now have an important edge on getting the lead role in the 1976 drama entitled "1976 Republican nomination."

Although the conservative Republican usually shies away from direct discussion of his future political aspirations, many of those close to him insist he now must be considered a "leader" for the Republican nod.

Why? Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's fortunes, Watergate, the philosophical mood of America, and the man himself are the reasons political sources tick off.

Few believe that Vice President Agnew's present problems, subjecting him to a probe for possible violation of Maryland's bribery, conspiracy, and tax laws, will not seriously impede his quest for the presidency in 1976.

Up to now, Agnew had to be considered a leading contender. Many believed the top standard bearer would likely be a conservative — and one totally free of the taint of Watergate or any other governmental scandal.

But Agnew no longer seems to fill the bill. Even if he is cleared of all charges, many believe, he is no longer a viable presidential contender. If this is the case, that leaves Reagan and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally Jr. as the top Republican aspirants to the "right" of center. The moderate push will likely come from New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, and perhaps U.S. Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee.

Why Governor Reagan and not Connally? Some analysts here say the former Democrat recently turned Republican is still to be considered a "Johnny-come-lately" by many Republican regulars. They concede Connally has proved himself as a Nixon loyalist. But they also insist he has not yet earned his medal as a "party" loyalist.

Also, Connally, as other Republican hopefuls, will likely have to face rugged intraparty primary test in order to emerge as a serious presidential contender.

When New York Mayor John V. Lindsay switched from the Republican Party to the Democratic ranks last year, he failed to gain substantial support from either party regulars or primary voters some point out.

But why Ronald Reagan? Many contend his liabilities are numerous. Reagan has never really shaken the somewhat derisive image of a movieland personality turned politician.

Many liberals view him as an "unbending reactionary." They charge his "trim, cut, and squeeze" approach to government has not worked in California — and in fact has resulted in even higher budgets and bigger personal taxes.

Others strongly disagree. Reagan's assets are many, they say. Among them:

He will be viewed by the voters as "Mr. Clean." There have been no serious scandals during Ronald Reagan's almost seven years as California governor. And the Governor presents an image as a clean-living family man shocked by public corruption and personal vice.

Reagan is a growing asset to the national Republican Party. He has apparently bridged his differnces with the more moderate Nixon administration. He has remained quietly loyal to the President during the Watergate furor. Moreover, the articulate and personable California governor is a popular banquet speaker and an effective fundraiser for the party.

Sewer Project Contracts Given

Contracts for two sewer improvement projects were awarded Monday night to the low bidders by the Ross Valley Sanitary District board.

They were for relocation of a sewer line in Kentfield on College Avenue, $31,191, to Shaw Construction Co., and Madrone Avenue sewer renovation, $21,405, Maggiori and Ghilotti.

The board also learned in a letter from county Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell that gross assessed valuation in the district has risen 12.7 per cent over last year, with the total now at $148,322,915.

HILLER TOPS A'S

A Pitcher With Heart

OAKLAND (UPI)—Two years ago, after suffering a heart attack, John Hiller was told by six different doctors he should give up baseball.

But the plucky left-hander underwent corrective surgery and now ranks right up there with the best pitchers in the American League.

Tuesday night he showed how good a pitcher he is, fanning seven batters in five innings of relief to pick up his eighth victory as the Detroit Tigers beat the Oakland A's 6-4.

The A's reached Hiller for only two hits and one run in the five innings but it seemed he was even better than that, and this was his 50th appearance of the season. In addition to his eight victories, Hiller has 28 saves, which makes him one of the most important players on a Detroit club that has won 68 games. That means he has figured in more than half of the Tigers' victories.

"I think I had my best stuff of the year in this game," said Hiller. "At least it was my best stuff since the All Star break. I stuck to my breaking ball and used my fastball only as a showcase."

Hiller came on at a key moment. The Tigers were in front 5-3 and the A's had runners on first and second with none out. Hiller threw a wild pitch to advance the runners but then struck out Reggie Jackson, retired Deron Johnson on a foul popup and retired Jesus Alou on a fly.

The A's had one more chance in the ninth when Bill North walked but Hiller struck out Bert Campaneris and got Sal Bando on a fly. That brought Jackson to the plate and Hiller faced the challenge by striking out the American League home run and runs batted in leader.

"He's a heckofa pitcher," Jackson said. "His fastball is sneaky fast and he keeps you off stride with his breaking pitch. On the strike he threw me to end the game, it was a pitch I should hit but he had me completely fooled. That's the sign of a fine pitcher."

The victory kept the Tigers in second place in the AL East, 3 ½ games behind Baltimore. The A's, meanwhile, saw their winning streak snapped at nine and their lead over Kansas City in the AL West cut to two games.

"We lost to a pretty damn good pitcher," said A's skipper Dick Williams. "We had our chances but didn't cash them in. I still like our chances to win. This was just one game."

The Tigers and A's conclude their current series tonight with Joe Coleman (18-11) pitching against Oakland's John Odom (3-9).

(UPI Telephoto)

Ired Foster Avenges Slur In Win

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Hometown hero Bob Foster felt his black race had been slurred and, for 15 rounds in the boxing ring, the light heavyweight champion of the world bombarded South Africa's Pierre Fourie in a successful defense of his title.

"I wanted the fight to go 15 rounds. I wanted to punish him," the 34-year-old king of the 175-pounders said after the bout. "Nobody calls me a 'boy' and gets away with it."

Fourie frankly was confused over whether he had called the black champion "boy" when they met at the morning weigh-in Tuesday, but he did apologize and said, "I wouldn't insult a champion."

The South African's manager, Alan Toweel, maintained that his fighter had greeted the champion and said, "Tonight's the night, Bobby," and Foster misunderstood the South African accent.

The champ doesn't believe that.

Foster pumped hundreds of left jabs into Fourie's face and the challenger was bloody from the first round when he suffered a cut over his right eye. He did finally repay the compliment by slicing the champion over his left eye, an abrasion that required stitches.

Still, there was no doubt the 6-foot-3½ champion dominated his foe, who was four inches shorter and had seven inches less in reach — 79 inches to 72.

Referee Jim Cleary and Judge Willis Barnes, both from Foster's home town of Albuquerque, scored the fight 148-120 and 149-130, respectively, while Judge Sydney Beck of Capetown, South Africa, saw it 149-138.

Foster now boasts a 50-6 record while Fourie, unbeaten in 31 previous bouts, is 44-2-1.

SWIMMING

Pace Quickens In AAU Championships

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The pace quickens today in the National Amateur Athletic Association competition here, featuring preliminaries and finals in swimming following two days of diving.

Fifty-three swimmers will be chosen today through Saturday for a spot on the U.S. team that will compete in the first annual World Swimming and Diving Championships at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, next month.

The first two days of the meet at the Plantation Swim Club were devoted strictly to diving. Starting today, swimmers undergo a daily schedule of heats during the day and finals starting at 7 p.m. through Saturday.

Scheduled are finals in the men's and women's 200-meter backstroke, 100-meter breaststroke, 400-meter freestyle and 100-meter butterfly. Forty-five swimmers, 24 men and 21 women, and four men and four women divers, will be selected for the trip to Belgrade, Sept. 1-9, representing the U.S.

Four swimmers from the Marin Aquatic Club were scheduled to see action today.

Rick DeMont, who won and later was stripped of the Olympic gold medal in the 400-free last fall, will swim that event. Robin Backhaus will compete in the 100 fly, Keith Strange in the 100 breast and Maura Campion in the 100 fly and 200 back.

Jo Hislop and Art Morrill begin competition Thursday and Cyndi Salvisberg Friday.

Michael Finneran, 24, of Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday won the AAU National Championship in the one-meter dive after performing a tough reverse 1 ½ somersault layout.

Finneran, who performed a "perfect dive" last year in the Olympic trials, led a field of 12 finalists and finished with 498.96 points. Close behind was Richard McAlister of the Air Force Academy with 491.85. Tim Moore, Columbus, Ohio, who finished with 470.40 points, was third, while Julian Krug of San Jose, Calif., fourth with 464.26.

Finneran, whose perfect dive came at last year's Olympic trials when all seven judges gave him the top score of 10 points, received mostly eight points from each judge in his fourth national title Tuesday. Two of his previous AAU titles were in the three-meter event.

"Usually my final three dives are my best," said Finneran, an insurance man who had finished second in AAU onemater competition five times previously. "This way the opposition worries about my dives more than I do."

He said he was on the verge of quitting competition last year after a poor showing at the Olympic games in Munich. "I thought last summer about retiring," Finneran said. "I thought I was the best in the world last year, but now I think I can get better."

3 Injured Raiders May See Some Action

OAKLAND (UPI)—Three injured Oakland Raiders may return to the lineup Saturday for a pre-season game in Berkeley against the Minnesota Vikings.

The three, all defensive linemen, are Ben Davidson, Art Thoms and Tony Cline. All got good news Tuesday from physicians.

20 VICTORIES

Giants' Star Nears Goal

MONTREAL (AP) — Left-hander Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants is only one away from becoming the first 20-game winner in the National League this season.

Tuesday night, Bryant twirled a nifty five-hitter as the Giants took their second game in a row from the Expos by scoring a 3-1 victory.

The teams were tied 1-1 going into the seventh inning, but the Giants then took advantage of a throwing error by Montreal shortstop Tim Foli to push across the winning run. They added another run in the eighth on Dave Rader's second sacrifice fly of the game.

With two out in the seventh, Tito Fuentes singled. He was off and running when Bobby Bonds singled to left and wound up at third.

Foli then sent his relay throw to first base to try and get Bonds. He didn't, and the ball ended up in the Giants' dugout. Fuentes had no trouble scoring.

"I don't think I would have thrown the ball if I were him," Bonds said.

Foli was in no mood to listen to the free advice and made no comment on it.

But while Foli's miscue resulted in the winning run, the big story had to be Bryant's brilliant pitching.

The lefty didn't walk a batter until the ninth inning and ended the game with six strikeouts. He gave up a run in the fourth inning when Bob Bailey singled home Ken Singleton to erase a 1-0 lead the Giants had taken in the second, when Rader scored Dave Kingman with his first sacrifice fly.

But Bryant mystified the Expos after that as he registered his seventh lifetime victory in nine decisions against Montreal. By going the distance in the game, he brought his total innings pitched to 221, seven more innings than he worked all last year.

"I think I've been more consistent this year," said Bryant.

"There's only three games I've been knocked out of — one against Cincinnati and two against Pittsburgh."

When asked if he might have a chance at 25 wins, Bryant replied:

"I don't know. I'm not counting on winning 25. I'll just go out there and try and pitch day by day.

"I like to take one batter at a time and I like to take one game at a time."

Flames Sign Four Veterans; Team Completed

ATLANTA (UPI)—The National Hockey League Atlanta Flames said Tuesday four veterans have been signed to multi-year contracts, completing the roster of those who played in the Flames' first season.

Manery was the only rookie named to the 1972-73 NHL All-Star game and Bouchard placed fifth in voting for rookie of the year.

The Flames will begin their training camp in Ottawa, Ontario, Sept. 17, and have a nine-game exhibition schedule. Regular season play will begin Oct. 10 in Atlanta against the New York Islanders.

49ers May Swap QB For Runner

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers roster was down to 54 today. That included four quarterbacks, giving rise to speculation one of them will be traded for a running back, which the National Football League club sorely needs.

Presumably, it would take veteran John Brodie or Steve Spurrier, Brodie's replacement for much of last season, to persuade another club to part with a good runner.

The 49ers No. 3 quarterback is Joe Reed, moved up from last year's taxi squad and impressive in his exhibition game efforts, and the club has put a fourth quarterback, rookie Dennis Morrison, on the taxi squad. Morrison, an outstanding left-hander, was a 14th round draft choice from Kansas State.

Coach Dick Nolan was cautious Tuesday in discussing a possible quarterback trade.

"It is possible, but I don't have to anything about it right now," Nolan said. "I've got a whole month to think about it."

Spurrier will start at quarterback Sunday here against the Denver Broncos. He was sidelined last Sunday with a sore knee when the 49ers beat San Diego.

Cut from the squad Tuesday were running back Otis Cooper from San Jose State and tight end Chris Vella from Southern California, both free agent rookies.

Five more cuts must be made after Sunday's game.

Bloody Brawl Mars U.S. Cagers' Win

MOSCOW (UPI) —American and Cuban athletes fought a bloody, 25-minute battle today before several hundred stunned Russian spectators at a World University Games basketball match.

The Cubans swung wooden folding chairs at the Americans, who fought back with their fists. One American was knocked unconscious, and blood and broken glass littered the floor when authorities finally got the situation under control.

The fight broke out just 90 seconds before the end of the game, which the Americans won 98-70.

An unidentified Cuban player kicked Mitchell Kupchuk of Brentwood, New York, and he went down in front of the Cuban basket.

Kupchuk came up swinging, and the entire Cuban bench poured onto the floor. American players swarmed out to try to rescue Kupchuk.

Then the Cubans brought wooden folding chairs onto the floor, and started hitting the American players over the head.

U.S. trainer Wayne Woltzen of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, was knocked unconscious.

"These... bastards hit me three times," Woltzen said afterward. "I put my arm up and then he hit me on the back." He had a large lump on the back of his head and had to be treated by a doctor.

At one point the Cuban coach, Ernesto Diaz, chased American coach Ed Badger of Wilbur Wright Junior College in Chicago across the court and back again, throwing punches all the way. Badger ran and did not attempt to fight back.

"We knew they were going to start trouble when they were 20 points behind, because they do it every time we play them," Badger said.

Following gold medals by Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M., in the women's 200-meter breaststroke, Sally Tuttle of Ventura, Calif., in the women's 100-meter freestyle and Allen Poucher of Jacksonville, Fla., in the men's 100-meter butterfly, the U.S. cagers routed a taller Czechoslovakia team by 110-59 to move closer to the almost inevitable final matchup with the Soviet Union.

The Russians, meanwhile, ignoring the first decisive U.S. breakthrough in the gold medal rush, added five more in assorted sports to boost their overall

HILLER TOPS A'S

A Pitcher With Heart

OAKLAND (UPI)—Two years ago, after suffering a heart attack, John Hiller was told by six different doctors he should give up baseball.

But the plucky left-hander underwent corrective surgery and now ranks right up there with the best pitchers in the American League.

Tuesday night he showed how good a pitcher he is, fanning seven batters in five innings of relief to pick up his eighth victory as the Detroit Tigers beat the Oakland A's 6-4.

The A's reached Hiller for only two hits and one run in the five innings but it seemed he was even better than that, and this was his 50th appearance of the season. In addition to his eight victories, Hiller has 28 saves, which makes him one of the most important players on a Detroit club that has won 68 games. That means he has figured in more than half of the Tigers' victories.

"I think I had my best stuff of the year in this game," said Hiller. "At least it was my best stuff since the All Star break. I stuck to my breaking ball and used my fastball only as a showcase."

Hiller came on at a key moment. The Tigers were in front 5-3 and the A's had runners on first and second with none out. Hiller threw a wild pitch to advance the runners but then struck out Reggie Jackson, retired Deron Johnson on a foul popup and retired Jesus Alou on a fly.

The A's had one more chance in the ninth when Bill North walked but Hiller struck out Bert Campaneris and got Sal Bando on a fly. That brought Jackson to the plate and Hiller faced the challenge by striking out the American League home run and runs batted in leader.

"He's a heckofa pitcher," Jackson said. "His fastball is sneaky fast and he keeps you off stride with his breaking pitch. On the strike he threw me to end the game, it was a pitch I should hit but he had me completely fooled. That's the sign of a fine pitcher."

The victory kept the Tigers in second place in the AL East, 3 ½ games behind Baltimore. The A's, meanwhile, saw their winning streak snapped at nine and their lead over Kansas City in the AL West cut to two games.

"We lost to a pretty damn good pitcher," said A's skipper Dick Williams. "We had our chances but didn't cash them in. I still like our chances to win. This was just one game."

The Tigers and A's conclude their current series tonight with Joe Coleman (18-11) pitching against Oakland's John Odom (3-9).

(UPI Telephoto)

Ired Foster Avenges Slur In Win

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Hometown hero Bob Foster felt his black race had been slurred and, for 15 rounds in the boxing ring, the light heavyweight champion of the world bombarded South Africa's Pierre Fourie in a successful defense of his title.

"I wanted the fight to go 15 rounds. I wanted to punish him," the 34-year-old king of the 175-pounders said after the bout. "Nobody calls me a 'boy' and gets away with it."

Fourie frankly was confused over whether he had called the black champion "boy" when they met at the morning weigh-in Tuesday, but he did apologize and said, "I wouldn't insult a champion."

The South African's manager, Alan Toweel, maintained that his fighter had greeted the champion and said, "Tonight's the night, Bobby," and Foster misunderstood the South African accent.

The champ doesn't believe that.

Foster pumped hundreds of left jabs into Fourie's face and the challenger was bloody from the first round when he suffered a cut over his right eye. He did finally repay the compliment by slicing the champion over his left eye, an abrasion that required stitches.

Still, there was no doubt the 6-foot-3½ champion dominated his foe, who was four inches shorter and had seven inches less in reach — 79 inches to 72.

Referee Jim Cleary and Judge Willis Barnes, both from Foster's home town of Albuquerque, scored the fight 148-120 and 149-130, respectively, while Judge Sydney Beck of Capetown, South Africa, saw it 149-138.

Foster now boasts a 50-6 record while Fourie, unbeaten in 31 previous bouts, is 44-2-1.

SWIMMING

Pace Quickens In AAU Championships

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The pace quickens today in the National Amateur Athletic Association competition here, featuring preliminaries and finals in swimming following two days of diving.

Fifty-three swimmers will be chosen today through Saturday for a spot on the U.S. team that will compete in the first annual World Swimming and Diving Championships at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, next month.

The first two days of the meet at the Plantation Swim Club were devoted strictly to diving. Starting today, swimmers undergo a daily schedule of heats during the day and finals starting at 7 p.m. through Saturday.

Scheduled are finals in the men's and women's 200-meter backstroke, 100-meter breaststroke, 400-meter freestyle and 100-meter butterfly. Forty-five swimmers, 24 men and 21 women, and four men and four women divers, will be selected for the trip to Belgrade, Sept. 1-9, representing the U.S.

Four swimmers from the Marin Aquatic Club were scheduled to see action today.

Rick DeMont, who won and later was stripped of the Olympic gold medal in the 400-free last fall, will swim that event. Robin Backhaus will compete in the 100 fly, Keith Strange in the 100 breast and Maura Campion in the 100 fly and 200 back.

Jo Hislop and Art Morrill begin competition Thursday and Cyndi Salvisberg Friday.

Michael Finneran, 24, of Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday won the AAU National Championship in the one-meter dive after performing a tough reverse 1 ½ somersault layout.

Finneran, who performed a "perfect dive" last year in the Olympic trials, led a field of 12 finalists and finished with 498.96 points. Close behind was Richard McAlister of the Air Force Academy with 491.85. Tim Moore, Columbus, Ohio, who finished with 470.40 points, was third, while Julian Krug of San Jose, Calif., fourth with 464.26.

Finneran, whose perfect dive came at last year's Olympic trials when all seven judges gave him the top score of 10 points, received mostly eight points from each judge in his fourth national title Tuesday. Two of his previous AAU titles were in the three-meter event.

"Usually my final three dives are my best," said Finneran, an insurance man who had finished second in AAU onemater competition five times previously. "This way the opposition worries about my dives more than I do."

He said he was on the verge of quitting competition last year after a poor showing at the Olympic games in Munich. "I thought last summer about retiring," Finneran said. "I thought I was the best in the world last year, but now I think I can get better."

3 Injured Raiders May See Some Action

OAKLAND (UPI)—Three injured Oakland Raiders may return to the lineup Saturday for a pre-season game in Berkeley against the Minnesota Vikings.

The three, all defensive linemen, are Ben Davidson, Art Thoms and Tony Cline. All got good news Tuesday from physicians.

20 VICTORIES

Giants' Star Nears Goal

MONTREAL (AP) — Left-hander Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants is only one away from becoming the first 20-game winner in the National League this season.

Tuesday night, Bryant twirled a nifty five-hitter as the Giants took their second game in a row from the Expos by scoring a 3-1 victory.

The teams were tied 1-1 going into the seventh inning, but the Giants then took advantage of a throwing error by Montreal shortstop Tim Foli to push across the winning run. They added another run in the eighth on Dave Rader's second sacrifice fly of the game.

With two out in the seventh, Tito Fuentes singled. He was off and running when Bobby Bonds singled to left and wound up at third.

Foli then sent his relay throw to first base to try and get Bonds. He didn't, and the ball ended up in the Giants' dugout. Fuentes had no trouble scoring.

"I don't think I would have thrown the ball if I were him," Bonds said.

Foli was in no mood to listen to the free advice and made no comment on it.

But while Foli's miscue resulted in the winning run, the big story had to be Bryant's brilliant pitching.

The lefty didn't walk a batter until the ninth inning and ended the game with six strikeouts. He gave up a run in the fourth inning when Bob Bailey singled home Ken Singleton to erase a 1-0 lead the Giants had taken in the second, when Rader scored Dave Kingman with his first sacrifice fly.

But Bryant mystified the Expos after that as he registered his seventh lifetime victory in nine decisions against Montreal. By going the distance in the game, he brought his total innings pitched to 221, seven more innings than he worked all last year.

"I think I've been more consistent this year," said Bryant.

"There's only three games I've been knocked out of — one against Cincinnati and two against Pittsburgh."

When asked if he might have a chance at 25 wins, Bryant replied:

"I don't know. I'm not counting on winning 25. I'll just go out there and try and pitch day by day.

"I like to take one batter at a time and I like to take one game at a time."

Bahnsen Poetic After One-Hitter

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Stan Bahnsen's near no-hitter last night for the Chicago White Sox was almost as poetic his expression of how he felt after he gave up his only hit, a single to Walt Williams, with two out in the ninth inning.

"It felt like the bottom fell out of the balloon I was riding," Bahnsen said after settling for a 4-0, one-hit victory over the Cleveland Indians and just missing the American League's fifth no-hitter this year. "It was such an emotional thing 'til then, I just wanted Williams to hit the ball on the ground and he did."

Williams, who takes a short stroke, rapped a ground ball on a 2-1 pitch too hard and too far to the left for third baseman Bill Melton to nab. Bahnsen, who had pitched a pair of no-hitters in the minors in 1966 and 1967, stood gazing into centerfield for a few moments before retiring the last hitter.

"I always wanted to pitch a no-hitter in the big leagues," said Bahnsen who won 21 games last year after being traded to the White Sox from the New York Yankees. "I wish Williams would have pulled the ball a little."

"I really don't feel anything about breaking up the no-hitter," Williams said. "I was nervous when I came up to the plate. After fouling off the third pitch, I cleaned my spikes. I never clean my spikes when I'm batting. I was trying to hit the ball as hard as I could and when it hit the grass, I think it helped in getting past Melton."

Williams was Bahnsen's teammate on the White Sox last year and said of him, "I really like Stan Bahnsen. He's a super guy to me, but..." But, Williams didn't have to add, they're wearing different uniforms now.

Bahnsen, who gave up a walk to Dave Duncan with two out in the second inning and then retired 17 batters in order before walking Duncan again in the eighth, picked up his 16th victory against 14 defeats. Second baseman Jorge Orta drove in two runs for Chicago on three hits, including his third homer, and also saved the no-hitter temporarily when he went behind second base to make a tremendous stop and throw out Buddy Bell in the third.

In other American League games, Baltimore nipped Minnesota 2-1, Boston outslugged Texas 15-9, Kansas City clipped New York 5-4, Detroit tripped Oakland 6-4 and Milwaukee downed California 6-2.

In National League action, Chicago beat Cincinnati 6-4, San Francisco defeated Montreal 3-1, Philadelphia edged San Diego 9-8, New York tripped Los Angeles 2-1, Atlanta beat St. Louis 11-7 and Pittsburgh downed Houston 6-3.

Al Bumbry's ninth inning sacrifice fly scored Bobby Grich, who had doubled and moved to third on a single by Mark Belanger, with the winning run as the Orioles extended their winning streak to nine games by beating Minnesota.

Dwight Evans powered a 450-foot two-run homer in the second inning and started a five-run third inning and Reggie Smith drove in five runs to pace Boston over the Rangers and give Roger Moret his eighth victory without a defeat.

Lou Piniella's third single of the game drove in Amos Otis, who had doubled, with the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning and lifted Kansas City past the Yankees behind the excellent relief pitching of Joe Hoerner.

Johnny Briggs doubled in two runs and Bobby Mitchell knocked in a pair with a homer to account for a four-run sixth inning as Brewers, behind the eight-hit pitching of Jim Colborn, beatthe Angels. Colborn struck out four and walked none in winning his 16th game.

NCAA Group Questions Sports Bill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Members of the National Collegiate Athletic Association executive committee, expressed concern Tuesday over a bill in the U.S. Senate that would establish a federal organization on sports.

Alan J. Chapman of Rice, the NCAA president, said the bill (SB325—Amendment 459) would create a "multi-headed federal bureaucracy that would reign over amateur sports and impose domination of school and club teams throughout the country."

The bill would create a federal organization with power to sanction both international and domestic competition and review the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The NCAA and the American Athletic Union have been disputing the handling of the U.S. Olympic team.

Wiles Hallock, Pacific Eight commissioner, noted there was legislation in the House that the NCAA does support because, "it doesn't call for sweeping runaway sanctioning and it's not a permanent bureaucracy. It only reviews the Olympic committee and international committees which the intent of reform."

Marcus L. Plant of Michigan, a committee member, held that the Senate bill would be a "disaster for schools and a bonanza for promoters.

"If this bill is enacted, no college will have control over its athletics. Any promoter can acquire federal sanction and deprive a school of its superstar at the expense of the welfare of his school and teammates."

Father William Crowley of Santa Clara called the Senate measure a "hydra-headed monster that could become the monopoly we tried to breach by forming out federations."

Forry Shines In Bakersfield

Getting an excellent return on the investment of his labor, San Rafael's Dewey Forry pitched four innings and picked up two victories last week.

Forry, a relief pitcher for Bakersfield in the Class A California League, improved his season record to 9-3, according to Player Periscope statistical service of Novato.

The former Terra Linda High School star, now property of the Los Angeles Dodgers, made three appearances, giving up three hits and four walks while striking out two in his four innings. His seasonal earned run average stands at 3.32.

Judging by the averages of the Marin batsmen toiling in the minor leagues, other pitchers besides Forry were performing well. Marin City's Clifford Hall enjoyed a good week, but four Marinites slumped.

Hall, playing for the Chicago Cubs' Class A Midwest League farm in Quincy, Ill., banged nine hits in 31 times up for a .290 clip, and drove in five runs. His season's average rose to .269.

John Dolinsek of Novato, slumping since his average was above the .300 mark, skidded to .288 with a three-for-19 showing for Denver of the Class AAA American Association. Dolinsek is property of Houston.

Novato's Tom Thomas kept his average in fruitful territory at .301, but another week like the last one and he'll be on the wrong side of that magic barrier. He was only three for 14 for Salem, Va., a Pittsburgh farm in the Class A Carolina League.

Mike Parnow of Fairfax managed to score seven runs but still went only six-for-32 for Ogden, Utah, the Dodgers' farm in the Pioneer Rookie League. His average dropped to .219.

Likewise, Kentfield's Tom Olson tailed off (to .278), the results of a four-for-17 showing for Marion, Va., the New York Mets' affiliate in the Appalachian Rookie League.

Pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato saw no action for the Atlanta Braves' Savannah, Ga., farm in the Class AA Southern League. He is 3-6 with a 5.70 ERA for the year.

USC Picked To Be No. 1 In Football

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Southern California, a unanimous choice as the No. 1 team in college football last year, is expected to capture that honor again this season, according to the United Press International's Board of Coaches.

The UPI coaches board didn't make the Trojans a unanimous pick in the pre-season ratings, but of the 29 coaches who participated in the voting, 25 selected USC as their No. 1 pick. The four other first place votes went to Michigan, Ohio state, Texas and Auburn.

Runnerup to the Trojans in the balloting was perennial Big Eight power Nebraska, the 1971 national champion. THe Cornhuskers received 175 points, which was nine more than the third place finisher, Ohio State, received.

Texas, defending Southwest Conference champion, finished fourth in the voting followed by Alabama and Michigan. Then comes Penn State, UCLA, Tennessee and Colorado to round out the top 10.

Oklahoma, which will be trying to regroup after its scandal-ridden 1972 season, heads the second 10 followed by Notre Dame, Auburn and Arizona State. Louisiana State is in the 15th position, Houston ranks No. 16 and Florida, the fifth member of the Southeastern Conference to be named in the top 20, is ranked 17th.

Rounding out the top 20 are Texas Tech in the 18th spot and Georgia Tech and North Carolina in a tie for 19th.

Southern California, which went undefeated last year, has enough material returning to make a strong run at another unbeaten campaign, yet Coach John McKay remains cautious.

Grid Blackouts Said Unnecessary

Combined AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — National Football League (NFL) teams are rich enough today they no longer need the protection of television blackouts of home games, a House of Representatives committee concluded Tuesday.

The Special Investigations Subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee recommended Congress ban the blackouts when tickets for regular home season games are sold out before the season opens and Congress limit the areaof any blackouts allowed.

NFL contracts with the networks prohibit a television station from broadcasting a team's game within the team's home territory when the team is playing on its home grounds. The area means any radius including potential fans, but usually is considered to be about 75 miles.

"About 35 per cent of the nation's population resides in blacked-out areas," the report said. "Thus, the impact of television blackouts is considerably greater today than in 1961."

Congress granted professional football an exemption from antitrust laws in 1961 so it could negotiate collectively for television coverage and enforce television blackouts of home games.

Boxing

Morgantown, W. Va. — Jack Rodgers, former high-ranking middleweight boxing contender, was listed in guarded condition today at West Virginia University Medical Center after undergoing surgery for two stab wounds.

Rodgers, 36, Uniontown, Pa., who retired from fighting five years ago, was found bleeding and unconscious Tuesday beside his automobile.

Police said Rodgers drove one-half mile to his home following an argument in a downtown Uniontown garage with Melvin Pike, 58, of Uniontown.

Pike was arrested and released on $5,000 bond following his arraignment before Alderman Jacob Ruben, Uniontown, on charges of aggravated assault and battery.

NEWPORT, R.I. — Margaret Court, the top seed, Tuesday defeated fellow Australian Cynthia Doerner 6-3, 6-4 in the first round of the $30,000 Women's Grass Court Championships.

Baseball

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — A team from Taiwan has won the Little League World Series the last two years and on the basis of Tuesday's opener performance, three in a row is a distinct possibility.

Huang Ching-Hui, a flame-throwing right-hander, pitched a perfect game, striking out 16 of 18 batters and Taiwan hitters rapped out 13 hits, including a record-tying four homers, in an 18-0 pasting of Bitburg (Germany) Air Force Base.

The team from Tampa, Fla., wasn't quite as impressive as the Chinese squad but the Southern U.S. representative still managed to overpower Whalley, British Columbia, 11-2.

The U.S. swimmers, led by a record-breaking performance in the games by Miss Carr in the 200-meter breast stroke, braved a driving rainstorm and chilling winds from the Moscow River, which borders the open-air Lenin Stadium swimming pool.

Pursued heavily by the Soviet Union's Ludmila Porubaiko, the two-time Olympic champion Miss Carr managed to maintain her fading lead down the final 100 yards to win by a half-stroke.

Her time was 2:42.3.

Poucher, a sophomore at the University of Southern California, swam to a personal alltime best of 56.4 in winning the 100-meter butterfly by a second over Byron MacDonald of Canada.

Miss Tuttle also achieved a first when she took the 100-freestyle in 1:00.3. It was her initial triumph in international competition.

A clean sweep of the only four swimming finals was foiled for the Americans when Vladimir Bure of the Soviet Union surged off to an excellent start and covered the first 50 meters of the 100-meter freestyle event in a spectacular 23.8.

After that, it was all downhill as Bure made it home in 52.0 to easily out-distance Kenneth Knox of Glen Ridge, N.J. The other Soviet gold medals went to Viatcheslav Strahov in the high diving, and a pair of doubles victories in tennis.

Underscored by the fifth straight victory by the U.S. men's basketball team was the fourth consecutive win by the American women, who edged Bulgaria 57-50. They have not lost since their opening game against the Russians.

Challenger Roman Waging Psychological War On Champ

TOKYO (UPI)—Brash underdog challenger Joe King Roman of Puerto Rico undoubtedly is carrying on psychological warfare against world heavyweight champion George Foreman.

They met accidentally today on a stairway at the Jikei Hospital where they reported for a medical examination as a preliminary for their 15-round championship fight Sept. 1 at Nihon Budokan Hall.

Foreman, accompanied by trainer-manager Dick Sadler, had completed his examination and was leaving when he bumped into Roman, who had just arrived with Manager Bill Daly and Trainer Al Braverman.

Roman looked at Foreman and said, "why don't you learn to smile. You crazy?"

Foreman glared at Roman and was silent.

Roman and Daly appeared at the Toyo Public gym Monday afternoon where Foreman was training because they said they were told to do so by promoters. Sadler accused Roman and Daly of "messing up" Foreman's training and left the gym.

Roman also dangled a little stuffed mouse because in Foreman's airport arrival news conference he had said "I fear nobody but I am afraid of mice." Foreman refused to attend a customary prefight contract signing ceremony Monday evening at the Tokyo Prince hotel, where he is staying, because he did not want to see Roman except in the ring, Sept. 1.

Dr. Kei Suzuki pronounced Foreman and Roman in top condition for their 15-round title match.

Sadler said he had not decided when Foreman would do his last sparring. He said, "we are still 10 days from the fight and we'll play it by the ear."

"Roman weighed 195 pounds today and he is just right," Daly said. "Roman was brought up in the wilds of New York and he ain't afraid of anybody.

"I am going to have Roman move around in the first few rounds," Daly said. "I don't want him to move into a truck. We will wait for a few rounds and then Joe will mix it up when the truck is overheated."

Daly said he would talk with Sadler and the Japan Boxing Commission so that there will be a referee who will prevent any of the fighters from shoving and pushing.

"We want a clean good fight," Daly said.

The U.S. swimmers, led by a record-breaking performance in the games by Miss Carr in the 200-meter breast stroke, braved a driving rainstorm and chilling winds from the Moscow River, which borders the open-air Lenin Stadium swimming pool.

Pursued heavily by the Soviet Union's Ludmila Porubaiko, the two-time Olympic champion Miss Carr managed to maintain her fading lead down the final 100 yards to win by a half-stroke.

Her time was 2:42.3.

Poucher, a sophomore at the University of Southern California, swam to a personal alltime best of 56.4 in winning the 100-meter butterfly by a second over Byron MacDonald of Canada.

Miss Tuttle also achieved a first when she took the 100-freestyle in 1:00.3. It was her initial triumph in international competition.

A clean sweep of the only four swimming finals was foiled for the Americans when Vladimir Bure of the Soviet Union surged off to an excellent start and covered the first 50 meters of the 100-meter freestyle event in a spectacular 23.8.

After that, it was all downhill as Bure made it home in 52.0 to easily out-distance Kenneth Knox of Glen Ridge, N.J. The other Soviet gold medals went to Viatcheslav Strahov in the high diving, and a pair of doubles victories in tennis.

Underscored by the fifth straight victory by the U.S. men's basketball team was the fourth consecutive win by the American women, who edged Bulgaria 57-50. They have not lost since their opening game against the Russians.

USC Picked To Be No. 1 In Football

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Southern California, a unanimous choice as the No. 1 team in college football last year, is expected to capture that honor again this season, according to the United Press International's Board of Coaches.

The UPI coaches board didn't make the Trojans a unanimous pick in the pre-season ratings, but of the 29 coaches who participated in the voting, 25 selected USC as their No. 1 pick. The four other first place votes went to Michigan, Ohio state, Texas and Auburn.

Runnerup to the Trojans in the balloting was perennial Big Eight power Nebraska, the 1971 national champion. THe Cornhuskers received 175 points, which was nine more than the third place finisher, Ohio State, received.

Texas, defending Southwest Conference champion, finished fourth in the voting followed by Alabama and Michigan. Then comes Penn State, UCLA, Tennessee and Colorado to round out the top 10.

Oklahoma, which will be trying to regroup after its scandal-ridden 1972 season, heads the second 10 followed by Notre Dame, Auburn and Arizona State. Louisiana State is in the 15th position, Houston ranks No. 16 and Florida, the fifth member of the Southeastern Conference to be named in the top 20, is ranked 17th.

Rounding out the top 20 are Texas Tech in the 18th spot and Georgia Tech and North Carolina in a tie for 19th.

Southern California, which went undefeated last year, has enough material returning to make a strong run at another unbeaten campaign, yet Coach John McKay remains cautious.

Challenger Roman Waging Psychological War On Champ

TOKYO (UPI)—Brash underdog challenger Joe King Roman of Puerto Rico undoubtedly is carrying on psychological warfare against world heavyweight champion George Foreman.

They met accidentally today on a stairway at the Jikei Hospital where they reported for a medical examination as a preliminary for their 15-round championship fight Sept. 1 at Nihon Budokan Hall.

Foreman, accompanied by trainer-manager Dick Sadler, had completed his examination and was leaving when he bumped into Roman, who had just arrived with Manager Bill Daly and Trainer Al Braverman.

Roman looked at Foreman and said, "why don't you learn to smile. You crazy?"

Foreman glared at Roman and was silent.

Roman and Daly appeared at the Toyo Public gym Monday afternoon where Foreman was training because they said they were told to do so by promoters. Sadler accused Roman and Daly of "messing up" Foreman's training and left the gym.

Roman also dangled a little stuffed mouse because in Foreman's airport arrival news conference he had said "I fear nobody but I am afraid of mice." Foreman refused to attend a customary prefight contract signing ceremony Monday evening at the Tokyo Prince hotel, where he is staying, because he did not want to see Roman except in the ring, Sept. 1.

Dr. Kei Suzuki pronounced Foreman and Roman in top condition for their 15-round title match.

Sadler said he had not decided when Foreman would do his last sparring. He said, "we are still 10 days from the fight and we'll play it by the ear."

"Roman weighed 195 pounds today and he is just right," Daly said. "Roman was brought up in the wilds of New York and he ain't afraid of anybody.

"I am going to have Roman move around in the first few rounds," Daly said. "I don't want him to move into a truck. We will wait for a few rounds and then Joe will mix it up when the truck is overheated."

Daly said he would talk with Sadler and the Japan Boxing Commission so that there will be a referee who will prevent any of the fighters from shoving and pushing.

"We want a clean good fight," Daly said.

Warriors Won't Play ABA In Exhibitions

OAKLAND (UPI)—None of the Golden State Warrior's exhibition games this year will be against members of the American Basketball Association.

Frank Mieuli, who owns the National Basketball Association club, has opposed the ABA since its founding and is against any move towards a merger. The NBA exhibition schedule was announced Tuesday.

Russian Cyclist Wins, Advances In Tourney

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (UPI) — Defending champion Galina Ermaloeva of Russia today easily defeated 18-year-old Hannah North of La Jolla, Calif. to qualify for the quarterfinals of the women's sprint in the opening race of the World Cycling Championships.

The Championships—six days of track biking to be followed by three days of road racing at Barcelona—got underway at the ANOETA cycling stadium before an estimated crowd of 1,000.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Extra Insight For Night Boating

Many boatmen resist taking their boats out at night because it takes a little extra know-how to operate in the dark.

Yet it's worth it. Night boating can be very relaxing after a hectic day. And the extra knowledge can be learned so easily.

Most boatmen know that boats must carry navigation lights at night, and that they consist of a red light on the port (left) side and a green light on the starboard (right) side.

After that basic knowledge, most weekend boat operators are rather vague about how bright the lights must be, how far they must be visible and through what angles they must be seen.

As a start on these technicalities the appended sketch shows the minimum legal requirements for boats under 26 feet in length. There is a little more to learn about lights, and to get a thorough knowledge a boat owner should get a text on navigation.

A text such as "Piloting and Navigation," by Motor Boating and Sailing Books, Box 2316, New York, 10019, or "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling," by Charles F. Chapman, from the same source, provides background and understanding of navigation light requirements.

Night boating is a big topic, as so many of the questions we are asked indicate:

Q. Do pleasure craft on the high seas use the same navigation lights as boats on inland lakes?

A. There are a few very significant differences required on the high seas. Get a copy of the Coast Guard boating guide and study the sketches carefully.

Q. Is a searchlight legal on a small boat?

A. Yes, as long as you don't shine a blinding light on another craft so as to interfere with the vision of the operator.

Q. What lights do I need on a canoe while fishing at night?

A. The law says: "Manually propelled vessels shall have a white light ready to be temporarily exhibited in time to prevent collision." That means a flashlight will do. Rowboats are included in this rule.

Q. Can I turn off all lights when my boat is anchored at night?

A. Yes, if the boat is anchored in a mooring basin or some area set aside as a recognized anchorage. However, if the boat is anchored in a navigable waterway, it must show a white light visible all around the horizon (360 degrees), bright enough and high enough to be visible for two miles.

Q. The channel into my dock is hard to see at night. Can you give me any ideas?

A. Most hardware stores sell a fluorescent tape. Boys use it on their bicycles. Put strips of this tape on stakes to mark your channel. The tape glows in the beam of the flashlight and everything falls into place. It's good on the corners of docks, too.

Q. I see some sailboats with red and green lights at the top of their masts. What does this mean?

A. The international rules of the road were revised seven years ago to permit sailboats to carry red and green lights high on the main mast as an instant and distinct identification. These lights are in addition to the standard red and green side lights. The mast headlights must be visible for two miles. It's explained in the Boating Guide.

Q. What's the basic reasoning behind the red and green navigation light system?

A. Simply it's this. If you can see another boat's green light you have the right of way. But if you can see only his red light — this means he is approaching from your right — he has the right of way.

Q. Do ocean liners follow the same rules for navigation lights?

A. Basically, yes, but there is much more to it. If you plan to operate in the company of big mercantile ships, barges, tugboats, pilot boats or dredges, you had better get a copy of some authoritative work such as Chapman's "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling." It gives a comprehensive understanding of navigation lights for the small boatman.

Q. Can you water ski at night if you carry a light such as a flashlight?

A. Water skiing is banned from one hour after sunset to sunrise almost everywhere, even if you're lit up like a Christmas tree.

A Soap Box Derby Probe On Cousins

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — An investigation into the disqualification of James Gronen, 14, Boulder, Colo., winner of the All-American Soap Box Derby last Saturday, has extended to his cousin Robert Lange Jr., Boulder Colo., who won it last year.

The winning cars in the Derby are usually kept by the derby officials but Lange's car was shipped back to Boulder last year.

In Boulder, district attorney Alex Hunter said he had assigned an assistant prosecutor and an investigator to the case.

"We are being besieged with people who had children in last year's race," said Hunter.

Derby Secretary Sam Andress said the 1972 car was shipped back.

"I don't know why," he said. "Of course there will be questions."

Andress said he could only assume the car was shipped back because Chevrolet dropped its sponsorship of the race and for a while it appeared there would be no more derbys.

Gronen was believed en route to Oklahoma with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lange, an aunt and uncle, who accompanied him here for the Derby.

Officials got suspicious when Gronen's racer consistently jumped ahead of the pack at the start of various trial heat.

James Gronen, 14, Boulder, Colo., won the 36th annual event but was later disqualified after Derby officials learned he used an electromagnet to help pull his car from the starting gate.

The electromagnet, according to Derby officials, was discovered through X-ray pictures taken of the racer Monday after starters reported Gronen's racer consistently obtained an edge over other racers at the start of various heats.

The X-rays showed the magnet in the nose of the racer and an activating switch operated by the boy's helmet.

Officials said the magnet was operated when the helmet of the driver touched the head rest of the racer. The magnet, attracted by a large steel plate used to hold racers in position, gave the racer an initial edge over the gravity start of the other contestants. The plate, when the race begins, falls forward and allows the racer to run over it.

Officials said the helmeted driver could then tilt his head forward as the racer started moving, preventing any backward magnetic attraction.

Thomas To Get No Reprimands

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Duane Thomas won't get any reprimands from the National Football League for his alleged refusal to heed the National Anthem at pre-game ceremonies.

Thomas, the controversial Washington Redskin running back, touched off a controversy last Friday night when he supposedly walked around and turned his back on the flag during pre-game ceremonies at Buffalo's Rich Stadium.

Buffalo fans began shouting at Thomas and after a thermos bottle was thrown at him, he charged the stands and had to be restrained by teammates.

Thomas' pre-game action won't be chastised, however, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Tuesday.

Addressing a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans, Rozelle said that conduct during the playing of the anthem was up to the individual club to police.

"I think it was an isolated incident," Rozelle said. "In most stadiums in the country, the stands are more removed from the field. Thomas' behavior is the sort of thing for the club to police. We give them guidelines about the National Anthem, behavior by players and coaches and such, but these are policy recommendations and are not mandatroy."

Rozelle also said the 1975 Super Bowl might be moved from its scheduled site, the Louisiana Superdome, if the new stadium is not completed. He said it probably would not be transferred to the Tulane University Sugar Bowl.

"We would like to get into the Superdome as soon as possible and with the rotation system, if New Orleans had the game in 1975, in Tulane Stadium, it would be several years before it could return," he said.

In news from the camps Tuesday, the New Orleans Saints put starting safety Hugo Hollas on the injured reserve list and he'll be out all season and Cincinnati cut punter Ken Duncan and wide receiver Steve Kingman. Houston dropped four players—kicker Mark Williams, linebacker Jim Bishop, offensive lineman Sam Holden and running back Eddie Richardson.

New York Giant Coach Alex Webster and reserve quarterback Randy Johnson jointly announced that Johnson had not asked to be traded after apparently losing his battle to unseat Norm Snead as No. 1 signal caller. Johnson said he and the club had reached an agreement on his status and that he would remain the rest of the season.

Miami Coach Don Shula announced that fullback Larry Csonka, who has missed all three-pre-season games since the Dolphins' opening victory against the College All-Stars, will play against the Los Angeles Rams Friday night.

In other action scheduled for this week, Dallas is at Houston Thursday night and Cincinnati is at Detroit on Friday night. Atlanta takes on Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., Oakland plays Minnesota at Berkeley, Calif., Baltimore is at Washington, New England at New Orleans, Philadephia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis on Saturday.

On Sunday, the New York Giants entertain Pittsburgh, Green Bay is at Kansas City, Chicago at Buffalo and Denver at San Francisco.

Expanded Fall Program In Petaluma Recreation

By PAUL DWORIN

Summer vacation may be nearly over, but someone forgot to tell the Petaluma Recreation Department.

"The program this summer was fantastic," department Director James Raymond said. "We involved quite a few people, but I couldn't begin to guess how many. The fall program is going to be quite expanded and should be better."

The fall schedule, which will be available to the public later this week, provides for two football leagues, three basketball leagues, a week-long after school playground program and 26 specialized interest programs.

"We won't be getting into too many sports, because so many organizations provide athletic activities," Raymond explained. "I don't want to duplicate programs." A good example of this would be the Petaluma Youth Soccer League, which will involve upwards of 700 boys.

What Raymond and the department will be offering in sports is an afternoon flag football program for both boys and girls, a women's basketball league and men's fast and slow-break basketball leagues. The slow break league will be for men 30-years old and up.

The after school playground program will be in its initial year. It was necessitated by the advent of the year-round school program, and will be run at five schools from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday starting Oct. 1.

The purpose of these after school playground programs is to provide recreation for boys and girls who are not involved in one of the other youth programs in Petaluma.

While the volume of people involved in the fall programs will be cut down from summer, the number of programs will be doubled. Among the 26 specialized classes offered will be gymnastics for girls, Zen-Kenpo (a combination of zen and martial arts) — both of them for the first time — belly dancing, macrame and painting for adults.

In addition to these programs, the department will continue its highly successful aquatic program this fall. The municipal pool will be open every afternoon until Oct. 19 and on weekends until the end of October. Starting Sept. 1, swim lessons for year-round school children will be given.

This is quite a large program for a department which is essentially run by one man. "If a group of individuals show an interest in something, I'll try it," commented Raymond, who is that one man. "But if I tried to do everything I wouldn't live past November.

Raiders Forget Last Year, Eye Sixth Conference Title

By ERIC PREWITT

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' 1972 Super Bowl dreams ended with their elimination from the playoffs on one of the weirdest plays in National Football League history.

"It's out of my mind now," says coach John Madden of the wild windup to last season. "Right after it happened, there was nothing else to think about, because there was nothing to prepare for."

Madden's reference was to the play on which Pittsburgh's Franco Harris grabbed a pass that deflected off Oakland safety Jack Tatum and raced for a touchdown with just five seconds showing on the clock, giving the Steelers a stunning 13-7 victory over Oakland in the first round of the playoffs.

"Now, we're working on a new season. Anything I said about last year would sound like sour grapes."

The Raiders are favored again in the American Football Conference West as they shoot for their sixth division crown in seven years.

An offense that gained 4,745 yards last year has all the key men back except for tight end Ray Chester, traded to Baltimore last month for former All-Pro defensive end Bubba Smith. Quarterbacks Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler combined for 2,522 passing yards in 1972 and Marv Hubbard's club record 1,100 yards led the ground attack.

Fred Biletnikoff, top pass catcher in the AFC last season, is the No. 1 receiver. Third-year pro Bob Moore inherits Chester's job.

Mike Siani or Cliff Branch, each in their second pro year, are other wide receivers. Rookies Steve Sweeney and Joe Wylie seem sure to stick around at least as taxi squad members. They, too, are wide receivers.

The defense that gave up 248 points last year — compared to 278 the season before — could show further improvement with the addition of punter Ray Guy, who averaged 47 yards a boot at Southern Mississippi; he is being counted on to back up other teams and make things easier for the Silver and Black defenders.

This could be the first time in four years that a rookie won't crack the Oakland starting defensive unit. Defensive backs Willie Brown and Nemiah Wilson and linebackers Phil Villapiano and Gerald Irons and linemen Art Thoms, Otis Sistrunk and Horace Jones are among the younger players who appear set at their spots for years to come.

In the offensive line, veterans Jim Otto, Bob Brown, Gene Upshaw, Art Shell and George Buehler are the returning starters. Backup linemen include John Vella, Dave Dalby, and George Seiler. The offensive line will be the hardest spot for a rookie to break in.

On defense, linebackers Monte Johnson and Gary Weaver are strong rookie prospects. Tight end Kent Gaydos, was among other rookies who showed up well early in the exhibition season.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Extra Insight For Night Boating

Many boatmen resist taking their boats out at night because it takes a little extra know-how to operate in the dark.

Yet it's worth it. Night boating can be very relaxing after a hectic day. And the extra knowledge can be learned so easily.

Most boatmen know that boats must carry navigation lights at night, and that they consist of a red light on the port (left) side and a green light on the starboard (right) side.

After that basic knowledge, most weekend boat operators are rather vague about how bright the lights must be, how far they must be visible and through what angles they must be seen.

As a start on these technicalities the appended sketch shows the minimum legal requirements for boats under 26 feet in length. There is a little more to learn about lights, and to get a thorough knowledge a boat owner should get a text on navigation.

A text such as "Piloting and Navigation," by Motor Boating and Sailing Books, Box 2316, New York, 10019, or "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling," by Charles F. Chapman, from the same source, provides background and understanding of navigation light requirements.

Night boating is a big topic, as so many of the questions we are asked indicate:

Q. Do pleasure craft on the high seas use the same navigation lights as boats on inland lakes?

A. There are a few very significant differences required on the high seas. Get a copy of the Coast Guard boating guide and study the sketches carefully.

Q. Is a searchlight legal on a small boat?

A. Yes, as long as you don't shine a blinding light on another craft so as to interfere with the vision of the operator.

Q. What lights do I need on a canoe while fishing at night?

A. The law says: "Manually propelled vessels shall have a white light ready to be temporarily exhibited in time to prevent collision." That means a flashlight will do. Rowboats are included in this rule.

Q. Can I turn off all lights when my boat is anchored at night?

A. Yes, if the boat is anchored in a mooring basin or some area set aside as a recognized anchorage. However, if the boat is anchored in a navigable waterway, it must show a white light visible all around the horizon (360 degrees), bright enough and high enough to be visible for two miles.

Q. The channel into my dock is hard to see at night. Can you give me any ideas?

A. Most hardware stores sell a fluorescent tape. Boys use it on their bicycles. Put strips of this tape on stakes to mark your channel. The tape glows in the beam of the flashlight and everything falls into place. It's good on the corners of docks, too.

Q. I see some sailboats with red and green lights at the top of their masts. What does this mean?

A. The international rules of the road were revised seven years ago to permit sailboats to carry red and green lights high on the main mast as an instant and distinct identification. These lights are in addition to the standard red and green side lights. The mast headlights must be visible for two miles. It's explained in the Boating Guide.

Q. What's the basic reasoning behind the red and green navigation light system?

A. Simply it's this. If you can see another boat's green light you have the right of way. But if you can see only his red light — this means he is approaching from your right — he has the right of way.

Q. Do ocean liners follow the same rules for navigation lights?

A. Basically, yes, but there is much more to it. If you plan to operate in the company of big mercantile ships, barges, tugboats, pilot boats or dredges, you had better get a copy of some authoritative work such as Chapman's "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling." It gives a comprehensive understanding of navigation lights for the small boatman.

Q. Can you water ski at night if you carry a light such as a flashlight?

A. Water skiing is banned from one hour after sunset to sunrise almost everywhere, even if you're lit up like a Christmas tree.

A Soap Box Derby Probe On Cousins

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — An investigation into the disqualification of James Gronen, 14, Boulder, Colo., winner of the All-American Soap Box Derby last Saturday, has extended to his cousin Robert Lange Jr., Boulder Colo., who won it last year.

The winning cars in the Derby are usually kept by the derby officials but Lange's car was shipped back to Boulder last year.

In Boulder, district attorney Alex Hunter said he had assigned an assistant prosecutor and an investigator to the case.

"We are being besieged with people who had children in last year's race," said Hunter.

Derby Secretary Sam Andress said the 1972 car was shipped back.

"I don't know why," he said. "Of course there will be questions."

Andress said he could only assume the car was shipped back because Chevrolet dropped its sponsorship of the race and for a while it appeared there would be no more derbys.

Gronen was believed en route to Oklahoma with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lange, an aunt and uncle, who accompanied him here for the Derby.

Officials got suspicious when Gronen's racer consistently jumped ahead of the pack at the start of various trial heat.

James Gronen, 14, Boulder, Colo., won the 36th annual event but was later disqualified after Derby officials learned he used an electromagnet to help pull his car from the starting gate.

The electromagnet, according to Derby officials, was discovered through X-ray pictures taken of the racer Monday after starters reported Gronen's racer consistently obtained an edge over other racers at the start of various heats.

The X-rays showed the magnet in the nose of the racer and an activating switch operated by the boy's helmet.

Officials said the magnet was operated when the helmet of the driver touched the head rest of the racer. The magnet, attracted by a large steel plate used to hold racers in position, gave the racer an initial edge over the gravity start of the other contestants. The plate, when the race begins, falls forward and allows the racer to run over it.

Officials said the helmeted driver could then tilt his head forward as the racer started moving, preventing any backward magnetic attraction.

PRO FOOTBALL

Thomas To Get No Reprimands

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Duane Thomas won't get any reprimands from the National Football League for his alleged refusal to heed the National Anthem at pre-game ceremonies.

Thomas, the controversial Washington Redskin running back, touched off a controversy last Friday night when he supposedly walked around and turned his back on the flag during pre-game ceremonies at Buffalo's Rich Stadium.

Buffalo fans began shouting at Thomas and after a thermos bottle was thrown at him, he charged the stands and had to be restrained by teammates.

Thomas' pre-game action won't be chastised, however, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Tuesday.

Addressing a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New Orleans, Rozelle said that conduct during the playing of the anthem was up to the individual club to police.

"I think it was an isolated incident," Rozelle said. "In most stadiums in the country, the stands are more removed from the field. Thomas' behavior is the sort of thing for the club to police. We give them guidelines about the National Anthem, behavior by players and coaches and such, but these are policy recommendations and are not mandatroy."

Rozelle also said the 1975 Super Bowl might be moved from its scheduled site, the Louisiana Superdome, if the new stadium is not completed. He said it probably would not be transferred to the Tulane University Sugar Bowl.

"We would like to get into the Superdome as soon as possible and with the rotation system, if New Orleans had the game in 1975, in Tulane Stadium, it would be several years before it could return," he said.

In news from the camps Tuesday, the New Orleans Saints put starting safety Hugo Hollas on the injured reserve list and he'll be out all season and Cincinnati cut punter Ken Duncan and wide receiver Steve Kingman. Houston dropped four players—kicker Mark Williams, linebacker Jim Bishop, offensive lineman Sam Holden and running back Eddie Richardson.

New York Giant Coach Alex Webster and reserve quarterback Randy Johnson jointly announced that Johnson had not asked to be traded after apparently losing his battle to unseat Norm Snead as No. 1 signal caller. Johnson said he and the club had reached an agreement on his status and that he would remain the rest of the season.

Miami Coach Don Shula announced that fullback Larry Csonka, who has missed all three pre-season games since the Dolphins' opening victory against the College All-Stars, will play against the Los Angeles Rams Friday night.

In other action scheduled for this week, Dallas is at Houston Thursday night and Cincinnati is at Detroit on Friday night. Atlanta takes on Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., Oakland plays Minnesota at Berkeley, Calif., Baltimore is at Washington, New England at New Orleans, Philadephia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis on Saturday.

On Sunday, the New York Giants entertain Pittsburgh, Green Bay is at Kansas City, Chicago at Buffalo and Denver at San Francisco.

Expanded Fall Program In Petaluma Recreation

By PAUL DWORIN

Summer vacation may be nearly over, but someone forgot to tell the Petaluma Recreation Department.

"The program this summer was fantastic," department Director James Raymond said. "We involved quite a few people, but I couldn't begin to guess how many. The fall program is going to be quite expanded and should be better."

The fall schedule, which will be available to the public later this week, provides for two football leagues, three basketball leagues, a week-long after school playground program and 26 specialized interest programs.

"We won't be getting into too many sports, because so many organizations provide athletic activities," Raymond explained. "I don't want to duplicate programs." A good example of this would be the Petaluma Youth Soccer League, which will involve upwards of 700 boys.

What Raymond and the department will be offering in sports is an afternoon flag football program for both boys and girls, a women's basketball league and men's fast and slow-break basketball leagues. The slow break league will be for men 30-years old and up.

The after school playground program will be in its initial year. It was necessitated by the advent of the year-round school program, and will be run at five schools from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday starting Oct. 1.

The purpose of these after school playground programs is to provide recreation for boys and girls who are not involved in one of the other youth programs in Petaluma.

While the volume of people involved in the fall programs will be cut down from summer, the number of programs will be doubled. Among the 26 specialized classes offered will be gymnastics for girls, Zen-Kenpo (a combination of zen and martial arts) — both of them for the first time — belly dancing, macrame and painting for adults.

In addition to these programs, the department will continue its highly successful aquatic program this fall. The municipal pool will be open every afternoon until Oct. 19 and on weekends until the end of October. Starting Sept. 1, swim lessons for year-round school children will be given.

This is quite a large program for a department which is essentially run by one man. "If a group of individuals show an interest in something, I'll try it," commented Raymond, who is that one man. "But if I tried to do everything I wouldn't live past November.

Raiders Forget Last Year, Eye Sixth Conference Title

By ERIC PREWITT

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' 1972 Super Bowl dreams ended with their elimination from the playoffs on one of the weirdest plays in National Football League history.

"It's out of my mind now," says coach John Madden of the wild windup to last season. "Right after it happened, there was nothing else to think about, because there was nothing to prepare for."

Madden's reference was to the play on which Pittsburgh's Franco Harris grabbed a pass that deflected off Oakland safety Jack Tatum and raced for a touchdown with just five seconds showing on the clock, giving the Steelers a stunning 13-7 victory over Oakland in the first round of the playoffs.

"Now, we're working on a new season. Anything I said about last year would sound like sour grapes."

The Raiders are favored again in the American Football Conference West as they shoot for their sixth division crown in seven years.

An offense that gained 4,745 yards last year has all the key men back except for tight end Ray Chester, traded to Baltimore last month for former All-Pro defensive end Bubba Smith. Quarterbacks Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler combined for 2,522 passing yards in 1972 and Marv Hubbard's club record 1,100 yards led the ground attack.

Fred Biletnikoff, top pass catcher in the AFC last season, is the No. 1 receiver. Third-year pro Bob Moore inherits Chester's job.

Mike Siani or Cliff Branch, each in their second pro year, are other wide receivers. Rookies Steve Sweeney and Joe Wylie seem sure to stick around at least as taxi squad members. They, too, are wide receivers.

The defense that gave up 248 points last year — compared to 278 the season before — could show further improvement with the addition of punter Ray Guy, who averaged 47 yards a boot at Southern Mississippi; he is being counted on to back up other teams and make things easier for the Silver and Black defenders.

This could be the first time in four years that a rookie won't crack the Oakland starting defensive unit. Defensive backs Willie Brown and Nemiah Wilson and linebackers Phil Villapiano and Gerald Irons and linemen Art Thoms, Otis Sistrunk and Horace Jones are among the younger players who appear set at their spots for years to come.

In the offensive line, veterans Jim Otto, Bob Brown, Gene Upshaw, Art Shell and George Buehler are the returning starters. Backup linemen include John Vella, Dave Dalby, and George Seiler. The offensive line will be the hardest spot for a rookie to break in.

On defense, linebackers Monte Johnson and Gary Weaver are strong rookie prospects. Tight end Kent Gaydos, was among other rookies who showed up well early in the exhibition season.

Lawyer-Legislators' Conflict Of Interest

Twenty-four of the 40 members of the California State Senate are lawyers.

Thirty-three of the 80 members of the California Assembly are lawyers.

The members of the Senate and Assembly write the laws for our state. They vote the appropriations — including special ones for the specific purposes of special interests. The $9 billion state budget is subject to their control.

Inevitably, some of the law firms of which the 24 senators and 33 assemblymen are members have clients who are interested in the fate of some of the appropriations, or of some of the laws.

CALIFORNIA HAS a conflict-of-interest statute which prohibits any member of the legislature from financial interest in any state contract. However, it exempts a "remote interest". And it proceeds to define "remote interest" as, among other things, "that of an attorney for the contracting party."

In other words, the lawyer-members of the legislature have very neatly exempted themselves from the conflict-of-interest law. Their law firms may have as clients companies doing business with the state. And they, as legislators, may vote appropriations advocated by clients or pass laws in which clients have an interest.

The fees paid by these clients to the legislators' law firms cannot be considered as bribes to the legislators. The law says they cannot.

Further, there is no obligation for the lawyer-legislators to disclose possible conflicts of interest.

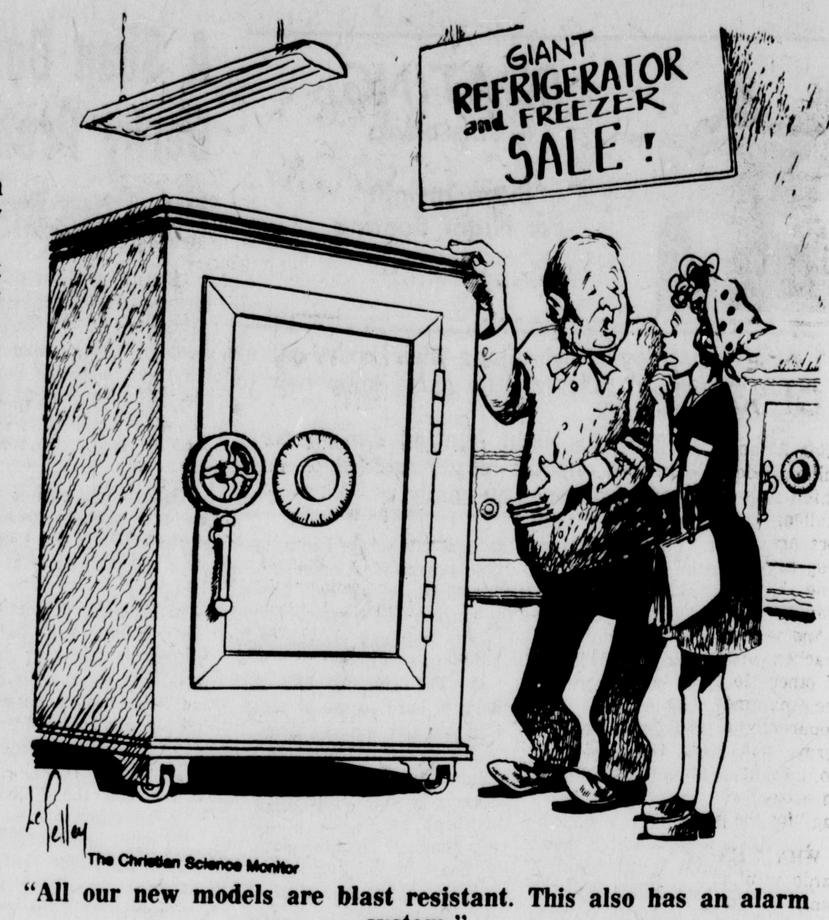
THE PRESIDENT'S commission which was established to chart a national program against street crime has just issued a report which charges that government corruption "stands as an impediment to the task of reducing criminality in America."

The commission, which was appointed by President Nixon at suggestion of then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, recommends tighter conflict-of-interest laws as one means of curbing such corraption. And among its key recommendations is this:

Every state should adopt laws requiring all state, county and local officials to publicly disclose each year — and at least two weeks before election day — all their financial and professional interests. If an official is a partner in a law firm, the disclosure should include all clients whose annual fees exceed $2,000 or 5 per cent of the firm's income.

WE HEARTILY endorse this recommendation. Conflict of interest is far more likely to arise for the lawyer-legislator than for the farmer-legislator or the engineer-legislator.

We urge that the 24 state senators and 33 assemblymen who are members of the bar join with their fellow legislators in writing and passing such a law for California.



"All our new models are blast resistant. This also has an alarm system."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

He Doesn't Like The Family Weekly

Is the Family Weekly an experiment? Or are you firmly committed to continuing it? A worse piece of trash I have never seen. It is certainly not educational nor informative. If it is supposed to be entertaining, it falls flat on its face. If it is supposed to be funny, is isn't. I'm sure the Family Weekly would be accepted gladly in places like Water Tank, So. Da., or Speed Trap, Miss. But in a fairly sophisticated and enlightened area like Marin County, such a commercial, juvenile week end supplement has no place. Get rid of it.

Label Vitamin Products The Same As Cigarettes

It appears to me that there are no housewives in the FDA. For if there were they would not be putting into effect such outrageous rulings on vitamins. For we need them more than ever with the way food costs have gone up. If labels are read you will find hardly any nutritional value. Housewives are returning to canning, bread making, and gardening. For the good old taste of food which is vanishing from the food purchased in the store

As for the restrictions on vitamins A and D. why not label them as tobacco with a warning? Don't we have the same right to choose as a smoker?

You know that no one knows your body better than yourself and no other person has your needs. So it is up to you to start reading and learning about nutrition and take care of yourself for no one else can. It is up to all of us to stop the FDA and make them clean up our foods. In this great land of ours we are the worst fed. If you want your children healthy and well, write your representatives and support the Hosmer Bill. Why Not Bigger Pipeline From Sonoma County?

So much has been written and said about the water inter-connect at Novato, that most of us have forgotten or overlooked the prime interest, which is: "Get more water into the M.M.W.D. Reservoirs."

It is the writer's understanding that Novato has passed a bond issue for some five million dollars with which to replace a pipe that presently brings water from the Russian River to Novato. Is this true? If so, why should it not be possible for MMWD to put enough additional money into the kitty along with Novato and at least double the size of the pipeline from the Russian River to Novato. Such a larger pipe would increase the water flow fourfold, and should get the job done for many years to come. Is this too simple a plan?

All of the MMWD reservoirs have pipes leading down to lower levels. Instead of bringing water down from the reservoirs, these same pipes could be used in reverse, for pumping water up into the reservoirs. If all of the reservoirs were full of water at the end of May, each year, there would be plenty of water available throughout the balance of the year Using this principle, water would only necessarily have to be moved from the Russian River to Marin County during the seasons when the supply of water in the Russian River is most plentiful. Does this suggestion make any sense? At least, the cost would be within reason. What do other readers think?

Prepaid Health Plans Proponent Cites Benefits

By RUS WALTON

The Assembly Health Committee has been holding hearings on the new taxpayer-supported prepaid health plans (PHP). Seems some suede-shoe operators have been conning Medi-Cal clients into signing up with health care programs that aren't all they're cracked up to be. The patient is being gypped and the taxpayer is being robbed.

Health care is big business in this state about $10 billion a year big. More than $2 billion of that comes from the taxpayer through federal and state systems.

My dear old dad said if you really want to know about hay, you check the horse's mouth. Me, I went to talk to a guy named Jeffrey Davis.

Young Jeff Davis is a former aide to the legislative analyst, a former member of Governor Reagan's staff. He is now president of Medi-Mark. Davis has a reputation as a front-runner in seeking solutions to health care service problems

Okay, buster, what's this PHP stuff?

Davis "Simply put, it's a group of physicians and other healing arts professionals who get together, form a foundation, pool their resources and expertise, and offer health care services to individuals and groups on a contract basis.

"It's a voluntary enterprise — for providers and patients — within a given geographic area and provides both health maintenance and treatments services for pre-negotiated, monthly payments.

"Some of the PHP members pay their own way (as in Kaiser or Blue Cross). Others have their payments made by the government — welfare recipients, specifically "

Why the switch from the Medi-Cal program?

Davis "For several reasons. First because Medi-Cal, by its nature as a government controlled system, is too expensive Too much red tape and bureaucracy That's hard on the patient and the doctor and it's rough on the taxpayer

"Even with reforms Medi-Cal costs are out of sight Part of that is the bureaucracy, part of it is that some recipients and some vendors are gouging the system

"That's another place where PHP is superior It also fixes financial responsibility at the local (the foundation) level You don't have that responsibility when government is running the show "

What's the difference between PHPs and socialized medicine?

Davis "First, PHPs are voluntary

"Second, under socialized medicine, government takes over everything With a PHP, the public and the private sectors assume their proper role The government set certain quality standards but it does not operate the system That is left to the private sector

"If something like the PHPis not developed, government will take over

"Take (Sen.) Teddy Kennedy (with his national health program) He goes 'way too far He's grabbing the line of least resistance. He seems to think the answer to our health care problems is to slap government controls and operation on top of everything.

"That will just bring on more problems. It would be disastrous. Not just for the healing arts professions — for the patients and the taxpayer "

School Budgets Decided In Secret Negotiations

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

"If everything becomes negotiable, there will probably be no need to have a board any more."

That statement by Supt. Howard C. Wood of Folsom-Cordova Unified School District in Sacramento County was quoted in a story in last Sunday's Sacramento Union which led off with the statement, "The public is slowly being negotiated out of the public school business."

Sunday's story by reporter Michael Fallon, and others which followed, traced how budget decisions in Sacramento County school districts have been made behind closed doors.

THIS IS POSSIBLE because of two California laws: the Winton Act and the Ralph M. Brown Act.

The Winton Act governs school board-teacher relations. It provides for election of a teachers' negotiating council, with membership based on that of teacher organizations within the district.

This negotiating council is permitted by the act to negotiate with school board representatives not only on salaries but also on "all matters relating to the definition of educational objectives, the determination of the content of courses and curricula, the selection of textbooks, and other aspects of the instructional program."

This can be — and is — done principally behind closed doors because of a provision of the Brown Act. Ironically, the Brown Act is the California law prohibiting closed meetings of governing boards. But in 1968, a section was added to it which says:

"Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a legislative body of a local agency may hold executive sessions with its designated representatives prior to and during consultations and discussions with representatives of employee organizations regarding the salaries, salary schedules, or compensation paid in the form of fringe benefits to employees."

LOCAL NEGOTIATORS for the California Teachers Association and AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers take the position that working conditions, class sizes, sabbatical leave policy, and even such things as determination of curricula are tied inextricably with teachers' compensation. Therefore, these matters are discussed along with salaries — behind closed doors.

The Sacramento Union story gave an example: a $14,000 item for a special program for high school dropouts which was tentatively budgeted last year by San Juan Unified School District but "died a lingering death" in negotiations, with no public report of what happened, according to Asst. Supt. Joseph R. Ferreira

How could this program be included in closed-door salary discussions? The explanation by Ferreira was that teacher negotiators felt the $14,000 could be "the start of a kitty, maybe for a one-time bonus at the end of the year."

IT WOULD APPEAR that California school districts are not far from the point where "everything becomes negotiatble," and as Superintencent Wood put it, "There will probably be no need to have a board any more."

Another step in that direction will be taken if Senate Bill 400 becomes law.

This bill, by Sen. George F. Moscone, D-San Francisco, already has passed the California Senate 21-17 It must clear the Assembly Ways and Means Committee before reaching the Assembly floor.

It would permit exclusive representation of all teachers in a district by the union having majority membership. The union negotiator alone could speak for the teachers. And, of course, he would do most of his talking in negotiations behind closed doors.

THE NATIONAL Education Association and American Federation of Teachers are pushing for such laws throughout the nation. They already have won them in several states.

The reason was crisply stated, publicly, by Albert Shanker, AFT vice president and longtime head of its big New York local. He said:

"Power is not given to anyone. Power is taken from someone. Teachers . . . are now starting to take power from supervisors and school boards."

The Winton Act, coupled with the closed-door exception in the Brown Act, has enabled teacher unions to take a lot of power from boards and administrators in California. Senate Bill 400 would enable them to take more.

Watergate Becoming Less Likely To Undermine The Presidency

WASHINGTON — The answer to the overriding Watergate question — Will it irreparably cripple the President for the remainder of his term? — is becoming clearer.

As public opinion and events are now shaping, the prospects are:

That it won't indefinitely undermine presidential leadership essential for governing the nation.

That the Ervin committee intends to close out the Watergate phase of its investigation as speedily as possible.

That the American people, though they may instinctively feel that Mr. Nixon's responsibility for the Watergate offenses is greater than he affirms, want the President — and the Congress — to get on with what's ahead.

That most people — however revolted by the scandalous offenses which the White House either permitted or caused — do not want Watergate to be used to reverse the presidential election verdict of 1972.

AS TO THE President's speech, it contributed to improving the prospects that Mr. Nixon will be able to ride out the storm, but it was not the radiant air-clearer which many hoped it would be.

The main criticisms from Republicans and Democrats alike are that the speech contained no new facts and did not help to clear up conflicting testimony.

I think the President improved his standing with the country by openly affirming the gravity of the crimes committed rather than dismissing Watergate as "an incident."

The President pointed out that violating laws in what is claimed to be a higher cause did not start with the Nixon administration. Thus he could fairly say:

"It is not surprising, even though it is deplorable, that some persons in 1972 adopted the morality that they themselves had rightly condemned, and committed acts that have no place in our political system. Those acts cannot be defended. Those who were guilty of abuses must be punished."

THOSE WHO MAY prove to be guilty may go very high in the list of people whom the President placed in posts of great power and authority and in whom he misplaced his trust. Two former members of the cabinet who were later at the top of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President — John Mitchell and Maurice Stans — are under indictment in New York and additional indictments in Washington will be forthcoming.

In a legal sense the President does not have to prove his innocence of participating in the coverup, but it would be better if he had.

Lie Detector Test For Nixon? There Are Better Ways, But . . .

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — At first blush, so to speak, it is hard to see why the President's spokesman was so indignant when somebody asked whether Mr. Nixon would be willing to take a lie-detector test about Watergate and all that. One assumption is that he was nervously aware of what had happened here in Philadelphia a couple of days before. I will get to that part shortly.

Mr. Nixon's spokesman resented the implication of the lie-detector question. But consider the reasons why the best thing that could happen for the American people right now might be for the President to sit down and have a polygraph strapped to his arm, while someone bland and scientific asked him the key questions that already have been asked so many times by more excitable senators and reporters.

IN MR. NIXON'S speech, his manful mea culpa, in which he assumed responsibility "because the abuses occurred during my administration," lasted exactly two sentences.

Most of the rest was spent denying his own guilt at great length but in no detail, and in blaming everything on those around him.

The American people must take it on faith that he neither planned nor concealed nor authorized nor encouraged. "That was and is the simple truth," he said flatly

If he wants to convince the American people of his innocence, yet still refuse to give them the details which are available to him alone, then he has to convince them he is telling the truth. One way to do that is to take a lie-detector test. And that brings us to the Philadelphia part.

ONE OF MR. NIXON'S most-prized supporters has been Mayor Frank Rizzo. He is the former police chief who made the night stick the symbol of the City of Brotherly Love, who was elected on his promises as Supercop, who is a hardhat-style Democrat converted to the Nixon cause, who has had the red carpet rolled out for him at the White House, who had rumors circulating that he might be the next FBI director

Rizzo is bedeviled by scandal these days, too. He is accused of offering bribes in exchange for political consideration, of assigning a special police squad to check on his political enemies, and of using confidential tax files to compile dossiers on them. A familiar list.

But Mayor Rizzo is a bold and blunt man. Faced with these charges, he did not hide behind executive privilege or any other legal doctrine. Asked whether he would take a lie-detector test, he set a refreshing example for other officials in trouble. He said yes.

His long experience in police work had familiarized him with the polygraph. "If this machine says a man lied, he lied," he said, sticking out his arm.

THE MACHINE SAID he lied. The expert who gave the test said the machine indicated he lied on six of 10 questions asked. It indicated his chief deputy, also implicated, lied on five out of 10. And it indicated the city Democratic chairman, who accused Rizzo of offering the bribe, told the truth on 11 out of 11.

Since then, the mayor has had an explanatory press conference, at which he said the test was "not worth the paper it's written on," and that "politicians are crooks, generally," but that he is not a politician.

In fact nobody takes seriously the possibility of the President's submitting to a lie-detector test, but its desirability is another matter. It would be much more appropriate for him simply to disclose all the evidence he has, instead. Taking a lie-detector test would not be dignified for a President. Perhaps that is what his spokesman meant when he resented the implication.

Lawyer-Legislators' Conflict Of Interest

Twenty-four of the 40 members of the California State Senate are lawyers.

Thirty-three of the 80 members of the California Assembly are lawyers.

The members of the Senate and Assembly write the laws for our state. They vote the appropriations — including special ones for the specific purposes of special interests. The $9 billion state budget is subject to their control.

Inevitably, some of the law firms of which the 24 senators and 33 assemblymen are members have clients who are interested in the fate of some of the appropriations, or of some of the laws.

CALIFORNIA HAS a conflict-of-interest statute which prohibits any member of the legislature from financial interest in any state contract. However, it exempts a "remote interest". And it proceeds to define "remote interest" as, among other things, "that of an attorney for the contracting party."

In other words, the lawyer-members of the legislature have very neatly exempted themselves from the conflict-of-interest law. Their law firms may have as clients companies doing business with the state. And they, as legislators, may vote appropriations advocated by clients or pass laws in which clients have an interest.

The fees paid by these clients to the legislators' law firms cannot be considered as bribes to the legislators. The law says they cannot.

Further, there is no obligation for the lawyer-legislators to disclose possible conflicts of interest.

THE PRESIDENT'S commission which was established to chart a national program against street crime has just issued a report which charges that government corruption "stands as an impediment to the task of reducing criminality in America."

The commission, which was appointed by President Nixon at suggestion of then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, recommends tighter conflict-of-interest laws as one means of curbing such corraption. And among its key recommendations is this:

Every state should adopt laws requiring all state, county and local officials to publicly disclose each year — and at least two weeks before election day — all their financial and professional interests. If an official is a partner in a law firm, the disclosure should include all clients whose annual fees exceed $2,000 or 5 per cent of the firm's income.

WE HEARTILY endorse this recommendation. Conflict of interest is far more likely to arise for the lawyer-legislator than for the farmer-legislator or the engineer-legislator.

We urge that the 24 state senators and 33 assemblymen who are members of the bar join with their fellow legislators in writing and passing such a law for California.

"All our new models are blast resistant. This also has an alarm system."

Is the Family Weekly an experiment? Or are you firmly committed to continuing it? A worse piece of trash I have never seen. It is certainly not educational nor informative. If it is supposed to be entertaining, it falls flat on its face. If it is supposed to be funny, is isn't. I'm sure the Family Weekly would be accepted gladly in places like Water Tank, So. Label Vitamin Products The Same As Cigarettes

It appears to me that there are no housewives in the FDA. For if there were they would not be putting into effect such outrageous rulings on vitamins. For we need them more than ever with the way food costs have gone up. If labels are read you will find hardly any nutritional value. Housewives are returning to canning, bread making, and gardening. For the good old taste of food which is vanishing from the food purchased in the store

As for the restrictions on vitamins A and D, why not label them as tobacco with a warning? Don't we have the same right to choose as a smoker?

You know that no one knows your body better than yourself and no other person has your needs. So it is up to you to start reading and learning about nutrition and take care of yourself for no one else can. It is up to all of us to stop the FDA and make them clean up our foods. Prepaid Health Plans Proponent Cites Benefits

By RUS WALTON

The Assembly Health Committee has been holding hearings on the new taxpayer-supported prepaid health plans (PHP). Seems some suede-shoe operators have been conning Medi-Cal clients into signing up with health care programs that aren't all they're cracked up to be. The patient is being gypped and the taxpayer is being robbed.

Health care is big business in this state about $10 billion a year big. More than $2 billion of that comes from the taxpayer through federal and state systems.

My dear old dad said if you really want to know about hay, you check the horse's mouth. Me, I went to talk to a guy named Jeffrey Davis.

Young Jeff Davis is a former aide to the legislative analyst, a former member of Governor Reagan's staff. He is now president of Medi-Mark. Davis has a reputation as a front-runner in seeking solutions to health care service problems

Okay, buster, what's this PHP stuff?

Davis "Simply put, it's a group of physicians and other healing arts professionals who get together, form a foundation, pool their resources and expertise, and offer health care services to individuals and groups on a contract basis.

"It's a voluntary enterprise — for providers and patients — within a given geographic area and provides both health maintenance and treatments services for pre-negotiated, monthly payments.

"Some of the PHP members pay their own way (as in Kaiser or Blue Cross). Others have their payments made by the government — welfare recipients, specifically "

Why the switch from the Medi-Cal program?

Davis "For several reasons. First because Medi-Cal, by its nature as a government controlled system, is too expensive Too much red tape and bureaucracy That's hard on the patient and the doctor and it's rough on the taxpayer

"Even with reforms Medi-Cal costs are out of sight Part of that is the bureaucracy, part of it is that some recipients and some vendors are gouging the system

"That's another place where PHP is superior It also fixes financial responsibility at the local (the foundation) level You don't have that responsibility when government is running the show "

What's the difference between PHPs and socialized medicine?

Davis "First, PHPs are voluntary

"Second, under socialized medicine, government takes over everything With a PHP, the public and the private sectors assume their proper role The government set certain quality standards but it does not operate the system That is left to the private sector

"If something like the PHPis not developed, government will take over

Lone Citizen Now Stands In Way Of San Rafael Redevelopment

San Rafael's controversial, $6 million redevelopment project, which has weathered bitter challenges by county supervisors and college district trustees, now faces the test of a lone, 32-year-old San Rafael man.

And although the city has reached settlements with a host of others to pave the way for the mammoth project, it is apparently unable to come to terms with Joaquin P. Gallardo, a county human rights commissioner who says he is fighting "for the people."

WHAT, EXACTLY does Gallardo want in return for dropping his suit that blocks the plan to upgrade downtown San Rafael and other areas of the city?

Gallardo's attorney, Marilyn Berger of the Legal Aid Society of Marin, says her client will drop his objects to the plan if the city meets eight demands. They are:

1. Subsidized housing for low and moderate income families.
2. No relocation without replacement housing.
3. Creation of a citizen commission "which is responsive to the entire San Rafael community — not just another rubber stamp board."
4. An "affirmative action plan" or procedure whereby the city actively seeks bids by minority contractors on redevelopment projects.
5. Preservation and restoration of historical landmarks.
6. "Percentage and priority" of redevelopment funds be directed toward people-oriented projects.
7. Creation of an "interview and referral agency," or all-purpose information bureau to aid citizens needing help.
8. All meetings of the redevelopment agency, or meetings of other agencies concerning redevelopment contracts, bidding and hiring, be open to the public with public notice issued at least 48 hours in advance.

WILLIAM J. BIELSER, city manager and redevelopment executive director, says the city has met the bulk of Gallardo's concerns. The city is exploring the possibility of a moderate income housing project, will not relocate citizens without replacement housing, has no rubber stamp committees, opens all contracts to competitive bidding, strives to preserve historical landmarks, has designed a "people-oriented" redevelopment project in that it improves the environment, has a chamber of commerce that acts as a public information agency, and abides by the law in noticing meetings, Bielser said.

Whether minority contractors should be given bidding priority, or whether the council should create an additional "referral" agency, are matters city leaders haven't yet considered, he said.

BIELSER CLAIMED Gallardo has become a sounding board for redevelopment foes with political motives, and has refused to meet with city leaders to discuss concerns.

The result is that the city and the citizen will square off in court this week as the redevelopment rhubarb goes to trial.

Easing Of Pot Laws Is Rejected By Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation easing criminal penalties for smoking marijuana was rejected yesterday by the Senate Judiciary Committee when only two lawmakers voted in favor of it.

Six members of the 13-man committee voted against the bill (AB449) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills. The measure would lower the penalty for possession of marijuana and its derivatives, such as hashish, from a possible felony to a misdemeanor.

The legislation was opposed by law enforcement groups, including the California Peace Officers and Sheriffs' associations.

Testifying on behalf of the groups was Franklin S. Fowler, a drug expert from Loma Linda University, who said the bill might discourage police from enforcing anti-pot laws.

Siertoy was not present for the brief hearing and vote on his bill. He was instead presiding over a meeting of the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee of which he is chairman.

Harold F. Bradford, representing the California Bar Association, presented the bill on Sieroty's behalf.

Bradford said increasing numbers of persons are using marijuana and developing a "scofflaw attitude" as the result of not being arrested.

Felony penalties were "too harsh," he said.

The Senate committee last year narrowly approved a similar bill, but the composition of the panel has changed slightly.

Under current law, a prosecutor or judge can treat a marijuana case as a felony or a misdemeanor on the first offense. A felony conviction could result in a 10 year prison sentence.

Sieroty's bill provides for a jail sentence of up to six months or a fine of up to $500 or both.

Voting in favor of the measure were Sens. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, and David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles.

Voting against it were Sens. Alfred H. Song, D-Monterey Park; W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside; Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose; John W. Holmdahl, D-Oakland; Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, and Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding.

Buckle Up Or Else

It won't be long before the automakers unveil their new models. Body changes will of course be in evidence on some models. But the big change this year is the seatbelt interlock system. Separate lap and shoulder belts have been replaced by a "three point" strap with a single buckle. The controversial system has the seatbelt buckle connected electrically to the ignition system. It will be impossible to start the car unless the belts in the front seat are properly fastened. Original plans called for a seatbelt interlock coupled with an air bag system. Mandatory air bags have been delayed, although they are available as options on some cars.

DO YOU KNOW — Could a person avoid buckling up by leaving the belts permanently fastened?

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Widow Wants To Increase Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am a widow 73 years old with no pension. I would appreciate your advice on how I can increase the income from my portfolio which is enclosed. — M.A.

A. At the present time your $49,500 worth of holdings return $1,770 annually, equal to 3.6 per cent. Five of the twelve issues in your portfolio return no dividends and a sixth issue returns about 3 per cent. By selling Chadbourn, Inc (NYSE), Ortho-O-Vision (OTC), Reeves Telecommunications (ASE), Union Camp Corp. (NYSE), and the two mutual funds, $29,600 will be released for investment in good-quality, high-yielding bonds. Since your six other holdings are blue chip issues, with satisfactory earnings, returning an above-average 5.9 per cent dividend income, these should be retained for capital appreciation.

As a replacement, three A to AAA-rated bonds paying interest in March, April, June, September, October and December are recommended. The three bonds currently yield 8.1 per cent on average and are 10M each Georgia Power 8⅞s of 2000 and Tennessee Valley Authority 8¾s of 1975 and 9M of Pacific Telephone & Tylegraph 8.65s of 2005. The annual income on this reconstructed portfolio is $3,678 or 7.5 per cent.

Q. The enclosed advertisement offers up to 8½ per cent on 10-year investments of as little as $100 which is just right for me. I can find no listing for the company to check whether this would be safe. Will you give me some information? — J.T

A. The notes offered in this advertisement are promissory notes, in other words, you are in effect making an unsecured loan to the company. Judging from your letter I would say you are not in a position to take that kind of risk. The offering company is a subsidiary of a NYSE-listed corporation whose debt obligations carry a speculative rating of B.

Schick Sales Up

LOS ANGELES (BW) — In the first half of 1973 Schick Inc. captured more than 21 per cent of the men's electric shaver market, as Flexamatic sales continued their dramatic rise, according to Thomas W. Nickols, senior vice president of marketing.

Stocks Fall, Market Breaks Support Zone

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market resumed sliding today on the New York Stock Exchange, with selling pressure carrying over from the previous session and nothing in the news to break through Wall Street's gloom. Trading was light.

Market technicians said the list broke through an important zone of support late yesterday, when the Dow closed below the 560 level. They said some chartwatchers might have decided to sell into the decline.

Meanwhile, investors remained cautious over the news background, still preoccupied with upward pressure on interest rates and inflation, along with the uncertain political climate.

British Petroleum led the actives, up ⅝ to 14 on 62,000 shares.

Gold mining issues, weaker lately with gold prices falling overseas, declined again Campbell Red Lake lost 1⅜, Asa Ltd. a point.

Texas Instruments dipped 2, Honeywell 1⅛, Fairchild Camera ¾.

Stan Wisnes Pontiac, GMC, Honda Makes Plans To Move

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By WAT TAKESHITA

Stan Wisnes Pontiac, GMC, Honda auto agency at Fourth and E Streets in San Rafael plans to move into new and expanded quarters on Du Bois Street early next year. The plans are subject to approval by San Rafael city officials.

Wisnes said he hopes to move his offices, showroom and service center into a 15,000-square-foot building at 601 Du Bois Street, across the street from McPhail's cement yard and the old Bergman Manufacturing Co. building. The one-story, concrete tilt up structure with contemporary facing will be built on two acres of ground. The builder-developer will be Sequoia Pacific Realco of Santa Clara, which owns the property.

Stefan

Venturi

KENNETH K. STEFAN of Novato has been named assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's 725 Irving Street Office in San Francisco.

Formerly banking services officer in the bank's Crown Zellerbach Office, Stefan succeeds Wayne H. Hooper, who was named assistant manager of the Fillmore-California office.

LARRY VENTURI of Petaluma has been promoted to regional loan supervisor at Golden West Savings and Loan Association, Oakland. He will supervise Golden West loans and appraisals in Marin, Sonoma and Napa Counties.

TORRANCE GALLERIES at 128 Greenfield Avenue in San Anselmo has changed its name to the WILLIAM TORRANCE GALLERIES.

William F. Torrance announced that the change was made to eliminate confusion between the Torrance Gallery Inc., an artists' supply store and picture frame shop located on the first floor at the same address. William Torrance Galleries, located on the second floor, is open Wednesday through Saturday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Beginning Sept. 9, the galleries will be open Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m.

Sharing the second floor of the Torrance Building is Wilopa Studios, specializing in the repair and conservation of oil paintings, antique frames and photographs under the supervision of William Torrance, conservator. Hours are by appointment only.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am a widow 73 years old with no pension. I would appreciate your advice on how I can increase the income from my portfolio which is enclosed. — M.A.

A. At the present time your $49,500 worth of holdings return $1,770 annually, equal to 3.6 per cent. Five of the twelve issues in your portfolio return no dividends and a sixth issue returns about 3 per cent. By selling Chadbourn, Inc (NYSE), Ortho-O-Vision (OTC), Reeves Telecommunications (ASE), Union Camp Corp. (NYSE), and the two mutual funds, $29,600 will be released for investment in good-quality, high-yielding bonds. Since your six other holdings are blue chip issues, with satisfactory earnings, returning an above-average 5.9 per cent dividend income, these should be retained for capital appreciation.

As a replacement, three A to AAA-rated bonds paying interest in March, April, June, September, October and December are recommended. The three bonds currently yield 8.1 per cent on average and are 10M each Georgia Power 8⅞s of 2000 and Tennessee Valley Authority 8¾s of 1975 and 9M of Pacific Telephone & Tylegraph 8.65s of 2005. The annual income on this reconstructed portfolio is $3,678 or 7.5 per cent.

Q. The enclosed advertisement offers up to 8½ per cent on 10-year investments of as little as $100 which is just right for me. I can find no listing for the company to check whether this would be safe. Will you give me some information? — J.T

A. The notes offered in this advertisement are promissory notes, in other words, you are in effect making an unsecured loan to the company. Judging from your letter I would say you are not in a position to take that kind of risk. The offering company is a subsidiary of a NYSE-listed corporation whose debt obligations carry a speculative rating of B.

Schick Sales Up

LOS ANGELES (BW) — In the first half of 1973 Schick Inc. captured more than 21 per cent of the men's electric shaver market, as Flexamatic sales continued their dramatic rise, according to Thomas W. Nickols, senior vice president of marketing.

Stocks Fall, Market Breaks Support Zone

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market resumed sliding today on the New York Stock Exchange, with selling pressure carrying over from the previous session and nothing in the news to break through Wall Street's gloom. Trading was light.

Market technicians said the list broke through an important zone of support late yesterday, when the Dow closed below the 560 level. They said some chartwatchers might have decided to sell into the decline.

Meanwhile, investors remained cautious over the news background, still preoccupied with upward pressure on interest rates and inflation, along with the uncertain political climate.

British Petroleum led the actives, up ⅝ to 14 on 62,000 shares.

Gold mining issues, weaker lately with gold prices falling overseas, declined again Campbell Red Lake lost 1⅜, Asa Ltd. a point.

Texas Instruments dipped 2, Honeywell 1⅛, Fairchild Camera ¾.

Stan Wisnes Pontiac, GMC, Honda Makes Plans To Move

Stan Wisnes Pontiac, GMC, Honda auto agency at Fourth and E Streets in San Rafael plans to move into new and expanded quarters on Du Bois Street early next year. The plans are subject to approval by San Rafael city officials.

Wisnes said he hopes to move his offices, showroom and service center into a 15,000-square-foot building at 601 Du Bois Street, across the street from McPhail's cement yard and the old Bergman Manufacturing Co. building. The one-story, concrete tilt up structure with contemporary facing will be built on two acres of ground. The builder-developer will be Sequoia Pacific Realco of Santa Clara, which owns the property.

Stefan

Venturi

KENNETH K. STEFAN of Novato has been named assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's 725 Irving Street Office in San Francisco.

Formerly banking services officer in the bank's Crown Zellerbach Office, Stefan succeeds Wayne H. Hooper, who was named assistant manager of the Fillmore-California office.

LARRY VENTURI of Petaluma has been promoted to regional loan supervisor at Golden West Savings and Loan Association, Oakland. He will supervise Golden West loans and appraisals in Marin, Sonoma and Napa Counties.

TORRANCE GALLERIES at 128 Greenfield Avenue in San Anselmo has changed its name to the WILLIAM TORRANCE GALLERIES.

William F. Torrance announced that the change was made to eliminate confusion between the Torrance Gallery Inc., an artists' supply store and picture frame shop located on the first floor at the same address. William Torrance Galleries, located on the second floor, is open Wednesday through Saturday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Beginning Sept. 9, the galleries will be open Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m.

Sharing the second floor of the Torrance Building is Wilopa Studios, specializing in the repair and conservation of oil paintings, antique frames and photographs under the supervision of William Torrance, conservator. Hours are by appointment only.

An Endless Guessing Game Over Cambodia's Future

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

PHNOM PENH — With the American bombing now ended, Phnom Penh abounds with theories as to what is going to happen next.

The average citizen is more worried about the rising costs of rice and dried fish than anything else. But the journalists and diplomats stationed here engage in endless speculation over the intentions of the Cambodian insurgents.

"They are going to take another crack at the city," said a Western diplomat. "I am sure of it."

"They are going to leave Phnom Penh alone," said an Asian diplomat. "They are going to hit the province capitals again."

For every theory about Communist intentions there is a counter theory.

No one knows for certain why the Communist-led forces stopped attacking supply lines, concentrated instead on Phnom Penh's defenses, and then suddenly started withdrawing from the city's outer defense line just when it seemed they could break through it.

"With a logical Western mind you can make wonderful theories," said a European diplomat. "But things always turn out differently here from the way you expected."

The Cambodian insurgents have done a good job of keeping everyone guessing. As a result, beneath the placid exterior of many Cambodians in Phnom Penh you also can detect a rising tension.

The astrologers whom the Cambodians consult have produced predictions even more diverse than those of the journalist and diplomats. One astrologer proclaimed that President Nixon would bomb Hanoi again now that he has stopped bombing in Cambodia.

This is a situation so uncertain that no one really knows how many troops there are in the government Army much less how many there are on the insurgent side.

The Aug. 15 bombing cutoff does not seem to have resulted in any noticeable tightening of discipline in the loosely organized government Army.

Sometimes it seems that no one really controls the Army. Government battlefield commanders sometimes simply refuse to do what the Phnom Penh headquarters tells them to do.

Many of the foreign residents of Phnom Penh have been evacuated. But those who have stayed behind seem to be more worried about the possibility of a defeated government Army going on a looting rampage than they are about the possibility of being captured by an invading Communist-led army.

Just outside Phnom Penh, a senior government Army officer said the American bombing had been "very effective."

"It is too bad that the bombing could not continue for just a few more weeks," the officer said. "If it continued for just a while longer, we could break the enemy completely."

The officer predicted that the Communist-led insurgents would have to start attacking again fairly soon "for political reasons."

The Communist-led forces already have gained control over, or access to, roughly three-fourths of the territory of Cambodia. With the bombing ended, they should be able to concentrate their forces and make further gains.

Interview Victory For Inmates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel has ordered a reversal of a 1971 ban on inmate interviews and ruled that California prisoners have the constitutional right to ask for and obtain interviews by newsmen.

The panel yesterday ordered the state Department of Corrections to propose a new regulation to replace the present one that bans interviews by reporters. The decision did say, however, that if prison officials felt an interview with a certain inmate posed "a clear and present danger to prison security, it may be denied."

The court also said reporters do not have the right to get an interview with a specific inmate.

The court cited a U.S. Supreme Court ruling which said "the press enjoys no greater right to access to news sources than the average citizen."

The ban on interviews became effective Aug. 23, 1971, two days after an alleged escape attempt at San Quentin prison left two inmates, including George Jackson, and three prison guards dead.

In their ruling, the judges said inmates lose some of their rights when imprisoned, but "face to face interviews with media representatives are a vital element in prisoners' rights under the First Amendment."

The decision was made by U.S. District Judges Spencer Williams and William East and U.S. Court of Appeals Judge Oliver D. Hamlin, Jr.

Youth Sentenced To One Month

A San Rafael teen-ager has been sentenced to 30 days in jail and placed on probation for two years for his part in burglarizing a Larkspur residence.

Michael McPherson, 18, drew the sentence Monday from Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

McPherson pleaded guilty to burglarizing the Sharon Anderson home on Piedmont Road May 14. A co-defendant. Patrick Alan Douglas, 19, who lives near the burglarized house at 66 Piedmont Road, has yet to stand trial in Superior Court on the charge.

McPherson's probation report showed no prior criminal record and said the youth, who lives at 120 Greenwood Avenue, is ambitious when he wants to be.

State Highways Get $96 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Second District, said yesterday the federal highway apportionment for California for the next 12 months is $96.29 million.

Johnson said about $66 million will go to interstate highways.

He said California has also received $1.15 million as its share of revenues that went to the Bureau of Land Management through the management of federal lands, during the first six months of this year.

Man Arraigned On Charge Of Burglary

Daryl Draudt, 23, of Santa Rosa, was arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a burglary charge.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon set bail at $10,000 and scheduled Draudt to enter a plea today. Draudt was arrested yesterday at 2:40 a.m. on suspicion of burglary at Cattlemen's Restaurant, Petaluma.

An Endless Guessing Game Over Cambodia's Future

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

PHNOM PENH — With the American bombing now ended, Phnom Penh abounds with theories as to what is going to happen next.

The average citizen is more worried about the rising costs of rice and dried fish than anything else. But the journalists and diplomats stationed here engage in endless speculation over the intentions of the Cambodian insurgents.

"They are going to take another crack at the city," said a Western diplomat. "I am sure of it."

"They are going to leave Phnom Penh alone," said an Asian diplomat. "They are going to hit the province capitals again."

For every theory about Communist intentions there is a counter theory.

No one knows for certain why the Communist-led forces stopped attacking supply lines, concentrated instead on Phnom Penh's defenses, and then suddenly started withdrawing from the city's outer defense line just when it seemed they could break through it.

"With a logical Western mind you can make wonderful theories," said a European diplomat. "But things always turn out differently here from the way you expected."

The Cambodian insurgents have done a good job of keeping everyone guessing. As a result, beneath the placid exterior of many Cambodians in Phnom Penh you also can detect a rising tension.

The astrologers whom the Cambodians consult have produced predictions even more diverse than those of the journalist and diplomats. One astrologer proclaimed that President Nixon would bomb Hanoi again now that he has stopped bombing in Cambodia.

This is a situation so uncertain that no one really knows how many troops there are in the government Army much less how many there are on the insurgent side.

The Aug. 15 bombing cutoff does not seem to have resulted in any noticeable tightening of discipline in the loosely organized government Army.

Sometimes it seems that no one really controls the Army. Government battlefield commanders sometimes simply refuse to do what the Phnom Penh headquarters tells them to do.

Many of the foreign residents of Phnom Penh have been evacuated. But those who have stayed behind seem to be more worried about the possibility of a defeated government Army going on a looting rampage than they are about the possibility of being captured by an invading Communist-led army.

Just outside Phnom Penh, a senior government Army officer said the American bombing had been "very effective."

"It is too bad that the bombing could not continue for just a few more weeks," the officer said. "If it continued for just a while longer, we could break the enemy completely."

The officer predicted that the Communist-led insurgents would have to start attacking again fairly soon "for political reasons."

The Communist-led forces already have gained control over, or access to, roughly three-fourths of the territory of Cambodia. With the bombing ended, they should be able to concentrate their forces and make further gains.

Interview Victory For Inmates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel has ordered a reversal of a 1971 ban on inmate interviews and ruled that California prisoners have the constitutional right to ask for and obtain interviews by newsmen.

The panel yesterday ordered the state Department of Corrections to propose a new regulation to replace the present one that bans interviews by reporters. The decision did say, however, that if prison officials felt an interview with a certain inmate posed "a clear and present danger to prison security, it may be denied."

The court also said reporters do not have the right to get an interview with a specific inmate.

The court cited a U.S. Supreme Court ruling which said "the press enjoys no greater right to access to news sources than the average citizen."

The ban on interviews became effective Aug. 23, 1971, two days after an alleged escape attempt at San Quentin prison left two inmates, including George Jackson, and three prison guards dead.

In their ruling, the judges said inmates lose some of their rights when imprisoned, but "face to face interviews with media representatives are a vital element in prisoners' rights under the First Amendment."

The decision was made by U.S. District Judges Spencer Williams and William East and U.S. Court of Appeals Judge Oliver D. Hamlin, Jr.

Youth Sentenced To One Month

A San Rafael teen-ager has been sentenced to 30 days in jail and placed on probation for two years for his part in burglarizing a Larkspur residence.

Michael McPherson, 18, drew the sentence Monday from Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

McPherson pleaded guilty to burglarizing the Sharon Anderson home on Piedmont Road May 14. A co-defendant. Patrick Alan Douglas, 19, who lives near the burglarized house at 66 Piedmont Road, has yet to stand trial in Superior Court on the charge.

McPherson's probation report showed no prior criminal record and said the youth, who lives at 120 Greenwood Avenue, is ambitious when he wants to be.

State Highways Get $96 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Second District, said yesterday the federal highway apportionment for California for the next 12 months is $96.29 million.

Johnson said about $66 million will go to interstate highways.

He said California has also received $1.15 million as its share of revenues that went to the Bureau of Land Management through the management of federal lands, during the first six months of this year.

Man Arraigned On Charge Of Burglary

Daryl Draudt, 23, of Santa Rosa, was arraigned yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a burglary charge.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon set bail at $10,000 and scheduled Draudt to enter a plea today. Draudt was arrested yesterday at 2:40 a.m. on suspicion of burglary at Cattlemen's Restaurant, Petaluma.

WARDS BATTERY PROTECTION PLAN

Montgomery Ward will replace this battery at no cost to the original owner if it fails to accept and hold a charge in non-commercial passenger car use during the Free Replacement Period shown:

TOTAL GUARANTEE PERIOD:	60	48	42	36	24	18 Mos.
FREE REPLACEMENT PERIOD:	24	16	12	9	6	3 Mos.

After this period, to the end of the guarantee period, Montgomery Ward will replace the battery, charging only a pro-rated amount for the time since purchase, based on the current regular selling price less trade-in. Batteries in commercial use are guaranteed on a similar basis for half of the specified periods. Commercial use is defined as use in any vehicle for other than family or personal use.

For service under this guarantee, return battery with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

EVERY NEW BATTERY DESERVES A NEW CABLE

WARDS LIFETIME SUPREME MUFFLER REPLACEMENT GUARANTEE

For as long as you own the car on which installed, Montgomery Ward will furnish a free replacement for any Wards Supreme Muffler which fails for any reason. If Montgomery Ward originally installed the muffler, it will install the replacement free. Return muffler to any Montgomery Ward branch (any branch having installation facilities, if free installation included) with evidence of purchase. This guarantee does not apply to mufflers installed on commercial vehicles or to mufflers damaged in an auto accident.

WARDS PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

1. PREMATURE TREAD WEAR-OUT

   If a Montgomery Ward passenger tire wears down to the top of the tread wear indicators (to 2/32" tread depth) within the period of months or number of miles stated for a given quality of tire, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge determined by the months or miles of use, whichever serves as basis for the guarantee.

   Premature tread wear-out due to malfunction of the suspension system is excluded.

2. DEFECTS AND ROAD HAZARD DAMAGE

   If a Montgomery Ward tire fails due to defects in materials or workmanship or due to road hazard damage (excluding repairable punctures or damage due to accidents) during the original tread life (to 2/32" tread depth), Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge based on tread wear received.

All prorated charges will be based on actual selling price in effect at the time of adjustment at the retail store to which returned or the catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case, including Federal Excise Tax.

For adjustments under this guarantee, return tire with the guarantee booklet issued at the time of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

*Commercial use is defined as use on any vehicle for other than family or personal use.

- Due to the importance of proper vehicle maintenance in delivering stated mileage, Montgomery Ward will rotate tires purchased at retail or catalog stores having installation facilities free of charge, every 5,000 miles. Wheel alignment and wheel balance may be checked at that time.
- Montgomery Ward will repair nail punctures free of charge for the full term of the tread wear-out guarantee.

WARDS PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

1. PREMATURE TREAD WEAR-OUT

   If a Montgomery Ward passenger tire wears down to the top of the tread wear indicators (to 2/32" tread depth) within the period of months or number of miles stated for a given quality of tire, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge determined by the months or miles of use, whichever serves as basis for the guarantee.

   Premature tread wear-out due to malfunction of the suspension system is excluded.

2. DEFECTS AND ROAD HAZARD DAMAGE

   If a Montgomery Ward tire fails due to defects in materials or workmanship or due to road hazard damage (excluding repairable punctures or damage due to accidents) during the original tread life (to 2/32" tread depth), Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge based on tread wear received.

All prorated charges will be based on actual selling price in effect at the time of adjustment at the retail store to which returned or the catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case, including Federal Excise Tax.

For adjustments under this guarantee, return tire with the guarantee booklet issued at the time of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

*Commercial use is defined as use on any vehicle for other than family or personal use.

- Due to the importance of proper vehicle maintenance in delivering stated mileage, Montgomery Ward will rotate tires purchased at retail or catalog stores having installation facilities free of charge, every 5,000 miles. Wheel alignment and wheel balance may be checked at that time.
- Montgomery Ward will repair nail punctures free of charge for the full term of the tread wear-out guarantee.
